Fuel shortage may chill Yule; but experts not sure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Santa Claus' reindeer don't use gasoline but the fuel crisis still may put a damper on Christmas.

The shortage could hurt Christmas shopping sales if things get worse in the next two or three weeks according to executives in selected department stores queried in UPI's annual shopping outlook survey.

Already it has made a difference. Many Yule lighting displays are out. Some stores will be dimmed after dark, although they will be open.

Instead of the traditional luxuries and fripperies, Christmas gift purchases are expected to run heavily to sweaters and warm clothing and to games and home entertainment items such as record players and TV sets because many people expect to stay home more than in past winters.

Experts in national merchandising have been predicting Christmas sales this year would exceed last year's by 8 to 10 per cent. Gimbel's president Paul A. Salomone said he would be delighted but surprised if things turned out that well in New York. "I expect a more modest increase," he said.

Two other large New York department stores. Bloomingdale's and Lord & Taylor, took much the same stand.

Some price cutting was noted in New York stores along with special sales for charge customers.

Boston store managers said they haven't yet seen any clear buying trend for this Christmas except for warmer clothing. Charles Colar, manager of Filene's children's department, said parents are stocking up on warm sleepwear for kids.

Merchandise managers in New Hampshire and Maine expected good sales increases. Howland's in Concord, N.H., predicted a 15 per cent rise. The Sears, Roebuck and Mammoth Mart chains in Maine also forecast gains but on a much more modest scale.

In Philadelphia, Mar Fisher, of Strawbridge & Clothier, said, "If business continues as it has been we'll have a very good Christmas. He said color television receivers are selling well. Both Wanamaker's and Gimbel's in Philadelphia said Yule sales will be as successful as last year or more so.

Marjory Windt of the Garfinckel chain in Washington said Christmas prospects are excellent with such odd items as a $500 silver-plated crab and a $350 solid brass teacart already selling well.

Chairman Harold Brockey of Rich's, Atlanta's largest store, said even though November sales have leveled off, Christmas business should exceed last year's by 6 to 7 per cent. Robert Regenstein, head of Atlanta's century-old Regenstein department store, saw a 10 per cent increase over last Christmas. Other Georgia stores, including Kessler's in Atlanta, Cullum's in Augusta and Vick's in Columbus predicted gains of 5 to 10 per cent.

Higbee's in Cleveland, said only another interntional crisis could interfere with good Christmas sales in its area. But the company said deliveries of all except the bulkiest and heaviest merchandise are being discouraged to save gasoline.

The huge Hudson store chain headquartered in Detroit agreed with forecasts that sales this Christmas will be up 8 to 10 per cent.

But for the first time Hudson's has no huge Yule tree outside its main store and all lighting is subdued. Crowley's department store in Detroit was less confident, but General Manger Dick Baker said sales would be at least as good as last year.

Louis Goldblatt, head of the moderate-priced Chicago department store chain, expects total sales to be ahead of last year's, although not equal to the 16 per cent gain his store enjoyed in the first half of this year. Sears, Roebucc predicted a 9 per cent gain in Chicago. Marshall Field, the city's biggest store, also said prospects are excellent.

Stix, Baer & Fuller, the St. Louis department store, expects a moderate increase over last year. It also reported a brisk demand for home entertainment merchandise and attributed it the belief of many people that they may have to stay home more this winter.

Downtown stores in New Orleans said sales will be about the same as last year but the addition of new branch stores may increase total Christmas sales 6 or 7 per cent. The D.H. Holmes store, one of the largest, said it expected "a strong Christmas season."

Joske's in Houston said simply, "we're expecting a larger Christmas than last year" and added "the most noticeable trend is a big demand for fine sweaters. Obviously mny are being bought for gifts."

Los Angeles store managers think sales would be close to those of last Christmas. General Manager Philip Egan of Ohrbach's said the only effect of the fuel shortage in southern California probably would be an unprecedented demand for thermal underwear, blankets and heavier clothing.

Nixon to tell plan to fight fuel crisis

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on nationwide television this afternoon to announce "some pretty strong, tough actions" to cope with growing fuel shortages, including a possible ban on Sunday gasoline sales and rationing of home heating oil.

Nixon announced his plan for a brief address to the nation midway through an hour-long meeting Saturday morning with White House energy chief John A. Love and domestic counselor Melvin R. Laird. The speech will begin at 4 PST.

Reliable sources indicated that among the restrictions Nixon had decided to impose were Sunday closings of gasoline stations to discourage weekend driving, and mandatory rationing of heating oil for homes and businesses.

No heavy tax

He was not expected to order rationing or a heavy new tax on gasoline, but sources said he might also act to shorten business hours at shopping centers and to make mandatory the 50 mile-per-hour speed limit he asked motorists to observe voluntarily nearly two weeks ago.

Chatting with Love during a picture-taking session in his White House office, Nixon said: "The weather has been on our side until this, but not enough to avoid some pretty strong, tough action we are going to have to take on Monday."

Americans warned

The President said he wanted to forewarn Americans "how everybody must cooperate so they can avoid any suffering — but everybody is going to have to do some sacrificing in order to handle the energy crisis."

Love withheld details until a briefing for reporters today in advance of Nixon's speech. It was learned that the President's advisers had recommended cutting heating oil allocations to home owners by 15 per cent and to commercial businesses by as much as 25 per cent.

Sources said a ban on weekend gasoline sales would extend from 9 p.m. Saturdays to midnight Sundays.

After his conference with Love and Laird, the President met for about 40 minutes with Bryce Harlow, his chief of congressional relations, presumably to review the prospects for quick passage of legislation giving him sweeping energy-conserving authority. An emergency energy bill already has cleared the Senate and could win House approval next week.

Nixon, who returned from Camp David, Md., late Friday night for the conferences, flew back to his Maryland mountain retreat by helicopter shortly after noon Saturday to rejoin his family for the long holiday weekend.

Accompanying him was his close friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, who had stayed overnight at the White House with Nixon.

The President was clearly concerned about critical expected oil shortages in the Northeast. Chatting with Love about the weather, he asked at one point, "How's the Northeast?"

"Not too bad yet," Love replied, "but a real cold winter could magnify it."

It was understood that the Cabinet-level energy task force was still considering the possibility of gasoline rationing, but only as a last resort contingency.

Nixon's final decisions came after intensive consultations with government exports about the most effective and least disruptive ways to compensate for the cutoff of Middle East oil shipments. In his last address to the nation Nov. 7, the President predicted oil supplies would fall more than 2 million barrels a day short of domestic demands this winter.

Scuba divers still stranded in Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Saturday negotiations were under way to attempt to return to the United States 16 scuba divers who were forced to land in Cuba on Thanksgiving due to a breakdown of their airplane's equipment.

But Paul Hare, the department spokesman, would not verify earlier reports that the Cuban government was asking for $11,000 in return for the Americans and the aircraft.

Earlier in the day, Norris Bryan, president of the company that chartered the twinengine Lockheed glodestar airplane for the group of scuba diving enthusiasts, said he had been notified by the State Department that Cuba was asking for $11,000, reportedly the cost of repairs on the aircraft.

Workouts start for Ted Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's 12-year-old son, whose right leg was amputated above the knee a week ago, is in excellent spirits and busy undergoing physical therapy, a spokesman for Georgetown University Hospital said Saturday.

Edward M. Kennedy Jr. was working out on parallel bars and crutches. His doctors were confident that the operation last Saturday had succeeded in halting the spread of bone cancer discovered in his lower right leg.

"His spirits are excellent," the spokesman said. "His overall medical condition is satisfactory."

Dr. Philip Caper, who examined the boy Tuesday, said afterwards there was an "excellent chance" the amputation of his leg had arrested the cancer.

"We are working on the assumption that the cancer has not spread," Dr. Caper said, "and that no future treatment is indicated."

Young Teddy, an athletic, blond seventh-grader, began using the parallel bars Monday when he walked for the first time since his hour-long surgery.

Henry Aldridge actor dies at 40

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Ellis, who played the teen-ager Henry Aldridge in the radio and television series and received a special certificate in 1948 for his performance as a child actor, died of kidney failure at the age of 40, a spokesman said Saturday.

Ellis, a former actor, writer, and producer, died Friday morning at the John Wesley Hospital after being in a coma for six days, according to the spokesman.

The boyish-looking Ellis portrayed the 17-year-old character Aldridge in the series made famous by the opening lines, "Henry . . . Henry Aldridge . . . Coming, Mother." He was 23 at the time.

Donrey announces 2 promotions

Fred W. Smith, executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Donrey Media Group, has announced two major promotions within the company.

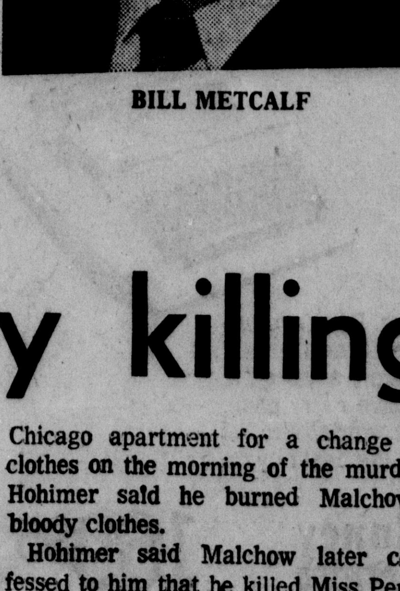
Bill Metcalf, general manager of Donrey's Ontario Daily Report, has been appointed vice president of Donrey's Western Newspaper Division.

Smith also named Jay Holmes, advertising director of The Daily Report to the position of general manager of that newspaper, succeeding Metcalf.

Metcalf will supervise nine newspapers in the Western Division, including the Carmel Pinecone and the Carmel Valley Outlook in Carmel, the Daily Report in Ontario, the Progress-Bulletin in Pomona, the Red Bluff Daily News, the Carson City, Nev., Appeal, the Ely, Nev., Daily Times, the Las Vegas, Nev., Review-Journal and the Aberdeen, Wash., Daily World.

Other duties

He also will supervise the Bonita Publishing Co., in Montclair, publisher of six community newspaper: the Diamond Bar-Walnut Bulletin, the La Verne Leader, San Dimas Press, Upland News, Montclair Tribune and Cucamonga Times.



BILL METCALF

In making the announcement, Smith said, "I am sure that Bill Metcalf will do an outstanding job as vice president.

"He has always been one of Southern California's top newspapermen and his experience will greatly benefit Donrey's Western Newspaper Division."

Metcalf will be based in Pomona and will maintain his office in the Progress-Bulletin building.

Metcalf, who has lived in the Pomona-Ontario area all his life, began his newspaper career in 1948 with the Upland News.

In 1949, he became a sales trainee at the Pomona Progress-Bulletin. He later was promoted to salesman and then advertising manager.

General manager

In 1965, Metcalf became advertising director for both the Progress-Bulletin and the Daily Report. In 1968, following Donrey's purchase of the two newspapers, Metcalf was promoted to general manager of the Daily Report.

Metcalf long has been active in the community, and has been president of the Old Baldy Boy Scout Council and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Because of his wide experience in newspaper publishing, he recently was named to the board of directors of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Holmes, new general manager at the Daily Report, has the longest tenure of any employe at the newspaper. He began as an apprentice printer in 1946 and was promoted to advertising salesman in 1963.

In 1968, he became advertising manager and in 1972 he was promoted to advertising director.

Holmes is a former member of the Ontario Parks and Recreation Commission, and a member of the Kiwanis Club and the California Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.

Donald W. Reynolds is president and chief executive officer of The Donrey Media Group which owns 47 newspapers, radio and television stations and outdoor advertising companies.

Daughter of senator slain 7 years ago

Two men linked to Percy killing

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two members of a gang of housebreakers were linked Saturday to the unsolved slaying of Valerie Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., seven years ago, the Chicago Sun-Times reported.

In a copyrighted story, the newepaper named the two men as: Francis L. Hohimer, 46, a burglar now serving a 30-year sentence at the Iowa State Penitentiry in Fort Madison, Iowa, and Frederick Malchow, an accomplice of Hohimer, who died in 1967 after he escaped from authorities and plunged into the Schuylkill River near Norristown, Pa.

Miss Percy, 21, died after being hit on the head twice and stabbed 10 times in the senator's home in suburbn Kenilworth, Ill., early Sunday, Sept. 18, 1966. Police have failed to discover her murderer despite questioning as many as 10,000 persons, following up countless leads and checking out the false confessions of 11 men.

Hohimer was accued of being Miss Percy's assailant in statements given the Sun-Times by Hohimer's brother Harold Wayne Hohimer, and crime syndicate figure Leo Rugendorf, a known fence for stolen jewelry. Rugendorf died in 1972 after telling two Sun-Times reporters that Hohimer said he killed Miss Percy.

Hohimer flatly denied he killed the girl when confronted at the Iowa prison, the newspaper reported, and instead accused Frederick Malchow of the crime.

He said a bloodied Malchow, along with two other gang members, Harold J. (Jimmy) Evans, 28, and William Jackson, 39, came to his North Side Chicago apartment for a change of clothes on the morning of the murder. Hohimer said he burned Malchow's bloody clothes.

Hohimer said Malchow later confessed to him that he killed Miss Percy but gave no details.

"All I know is that he admitted killing her and he thought it was a joke because he'd never get caught. He just figured he would never go down on that rap," Hohimer told the Sun-Times.

Hohimer said he was prepared to take a lie detector test to show his own innocence.

Sex killer of 19 women sought by Mexico police

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police assigned 50 special agents Saturday to the search for a sex killer who has raped and strangled 19 women.

Authorities said they have almost no leads to the identity of the "Naucalpan strangler."

"Women here have started to panic," said a police spokesman.

Police renewed their drive to track down the maniac after a pretty secretary, Victoria Leon, 20, became the 19th rape-murder victim of the strangler early Friday. Her partially nude, beaten body was found floating in a water cistern.

All the women have been slain in suburban communities around Mexico City. Police dubbed the slayer the "Naucalpan strangler" because a number of his early victims lived in the western Mexico City suburb of Naucalpan.

Police said they were investigating three possible suspects, including a 23-year old youth identified as Miss Leon's boyfriend. But sources close to the investigation said it was doubtful that any of the three young men being questioned was linked to the Leon slaying or to any of the earlier murders.

Police said there were unconfirmed reports that the strangler at times dresses as a woman, so as to be able to approach his victims without alarm.

Reports of an unrelated attempted rape in another nearby uburban comminity, Atizapan de Zaragoza, Friday provoked new concern there and heightened speculation about the theory, supported by some investigators, that the "strangler" is not one person but several.

An unidentified 18-year-old girl was reportedly rescued by police from being raped by a 15-year-old youth.

FIRE LEAVES 5 HOMELESS

A blaze traced to a short circuit in a back porch forced Mrs. Patricia Ross and her four children to flee their two-story home at 462 E. Arrow Hwy., Upland, shortly before 9 a.m. Saturday. The Upland Fire Department, only two blocks away, controlled the fire quickly, but the house is a total loss. One child, Margaret, 7, was treated for smoke inhalation at San Antonio Community Hospital, Capt. Don Morton reports.

But city still under martial law

Military lifts Athen's curfew

ATHENS (UPI) — Military authorities Saturday lifted the Athens curfew imposed during last weekend's abortive rebellion which left 12 persons dead and caused more than $3.5 million in damages, but the nation remained under martial law.

Government sources said Public Order Minister Panayotis Therapos resigned and was replaced by retired Gen. Vassilios Tsoumbas, who had been public order minister in the former militry government of President George Papadopoulos.

Sources close to the regime said Therapos resigned immediately after the bloody rebellion put down by army tanks but was asked to remain until Saturday.

No official explanation was given for the resignation.

Continuing a gradual move toward normal life in the ancient capital, martial law commander Gen. Dimitrios Zagorianakos lifted the curfew and allowed theaters to resume plays.

The Sunday soccer matches still were banned, however, and the Greek Soccer Federation asked permission to resume the national soccer championships Wednesday.

Spyros Zournadzis, the deputy to the prime minister, told a mid-afternoon news conference that estimated losses were "in the hundreds of millions drchmas (at least $3.5 million) in public and private property in the weekend rebellion.

"It is characteristic that one of the police stations, the 8th, gives a figure of 80 million drachmas ($2.9 million) in public and private shops, cars, banks and so on," he said.

The 8th police station is in the area of the Athens polytechnic school —center of the uprising.

Zournadzis said 302 persons were being held as of Saturday in Athens military and police headquarters in connection with the student-worker rebellion, but arrests and investigations were continuing.

"We are now doing what any other police would do in an analogous case," Zournadzis said. "We are continuing the investigation."

Viet truce violations increase; 100 on both sides die in fight

SAIGON (UPI) — Truce violations rose to the highest total in a month Saturday and nearly 100 persons on both sides died in the fighting, the South Vietnamese military command reported.

Lt. Col. Le Tring Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, reported 111 cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at noon today. It was the highest such total since Oct. 24, when there were 120 in the corresponding period

Hien listed 53 Communists, 34 government soldiers and 11 civilians killed in the fighting. He said 190 government troops and six civilians were wounded and four government soldiers and 32 civilians were missing. All the battles were small skirmishes.

He announced that 12 soldiers and nine civilians were wounded in Friday's rocket attack against Pleiku Air Base in the western Central Highlands, 230 miles northeast of Saigon. Hien said the 19 rockets also damaged a C7 Caribou transport plane, three trucks and two buildings. Military sources said the Caribou was destroyed along with two fire trucks.

In neighboring Cambodia, the government drive to recapture strategic Highway 4 stalled Saturday in face of extremely heavy rebel mortar fire and ground fighting, UPI field reporters said.

The reporters said government troops under a constant shower of mortar fire adanced only about 100 yards from the positions they captured Friday about a mile south of Mohasaing, 36 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Snake bite victim 'out of danger'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A 15-year-old youth was declared "out of danger" Saturday less than two days after being bitten by a deadly Asian cobra in the basement of his home.

Carmen Hicks, described by his father as an "aspiring zoologist," was admitted to Einstein Medical Center Thursday after being bitten on the thumb while removing venom from the snake.

Girls begging for 'nun'

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Police reported Saturday the arrest of a 64-year-old woman who pretended to be a Roman Catholic nun and ran an orphanage which turned to be the front for a large-scale begging operation.

Police said the woman, whom they identified as Ana Perez Bustamante, forced the girl inmates of her "orphanage" to go out on the streets to beg alms and kept the profits of the operation for herself.

Mrs. Bustamante called herself "missionary sister serf of the Holy Lord" and used a black nun's habit, police said.

Her "orphanage" was filthy and rats ran rampant through the premises. Police also said she locked the girls up at night in dark rooms and whipped them occasionally to keep discipline.

Suffered stroke

Ben-Gurion losing his fight for life

TEL AVIV (UPI) — David Ben-Gurion, the 87-year-old former prime minister who helped lead Israel to nationhood, took a turn for the worse Saturday in his fight to recover from stroke, the national radio said.

The broadcast said Ben-Gurion's blood pressure and pulse dropped during the night and that his condition was deteriorating from complications following the cerebral hemorrhage last Sunday.

Ben-Gurion was reported in serious condition most of the week, but Thursday his doctors said he was improving.

Dr. Boleslaw Goldman, Ben-Gurion's personal physician, was unvailable for comment on the white-haired former prime minister's condition.

Hospital officials said informtion about him woild be available later Saturday.

Ben-Gurion was rushed to Tel Hashomer hospital six days ago with what doctors described at the time as a "mild stroke."

They said it paralyzed his right side, but that Ben-Gurion never lost consciousness and received a steady stream of visitors, including his family, Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Ben-Gurion has had a series of illnesses in the past several years that doctors said resulted from his advanced age.

Ben-Gurion, born David Green, emigrated from his native Poland to what was then Palestine in 1905.

In a stuffy, hot room of the old Tel Aviv museum, he proclaimed the creation of Israel May 14, 1948 and became its first prime minister and defense minister.

He conducted Israel's first war wtih the Arabs and led the nation for a total of 12 years, his term in office broken only by a three year retirement in the mid-1950s.

With his permanent retirement in 1963, Ben-Gurion moved to the Sde Boker collective settlement in the Negev desert. He turned 87 on Oct. 16, 10 days after Israel's fourth war with the Arabs broke out.

Cancer victim can't use sick leave of others

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A park district attorney has ruled that 70 employes cannot legally transfer their sick leave to a co-worker dying of cancer.

Sick leave cannot be given to someone else, attorney Tom Hyde of the East Bay Regional Park District said, citing provisions of the state constitution.

Sylvain H. Mahler, a district gardener who has one year to live with a malignant neck tumor, had been offered more than 1,000 hours of sick leave by 70 district employers.

Mahler had used all but 19 hours of his own sick leave due to weakness caused by cobalt treatments and coworkers said his family, including two children, was short of money.

Mahler, a 16-year employe, said he would return to work Dec. 3 and stay as long as he is able.

Jennie Tourel, soprano, dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jennie Tourel, the Canadian-born mezzo soprano who was an international star of opera and solo recitals and performed up until last month despite treatment for lung cancer, died Friday night at the age of 63.

'River Kwai's' Japanese star dies in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese-born actor best remembered for his role as the swaggering prison camp commandant in the film "The Bridge on the River Kwai," died Saturday after a lengthy illness. He was 83.

A spokesman at Kyoundo hospital said the cause of death was softening of the brain complicated by pneumonia.

In the movie, "The Bridge on the River Kwai," a World War II story of life of a British battalion in a Japnese POW camp in Thailand, Havakawa played opposite British actor Alec Guinness, the commander of the Allied prisoners.

Hayakawa came to the United States from Japan when he was a young man to study political economy at the University of Chicago. He arrived in Hollywood in 1916 and within year he was a star.

Family travels on its stomach

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Eating out with the kids — what fun, what excitement . . . what a drag.

The wise parents of four or five young sprouts (a contradiction in terms) do not rashly march the tribe into cafes and restaurants — Bob's Burgers, Harry's Hot Dogs, Pedro's Pastrami Palace. It is much easier and safer, when wheeling your station wagon snake pit of ravenous and unruly moppets along the highway to drive into one of those In-and-Out Burger places or Basket of Chicken at the Curb for Chicken Parents.

Some young Mommies and Daddies, unwary and unwise, will take the kids to a restaurant, especially if they are on a vacation trip and holed up in a motel in some strange city (where the owner already regrets accepting them .

Then the local resident, munching thoughtfully on the blue-plate special (breaded veal cutlet) is treated to a circus of shouts, screams, crashes, slaps and wails rivaling "Hellzapoppin." Older (and wiser) parents at nearby tables view the carnival with amused indulgence, recognizing it, remembering all too well, envious of the young couple and their round-cheeked slobbering young, but happy it's all in the past.

The average family entering a quiet coffee shop is like an invasion from outer space. Bill and Tim, relieved to be out of the car after a six-hour journey, slug each other, steal matches from the counter, knock over the gum ball machine, and generally act as if they were already home. Sally missed her nap and is wailing fretfully, and little Jimmy is shrilling the announcement that he is hungry and needs changing.

Everyone gets cheeseburgers and Coke. Safe enough, you say? Never traveled with kids, have you? Bill pours catsup on Daddy's shirt; Tim spills French fries into his lap; Sally knocks over Mommy's coffee. Little Jimmy, having thrown up, has fallen asleep in his chair, a half-gummed zwieback in one shubby fist.

The little family has only been in the restaurant half an hour, but it has seemed like two hours to Mommy and Daddy and six hours to the other diners. (Tweve hours to the waitress.)

And out they go, shouting, falling down, breaking things (Daddy leaves an extra large tip), and off into the station wagon for another jaunt down the highway, reading comic books and fighting, until it is time again to swing in and terrorize some unsuspecting cafe.

On the whole, the proprietors would prefer Hell's Angels,

Boy admits love by mail, not by phone

By JEAN ADAMS

LOVE WORDS: (Q.) David and I are very close although he lives in Pennsylvania and I see him only about three weeks out of the year.

When he writes me he always says how he loves me a real lot. But when he calls me up, which is about once a week, he never even mentions the word "love." How am I supposed to know if he really does love me? —Wondering in Connecticut.

(A.) When David writes you he can be alone and put down the words. When he calls, some member of his family may be listening. You should listen to his letters.

HELPING: (Q.) I want to help people. I want to do some useful job. But I am just 14 and I know I can't get a paying job before I am 16.

This summer I wanted to be a candy striper in a hospital. My mother wouldn't let me. She thinks that no one should work free in a place that has enough money to pay you.

I told her the money wasn't important. I wanted to HELP. —Willing in Connecticut.

(A.) I'm with you. Keep looking for a volunteer job that your mother will agree upon. She should consider the experience and the feeling of achievement and worth you will get out of working to help others.

Gas shortage threat

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — Judy Allen, 28, uses less than a gallon of gasoline a week, but she says the fuel shortage could put her out of work.

Judy, a professional fire eater, is due to begin a week's theater booking soon. But garages have banned the supply of gasoline in cans in a bid to stop motorists from stockpiling.

"Two garages have refused to fill a container for me," she said Thursday. "I need petrol (gas) for my act."

Oceanside 'farms' may soon produce sea foods

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Delicacies of the sea will soon come from oceanside "farms" that are sprouting up along the California coast.

With pollution and population causing a depletion of the once abundant shellfish, scientists have turned to the controlled environment for producing seafood dishes.

Experiments show that even San Francisco's gastronomical delight, the Dungeness Crab, may soon be making a comeback — growing up in cages.

With prices going up and quantity going down, the farming of abalone, clams, oysters and scallops is simply good business, according to Dougald H. Thamer, general manager of International Shellfish Enterprises (ISE).

Thamer says ISE's indoor warm water plant at Monterey Bay could promote animal growth at nearly twice the speed of natural development in the Pacific.

"Our products will be the same size as natural sea-grown shellfish and their meat quality and taste will not differ," says Thamer, whose firm expects to have 5 million oysters and 1.5 million clams ready to market by the end of next year.

How to cultivate the unpredictable Dungeness Crab has been the study of James P. Welsh, a professor of fisheries at Humboldt State University. After four years of experiments at Eureka, Welsh believes the commercial growing of crabs is just around the corner.

California's crab catch, according to the State Department of Fish and Game, has dropped from 18.2 million in 1957 to 2.5 million in the past two years. This year's harvest is expected to be even less. With the declining arvest, the price of crab has skyrocketed.

Welsh has found that crabs can be raised by varying the diet and feeding schedules and allowing each crustacean nearly two square feet of room to prevent cannibalism.

Raising crabs, says Welsh, would provide edible results as much as six weeks before the ocean crab season begins in late November. His Eureka project shows that 7,800 crabs could be grown in cages 100 yards long and 100 yards wide.

In Santa Rosa, a firm has developed a facility to raise abalone in record time. The soupbowl shaped delicacy has been seen less and less in the past few years clinging to rocks in 7-foot depths.

"I used to be able to get my limit (five) around Fort Bragg all the time," said Gene Templeton, a skindiver from Santa Rosa. "Now they're just not around or you have to dive in rougher, deeper water to find them." He blamed the decrease on pollution and too many people disturbing the fragile tidal areas.

Joe Damato, skipper of a crab boat at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, said the crabs, too, have gone because of "all the garbage they're throwing into the bay...and acid, too."

"Nobody was listening," said Vince Spadero, another crab boat operator, "when fishermen started finding dead crab in their crab pots 10 years ago."

Although crab farming may be a ways in the future, other seafood products, according to ISE, should soon be reaching the dinner table direct from commercial growers.

ISE President William D. Sauers said advanced scientific processes at Moss Landing, including the use of warm water discharged from Pacific Gas & Electric Company's "Mighty Moe" power plant, can greatly accelerate marine growth.

Clams and scallops that reach maturity in four or five years under normal ocean conditions, said Sauers, will mature in about 18 months at the ISE facility.

Oysters will be ready for consumption in one year to 15 months compared to four years in the ocean, and abalone will be ready for the market in 12 to 15 months, instead of seven years in a natural environment, he said.

Here's definition of the 'good life' in future America

Editor's Note: This is the ninth of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is resident fellow at the Center for Studies of the Person, La Jolla, Calif. Herein he discusses many issues concerned with what we call "the good life."

By CARL R. ROGERS

Distributed by Copley News Service.

From my experience with young people, with individuals in encounter groups, and in psychotherapy, I have become convinced that we are working out a new definition of the good life. I want to give you my perception of this new goal as I see it emerging in our country, and perhaps in Western culture generally.

But first let me remind you that this has always been a debatable issue for mankind. The "good life" has had very different meanings for different groups and in different ages. For some it has meant a life given over to meditation—the holy man on the mountaintop. In sharp contrast, to others it has meant a life of achievement—gaining wealth, status, knowledge or power.

For many it has meant strict adherence to a creed, a set of rules or principles—whether found in the Bible, the Koran or emanating from a religious leader. For still others it has meant selfless dedication to a cause outside of themselves—Christian missionary work, communism or Hitler's German youth. For some it has been the indulgence of every pleasurable appetite, with the slogan "Eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die."

These examples indicate that the "good life" is not some known, fixed, timeless goal, the same for all, but is a matter of choice.

I trust that this quick review will cause you to be thoughtly critical as you read what follows, which is my perception of the good life as I see more and more people defining it today. What I say is not based on scholarly or philosophical abstractions. It is based on years of intimate acquaintance with the inner life of others as they have willingly exposed their inmost desires in personal discussions, in the close relationship of therapy and in the intimacy of encounter groups.

To an ever increasing number of people the desire which is strongest can be stated in this way: "I want to be a process in which I am becoming my deepest, truest self."

Note that the desire is to become a process.

It is not a desire to achieve a fixed state—whether a state of happiness, or wealth or even oneness with the universe. Continual change is the essence of the goal. This is certainly in line with the trend of today's culture, which is toward ever-accelerating change, brought about by the incredible (and often frightening) advances in our technology.

But it is perhaps the first time in history that personal goals have embodied changingness as a primary element. In individual living, in man-woman relationships, even in our place of living, we expect change and process to be central. Let me express it in personal terms: "I do not expect to be the same person a year from now that I am today; nor do I expect my marriage to be the same; and I am not sure that I will be living in the same home."

Gone are the days when people married "and lived happily ever after."

Gone are the days when a man worked at the same task in the same place for all his active life. Gone are the days when the rules of behavior and the standards of morality remained fixed and certain throughout one's life. All is in flux, and we are accommodating to this by choosing to be — as individuals — an adaptive, relativistic process, rather than an unchanging self.

But clearly a process must move in some direction. What are the directions which help to define, for many, the meaning of the good life? Several directions seem to stand out.

In the first place I have found that when the individual is free to choose the kind of process person he wants to be, he opts for movement toward an openness to all of his experience.

Let me explain. We are continually experiencing — the changes in our bodily processes, our feelings, our thoughts, all the multitude of flow which goes on within our skin. We are also experiencing the continuously altering stimuli from our outer environment — not only the physical environment, but the social as well — the slight snub from this person, the envy of that one, the love of another, the frightening domination of someone in authority. We are becoming highly aware persons, conscious of these multiple pulls and prods. We are also becoming aware of our feelings — the resentment, the fear, the affection, the anger, the jealousy — any one of which may be uppermost in any given moment.

As we are more aware of these changing reactions, we are also more willing to take the risk of expressing them when we feel it appropriate — and increasingly we take the chance that it is appropriate.

Hence, many people today are choosing to be more open to their experience, with all the discomfort that that involves, for it is not easy to recognize that you are jealous of a colleague when you "should" be approving of him, or that you are angry at your wife when you "should" be feeling love.

This means that a growing number are deeply opposed to sham, to hyprocrisy, to wearing a facade. We feel contempt for political leaders who say one thing and act very differently; we do not easily tolerate the teacher who wears the mask of an instructor all day, putting it off only when leaving the classroom; we are skeptical of marriages that are always "peachy-keen," hiding the tensions underneath.

This is truly an enormous change when we consider that many people, and a number of cultures, live entirely in terms of "keeping face" — presenting a correct but false facade to the world, no matter how much innter turmoil is being concealed. Instead we are choosing to move — and it is a slow and lifetime task — toward being more aware of, and more openly expressive of, any persistent inner reaction, whether the world regards it as positive or negative constructive or destructive. We believe that even destructive impulses if expressed when they first occur, rather than being compressed by repression, will be healthy in the long run.

A second direction I perceive is toward a greater trust in one's own self. In a sense this is implied in what I have said.

The emerging modern individual places his confidence not in society's norms, nor religion's rules, nor parent's dictates, but in his own changing experience as it occurs within himself. He is, in a very deep sense, his own highest authority. He chooses his own way.

This does not mean that he is sure he will make no mistakes. Quite the contrary. But as he finds that the consequences of his choices are not rewarding, he has within his own experience the data to reorder his direction. He can modify his errors more easily because he is not acting in terms of some supposedly infallible external guide, but in terms of his own inner reactions which he knows to be fallible and only approximate in their accuracy. So it is not so devastating to admit, "This choice was mistaken. I see now, with such openness as I have been able to achieve, that another course is preferable."

Thus the guide of conduct is the ever changing flow of inner experience. The person gradually develops an increasing trust in his own capacity for making choices. He is less and less guided by "You ought to —" and "You should —" as these exhortations flood in from the cxternal world. He takes them into account as data conveying society's wishes, but he is not

A LESSON IN THE FINE POINTS

Danbury students finding ways to beat handicaps

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The youngster positioned her wheelchair behind the foul line, adjusted the bowling ball ramp to her liking and, with the aid of her physical education teacher, she rolled the shiny black ball towards the pins.

Nicky Lebron cheered as her ball hit the Garey Center Bowl pins and Miss Pat Reedy, her teacher, smiled.

Bowling is one of the most popular activities enjoyed by the older children at Danbury School. With the aid of a bowling ramp donated to the school by Miss Reedy, Danbury School physical education instructor, everyone can play regardless of physical disability. Bowling alley manager Lee Fenton sets aside a pair of lanes every Tuesday afternoon. The girls bowl one week, the boys the next.

Miss Reedy designed the ramp and had it custom-made so that it can be aimed at the pins by a student either standing or sitting. The ramp enables the child without sufficient arm and hand strength to enjoy the sport and challenge of the game along with those who bowl in the conventional manner.

After each bowling session, the students enjoy refreshments in the coffee shop. Different ones attend each session, so that everyone has an opportunity to participate.

The Danbury physical education program was initiated during the fall of 1972 by Principal Leonard Gaylord, and is continuing to enjoy success under new Principal Guy Warfel.

The program has been received enthusiastically by every age group, ranging from 3 to 15, at Danbury. Each child participates daily.

The program includes motor skills for the younger children, rhythms and dance, table games, self-testing activities to develop hand-eye coordination, and outdoor sports such as football, kick ball, and softball.

The wheelchair-bound child participates in everything. He bats in softball and he either designates a base runner or the instructor or teacher assistant pushes him around the bases.

Archery also is offered on a carefully controlled basis and ranks with bowling in popularity.

Younger children also enjoy the swimming program inaugurated last year. A number of parents assist in the pool at the Crippled Children's Society, on Indian Hill Boulevard.

The entire program is designed and presented to promote development of an adequate self-concept within each child. "It is important that the student come to realize what he can do," commented Miss Reedy, whose aim is to provide opportunities for leadership experiences and development of a sense of personal responsibility.

Miss Reedy sees that a happy, relaxed atmosphere pervades each class session, and, as a result of many imaginative and creative approaches to learning movement skills, the children are growing toward a more full enjoyment of a life which casts no shadow because of mental or physical disability.

DRAWING A BEAD

Action Line

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Neighborhood cleaned up before investigators come

The area in which I live is zoned by the City of Pomona as suitable for professional and administrative use. However, the people at one home seem to be trying to destroy any suitability it might have for such use or even to live in.

They park as many as eight cars and trucks overnight on the front and side lawns. There is an old rickety bus parked in front of the house in which someone lives or at least sleeps, practically on the sidewalk.

A couple of vicious dogs terrorize the neighborhood. No one dared to walk past the house. The backyard is full of chickens, roosters, dogs and rabbits. It is charmingly rural but hardly sanitary and certainly not conducive to sleep.

I tried to talk to city officials about this. There are laws but apparently they are advisory only and no one has to obey them if he doesn't wish.

After a particularly annoying session of dogs and running of motors, my wife called police. They promised to send a man out to investigate. Apparently he is still investigating. — P.H., Pomona.

Informed of your complaints by Action Line, Jerrold R. Gonce, city administrator, turned them over to the city's community development office. Members of that office made an on-the-spot investigation of your charges.

They reported there were only three automobiles and a converted bus on the property at the time of the investigation. The bus was converted into a motor home and was properly licensed for such use. It was parked on the back driveway, not in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Investigators found only two dogs, both friendly, and the backyard contained no animals whatsoever. The property next door, however, did have four chickens in a small pen.

As for your comment about laws being only advisory, Gonce states there are rigid restrictions relative to the keeping of animals or fowl in residential property areas and these ordinances are fully enforced when violations are brought to the city government's attention.

You say that things are better than they were when you wrote to us. You report that:

1. The old bus that used to be parked in front has been moved around to the back.
2. The roosters and the rabbits have been taken away.
3. No longer are two or three cars parked on the front lawn at one time.
4. The place has been generally cleaned up. Trash has been taken off the front porch, the railings have been fixed and lawns have been watered.

Perhaps word of your intense unhappiness about the situation got around before the investigators did.

My 89-year-old retired high school teacher of French lives in Switzerland.

Through the years we have sent her books to read in English which she finds hard to get in Europe. She has been very appreciative but recently she asked us to send a special book which was her childhood favorite and which she would like to re-read. It is "Aunt Diana" by Cary.

We have looked high and low for this book. We thought you or some of your readers may know where we can get a copy which we would like to send to her for her 90th birthday in January. Please help us make an old lady very happy. — H. C., Claremont.

"Aunt Diana" isn't one of our acquaintances. We would like to meet her since she has been pleasantly remembered by your former teacher all these years.

Pomona Library reports the book is no longer in print.

Our readers are sympathetic, knowing people and may be able to help you locate a copy.

Pomona to act on F.D. aid request

POMONA — The City Council Monday night will consider approval of an application for a $125,000 federal grant-in-aid to help pay for the construction of a fire station-training facility in west Pomona.

Total cost of the development, called a "Comprehensive Public Services Center," is estimated at $553,600.

The grant application would be to the Economic Development Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Nearly seven acres of land with an appraised value of $81,000 at Pacific State Hospital are being transferred by the state to the city for the project.

The council previously earmarked $258,000 in general revenue sharing funds for the development, which will include a drill tower, training center and a fire station—the city's seventh.

The fire station would service industrial, commercial and residential areas in west Pomona plus the hospital and the Cal Poly campus.

Regional training site

"It is anticipated that the training facility will be a region-wide training academy facility for improving and training existing and future personnel of the fire profession," Asst. City Administrator Joseph F. Korpsak said in a letter to the council.

The site is south of Temple Avenue west of San Jose Creek.

The council also will review an application in final form for a one-year nutritional program for certain persons 60 and over, and for the opening in city hall of an office of senior citizen affairs.

Under the proposal, nutritious lunch meals would be served at six locations five days a week during the period Feb. 1, 1974, to Jan. 31, 1975.

Among other matters scheduled for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Recommendation from the community development department that the city seek certification as a home management counseling agency for buyers of houses sold under the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's bulk sales program.

—Talk by Upland Councilman Harold A. Bailin on further construction of the Foothill Freeway.

—Hearing on the vacation of an alley east of Oak Avenue between First and Second streets and of Oak, between First and Second. Public Works Director Ronald Kranzer has recommended a continuation to Jan. 7. Protests to both moves have been received from residents.

—Hearing on Planning Commission recommendation for zone change, from commercial to manufacturing at 1605 E. Mission Blvd.

—Recommendation by the Planning Commission for approval of a tentative tract map for a condominium development south of The Barrister restaurant between Park Avenue and Parcels Street with one of the conditions being the acquisition of three additional lots.

—Recommendation by the Planning Commission for denial of a request for the determination that mini-warehouse developments be allowed in the I-P (industrial park) Zoning Districts.

—Hearing on requests by residents for additional access to the Kellogg Park tract. Kranzer has recommended a continuation to Dec. 10.

—Resolution authorizing an agreement with Cal Poly for a street maintenance training program for students.

—Recommendation of Redevelopment Agency Executive Director Fred Sharp for approval of a settlement on the acquisition of the Chung King Restaurant property.

Oil shortage intensifies trend

President Nixon is caught in an economic box. He had been slowing the economy in an attempt to curb inflation, reasoning that if we had less to spend it would cut demand enough to force prices down.

Whether or not that approach would have worked we may never know. For the energy crunch has destroyed his program. That crunch, sparked by the oil shortage, will amplify the slowdown in the economy well past the President's limits — perhaps to a very serious point.

Even without the Arab petroleum cutbacks, the impending sluggishness of the economy in 1974 threatened considerably greater unemployment and increasing hardships even for those men and women with steady employment.

Only large amounts of overtime have enabled many factory workers to get by despite inflation.

Now the hefty price rises of the first 10 months of this year, combined with the expected decline in overtime as the economy slows, ensure that labor, which had been surprisingly moderate in its wage demands in recent periods, will push heavily for major increases in the 1974 negotiations.

An upsurge in labor costs, combined with continued increases in the price of most imported goods, will ensure that the demand-pull inflation (when demand far exceeds supply) so greatly feared by Mr. Nixon will, as fate would have it merely be replaced by cost-push inflation, which results when the costs of production increase sharply.

Historically, cost-push inflation has been even more difficult to handle than demand-pull. So we may be jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

The oil shortage will, of course, intensify this trend. For higher energy costs, by their very nature, spread through an economy like wildfire, from goods to services and back again — bringing a greater pressure for added wage boosts. There is nothing that energy does not affect, directly or indirectly.

Obviously too, as prices increase and wages fail to keep pace, even though increasing, the average household will have less to spend.

The stock markets have already felt the pressure. It is already clear that the outlook is not good for the automobile industry, for the makers of appliances, the operators of motel, chains, highway restaurant operators, those who manufacture a variety of luxury goods and a host of others.

The greatest problem however is what all this foretells for the years beyond 1973. There is a certain momentum to an economy, despite its ups and downs. And an economy which loses this momentum, as when it slides into a recession as distinct from a limited slowdown, often takes considerable time to recover.

Hopefully, therefore, there will be a quick ending to the Mideast crisis, with an increase in oil shipments, enabling this country to get by temporarily. But what must be emphasized is that word temporarily. Without a long-term solution somewhat independent of the Mideast, this country will continue on the razor's edge. And a new crisis could come at any time.

What's in a gender?

There's a diabolical plot afoot to expunge the word "men," both in its singular and plural forms, from the language.

The U.S. Census Bureau has gone a step further by eliminating reference to gender altogether in its recently announced revision of 52 of the 441 job titles in its Occupational Classification System. Some of the changes:

Clergymen to clergy; salesmen to sales workers; foremen to blue-collar supervisors; craftsmen and kindred workers to craft and kindred workers; boatmen and canalmen to boat operators; furnacemen to furnace tenders; railroad switchmen to railroad switch operators; chambermaids to lodging quarters cleaners; airline stewardesses to flight attendants; busboys to waiters' assistants; firemen to fire-fighters; policemen to police; fishermen to fishers.

Whether or not many women will now rush out to become furnace tenders or canal boat operators remains to be seen, but that last classification suggests that there may be limits to how far the Great Gender Shift can go.

"And He saith unto them, follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."

Somehow, "fishers of people" doesn't sound the same.

Men's lib

Women's Lib has libbed some men, too, it seems.

Whatever one may think of Person Gloria Steinem, or Betty Fredan, the Lib movement has opened up new opportunities for women in employment areas previously difficult for them to enter.

A survey taken at the University of California, San Francisco, indicates that there also is a large influx of males into what previously was considered women's work. They are becoming nurses, dental hygienists, dieticians, physical therapists, social workers, secretaries, even receptionists. Not, of course, a totally new development, but new in wider acceptance.

Feisal has U.S. over oil barrel

WASHINGTON — Saudi Arabia's austere King Feisal controls the oil valves which will determine how much Americans will shiver this winter. Only Saudi Arabia has the means to break the Arab oil embargo and ease the critical shortage facing the United States.

A prolonged boycott, according to Treasury experts, would cause severe economic dislocations. One Treasury study worns that a "major economic depression" would result if the supply disruption continues into the late 1970s.

Yet secret studies by the National Security Council show there's no practical way to start the oil flowing again if Feisal doesn't want to open the valves.

It will do little good to cut off food shipments to the Saudis. Feisal can afford to pay out of the kingdom's overflowing treasury whatever price it takes to purchase from other countries all the food his people need.

Can't freeze assets

The suggestion that Saudi Arabian assets in the West be frozen also won't likely work. The king shrewdly is providing oil to the countries where most of the oil billions are stashed.

As a last resort, of course, the National Security Council has considered military force. But the secret studies show that a military operation to take over the Saudi oil fields would be highly vulnerable to sabotage and interdiction. In any case, intelligence reports warn emphatically that the Saudis would sabotage their own wells before permitting them to be captured.

This leaves negotiation as the preferred, if not the only, way to fill America's ebbing oil tanks. Yet Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in his secret talks with Feisal, failed to budge the shrewd old monarch.

Sources close to the negotiaions say Kissinger is more skillful at world politics power plays than he is at economics. Only as an afterthought did he invite an oil expert the last minute to participate in the National Security Council discussion on the Saudi predicament.

Didn't heed advice

Kissinger also ignored advice that he talk to the oil minister who, it was suggested, would have been more inclined to help work out an accommodation. Instead, Kissinger with his sense of power dealt directly with the king who was polite but implacable.

Kissinger urged the king to resume oil shipments to the United States. A continuing embargo, Kissinger argued, would only provide ammunition for the anti-Arab forces and generate anti-Arab sentiment in the United States. This would make it difficult for him to follow the even-handed policy he desired in the Middle East, he said.

The soft-spoken Kissinger handled the discussion with his customary brilliance and Feisal listened carefully to every word. Although he speaks English, he insists on Arabic for official occasions and, therefore, dealt with Kissinger through an interpreter. The secret session was formal and stuffy.

The king declared solemnly that he was willing not only to resume shipments but to increase them until the United States has all the oil it needs. But he cannot relax the oil squeeze, he said, until Israel begins to evacuate Arab territory taken in 1967.

Personal insult

He reminded Kissinger of past, repeated warnings that unswerving U. S. support for Israel would bring oil sanctions. The king said he had been reluctant to take this action. It was clear from his remarks, however, that he felt personally insulted by Washington's failure to heed his warnings.

The irony is that Feisal, according to all accounts, has a soft spot for the United States. Many key Saudi officials were educated in the United States. Indeed, there's a good-natured rivalry between Saudis who attended colleges in northern and southern California. One of the king's own sons attended President Nixon's alma mater in Whittier, Calif.

Feisal is also fiercely anti-Communist: He is more eager than Nixon and Kissinger to keep Soviet influence out of the Middle East. But above all else, Feisal is a devout Moslem. He abstains from liquor, shuns leisure pleasures and prays five times a day. He is deeply serious about his traditional role as protector of the Moslem world's three holy cities — Mecca, Medina and Jerusalem. The old king wants Jerusolem returned to Moslem custody. Before he dies, he wants to pray in the great mosque in Jerusalem.

But he is motivated, according to intelligence analyses, by more than religious devotion. He wants to halt the radical trend in the Arab world and to bring Arab affairs under the control of moderates. For this purpose, he has established a firm alliance with Egypt's President Sadat, who has turned from Russia to Saudi Arabia for financial support.

Exalted status

But Faisal cannot exercise a modifying influence on Arab affairs unless he leads the crusade to recover the lost Arab lands. His use of the oil valves as a political weapon has made him the hero of the Arab world. It's not a status he wishes to give up.

The old king is determined, therefore, to tighten the oil vise until Israel is forced to retreat back to its 1967 borders. He believes that Israel cannot continue to resist world pressure. He is completely willing to accept Israel as a sovereign state provided a political settlement can be reached.

If the Israelis won't accept this settlement, he is ready to bankroll another Arab war against Israel. From Washington, he wants a guarantee that the United States won't again arm Israel.

The more the National Security Council studies the alternatives, the more difficult it becomes to turn down Feisal's deal. The Agriculture Department is conducting a comprehensive study of food exports to Arab nations. Last year, the United States supplied about 15 per cent of Saudi Arabia's imported grain, a figure that is expected to exceed 20 per cent this year. But the Saudis are already sounding out other suppliers, in case the United States should retaliate against the oil embargo by cutting off grain shipments.

Logistical nightmare

Secret studies indicate that the United States could probably seal off supplies from entering Saudi Arabia by military force. But a military operation across more than 8,000 miles of ocean would be a logistical nightmare.

To take over the oil fields, the classified studies show, would be possible but impractical. The danger of sabotage and interdiction would be too great. Oil wells, pipelines and tankers, it is noted, are extremely vulnerable to attack.

It looks as if the United States, therefore, will have to rely upon Kissinger's diplomotic skills.

Gossip for today

Regardless of how important the gals make female equality and women's liberation sound, there's just no getting around the fact that it is contrary to what we are told in the Scriptures. — It's true! It is all spelled out just as plain as day in Genesis 3-16 where the Lord God said unto the woman: "Thy desire shall be thy husband and he shall rule over thee."

But men, let's be generous rulers. While we are on the subject of what Genesis actually has to say about women and their rights, let's correct a popular misconception regarding the part the female sex played in bringing about man's downfall. The truth of the matter is, Eve never did talk Adam into eating a forbidden apple. What she actually handed him was the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

And it was because of that suddenly acquired knowledge that the apple got into the act. Although Genesis doesn't mention it, a legendary rumor still exists that, since he now knew how to dabble in sin, Adam made himself some applejack to drown his sorrow. It gave him such new-found courage that he started yelling at Eve and as a result men have been yelling at women ever since. — Which is the big reason why women are so insistent about liberation. But as anyone can plainly see, they brought their troubles on themselves.

World of animals

Animal gifts need lots of human love

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We plan to give our daughter a horse for Christmas and, of course, the equipment that goes with it so she can take proper care of it. As she's quite a busy girl with school activities, she won't have too much time to spend with it and I'm concerned it wouldn't get fed regularly. I know they have such things as automatic feeders now for tropical fish and even for dogs. I'm thinking an automatic feeder would be extremely handy for her horse. Are they available? —T.D.

Dear T.D.: Yes, automatic feeders are available for horses. They range from clock mechanisms to those triggered by photoelectric cells which will automatically feed either at sunup or sundown or both. (The latter type sells for around $250.)

One shouldn't consider any animal as a gift, be it hamster or horse, if the recipient is unlikely to have the time (and-or interest) to take proper care of it. A barn full of tack and electronic equipment for that horse can't take the place of personal daily attention and it shouldn't be expected to. A living creature can be the greatest of all gifts IF it fits.

The animal dropped into an environment where its physical and psychological needs are not met becomes a living liability if indeed it lives

DEAR DR. MILLER: How often do those itchy, smelly, musk glands under the tail of a dog need to be cleaned? —D.S.

Dear D.S.: The secreting cells which lie on the inside of these anal glands (they are actually small sacs which open at the anus) are considerably more active in some dogs than in others. Many will drain to the outside periodically and never need attention of any kind. Others may fill, causing pressure and irritation which is a common cause of the scooting process whereby the animal actually does scoot along on his rear end in an attempt to relieve the itching. In fact, this is a more common cause for this behavior than is worms. When necessary, these glands should be expressed (cleaned out) by the doctor or someone else qualified for the relatively simple project.

America and the future

ruled by them.

What I am saying helps to account for another direction which is evident. The good life is no longer defined for us by institutions. There is in fact a growing distrust of institutions — of government, law officials, the church, our schools and college, and even the institution of marriage. The individual is more and more standing up to enormous institutional pressures, saying, in effect, "I trust myself and my experiencing of the total situation of the moment — my inner reactions and my experience of these outside forces — more that I turst the institutional conclusions."

I need not add that this has enormous implications — personal, cultural and philosophical.

A final direction I would stress in this emerging person is a thrust toward community. In the midst of a culture becoming more dehumanized, more alienated, this person is not content to be a stranger. He is following his own deep drive — a tendency I believe inherent in the human species — toward community. He wants to be known, accepted, close. So we see a burgeoning development of communes, of encounter groups, of "underground churches" — all of them attempts to come into close, sharing, interpersonal relationships, where one is not anonymous but unique and specific, yet related. These movements seem to help define one of the most profound aspects of the good life — to be fully known, and to be accepted for the process that one is.

It is doubtless evident that this new definition of the good life is built upon a basic trust in the constructive potential of the human orgonism. It is only on that basis that it makes sense to think of the good life as a process of becoming; as a movement toward greater openness to what is, within and without; as a greater trust in one's own self, one's own experiencing, even when that puts the individual at odds with our institutions; and as a thrust toward deeper communication and intimacy with one's fellows. Yet it is that definition which is emerging more and more frequently.

Next: Dr. Kenneth Boulding, professor of economics, University of Colorado.

Boy bitten by king cobra

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A 15-year-old Philadelphia boy, who purchased a deadly Asian king cobra without his parent's knowledge, was in critical condition from a snake bite today at Albert Einstein Medical Center Northern Division.

Police said Carmen Hicks was bitten on the left thumb Thursday afternoon while he was milking the snake which he received mail order about two weeks ago.

They said Hicks' friend, Arnold Stocker, 16, a snake handler for about six years, was teaching Hicks how to handle poisonous snakes and it was he who kept the snake so Hicks' parents would not find out about it.

The youth was bitten when his hand slipped from the rubber cup while milking the snake in his home, police said. For almost four hours, police and other officials searched for the anti-venin serum for the youth. It was administered by 8 p.m.

Authorities said the youth previously had had non-poisonous snakes and lizards in his home, but his parents made him get rid of the snakes. The parents were not at home at the time of the incident.

Plan to rebuild rail lines wins House OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has voted to create a federal corporation to do what bankrupt Eastern railroads were unable to do as private companies —abandon unprofitable lines and rebuild the remaining ones into a strong rail system.

The $1.4 billion measure, passed 306 to 82, contemplates formulation within 20 months of a plan for a new rail system stretching from New England to the Mississippi River, to be composed of the most-used lines of the seven bankrupt railroads.

Thousands of miles of rail line, perhaps 5,000 to 10,000 of the approximately 30,000 miles affected, likely would be abandoned unless local communities decide to keep it running with federal matching funds.

The administration was defeated in its efforts to change key sections of the bill, including amendments to place limits on the labor protection section. Workers laid off by the new system would be paid a full salary until they were offered a new railroad job in their craft, or until they retired at 65.

The new nonprofit corporation, to be called the Federal Nation Railroad Association (FNRA), would have authority to issue stock to purchase the lines it needs, and would have $1 billion in federal loan guarantees to refurbish the system, but a maximum of $200 million of those loans could be used to pay cash for some rail assets if necessary.

FNRA would create a Northeast Railroad Corp. to actually operate the system.

Of the remaining $421.5 million in the bill, $250 million would go for labor protection payments, $85 million in interim payments to keep the bankrupt lines running temporarily, $36.5 million for administrative and planning expenses, and $50 million for federal matching plan that would allow a state or community to keep an abandoned line running with the federal government paying 70 per cent of the loses.

Wallace task force is still intact

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace believes today that he is more popular than he has ever been in his political career.

And because he believes his support will continue to grow, aides say, Wallace has held intact his 1972 campaign staff "just in case" he wants to run for president in 1976.

"At this point," National Campaign Director Charles Snider said, "We are getting more mail than in the heat of the (1972) campaign."

The letters pour in at the rate of 2,000 a day, many from the Northeast and Midwest where Wallace has never enjoyed strong support. The letters contain $2, $5 and occasionally as much as $25, sent in by people who say they wish they could send more.

Many of the letters wish Wallace a speedy recovery from the wounds he suffered May 15, 1972, in an assassination attempt in Maryland. They remind him "Franklin Roosevelt ran for President in a wheelchair."

Watergate letters

But now most of the letters are about Watergate. A minister in California wrote asking Wallace to run for president again and "save us from the disgrace of Watergate."

Watergate, Wallace aides say, has legitimatized Wallace as a national political leader among the traditionally conservative middle American constituency the governor has always tried to claim as his own.

Those people who once considered Wallace too radical or remembered his defiant stand against integration of the University of Alabama in 1963, one Wallace insider said, now think of the governor as a reasonable and honest man when they look at the scandals going on in Washington.

"These people feel the governor is the only person in either political party who can speak for them," Snider said.

A secretary in Illinois wrote Wallace, "I voted for Nixon as the lesser of two evils and now I'm sorry. I've never supported you in the past but now I believe you are the only one who can bring law and order back to the White House."

Uncommitted for '76

Wallace has not committed himself for a presidential bid in 1976, but Snider said the governor now calls the national campaign headquarters an average of four times a day.

Press Secretary Billy Joe Camp said despite the governor's slow, often painful recovery from bullet wounds that have left his legs paralyzed, Wallace has maintained the heaviest speaking schedule of his career over the last two years. Increasingly, the topics of his speeches have been about foreign policy and maintaining a strong military posture for the nation.

"Obviously, we want to keep going," Snider said, "so that should the governor decide to run we won't be behind."

Another spinoff of Watergate that Wallace aides feel will work in the governor's favor will be the reluctance of presidential candidates to ask for or accept large contributions.

"There won't be any more large contributions for anyone," Snider said. "Even though it might be legal and above board, the contributor and the candidate just get into too much."

When the General Accounting Office got through with the Wallace accounting of the 1972 campaign they found only one serious error; a $100 contribution from a corporation, the Midcontinent Truck Stop, Inc., in Arkansas.

"That's where we're ahead," Snider said. "We've always gotten our funds from small contributors. People who know about these things say we have been extremely successful with our mail campaigns, but we've never done it on a large scale.

"If the governor does run again and we try it on a large scale there is no doubt we can finance a successful Wallace campaign."

Each day a battery of secretaries sifts through letters, sorting out checks and money. The envelopes, along with the amount of the contribution, are sent to a computer service.

The service fills out financial statements required by the government while the names and addresses of contributors are added to a master mailing list.

"The system is capable of handling millions of contributors," Snider said.

New leader puts Arizona U. on move

By ARTHUR J. LINGLE

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — University of Arizona president John P. Schaefer has set himself the goal of making the UA one of the six top state universities in the nation by 1980.

"It is not only attainable, but we are well on our way," he said in an interview.

Schaefer, at 39, is one of the new breed of younger university presidents. Unlike his predecessor, Richard A. Harvill, he is constantly visible in both the academic and public communities.

"A public university depends on the confidence of the people," he said. "My primary function is to get out and spread the word that their investment is paying off."

A self-proclaimed authoritarian, Schaefer has moved to tighten tenure policies, an action which caused considerable controversy among faculty. However, Schaefer defended the move saying it was needed to get and keep the best teachers.

From all appearances it is working. Some 200 new faculty members have joined the faculty, including the university's first Nobel Peace Prize winner, Yale physicist Dr. Willis E. Lamb.

Athletics, for years mostly a losing proposition at this 27,500-student desert university, have also felt the Schaefer touch. It began in 1972 with the hiring of Michigan associate athletic director Dave Strack to head the UA's athletic program. Strack then added Michigan assistant coaches Fred Snowden as head basketball coach and Jim Young as head football mentor. Both new coaches have shown winning ways and their success has renewed community interest in the university and also spurred alumni giving.

"What I want is an overall balance between academics and athletics. We are committed to excellence," Schaefer said.

A graduate of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Schaefer earned a doctorate of philosophy degree in chemistry from the University of Illinois. He left the University of California at Berkeley in 1960 moving to Arizona where he became successively head of the chemistry department, dean of the Liberal Arts College and then the University's 17th president in 1971.

Schaefer is a seven-day-a-week, 12-hour day president. His days are spent in faculty and student meetings, budgetary work, legislative lobbying and social gatherings.

His relatively young age has caused some embarassing and often humorous moments. He recalled that at his first alumni meeting he was introduced as the president. A lady, who graduated in 1933, commented on what a clean cut student body president of the university has this year.

"She was horribly mortified," Schaefer said, "to find out that I was actually the university president."

During a trip to Africa this year Schaefer added a beard. "I was walking across campus recently when a student looked at me—and the beard—and said: 'It's guys like you who give beards a bad name.'"

The New York native takes it all in stride saying he believes he will be judged on his performance, not on age or appearance.

USC will return to Rose Bowl, 23-13

Bruins commit six turnovers in loss to Trojans

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Guess who is returning to the Rose Bowl?

Most of the football experts didn't expect USC to be back in Pasadena on Jan. 1. While UCLA chewed up Pacific-8 Conference competition, USC was struggling against the same teams.

But it was UCLA who made the mistakes Saturday afternoon as USC took a 23-13 victory before 88,037 Coliseum customers and a nation-wide ABC audience to win the Pac-8 crown.

So coach John McKay's Trojans will face the winner of today's Big Ten Rose Bowl vote in Pasadena. Most people figure Michigan will get the nod after the Wolverines played top-ranked Ohio State to a 10-10 tie earlier Saturday. It will be the Trojans' sixth trip to Pasadena in eight years.

USC, a team plagued by mistakes all season, jelled Saturday in finally living up to its potential. The Trojans never turned over the football and cut their season-long rash of illegal formations to one.

Meanwhile, the Trojans played an emotional game on defense in holding UCLA, the nation's top running team, to 249 yards on the ground, a far cry from the Bruins' average of 415.4 per game.

More important, USC's hard-hitting defense helped cause six turnovers for the Bruins with two key plays late in the fourth quarter protecting the victory.

The second half was all field goals as the Trojans were able to keep the explosive Bruins away from the end zone.

After Efren Herrera's 27-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter cut the Trojan margin to 20-13, Bruin fans had great hopes. UCLA needed only a tie to earn the Rose Bowl berth.

It appeared that the momentum had changed after USC was forced to punt after three downs. A late call on a clipping penalty nullified John Sciarra's fine punt return but Sciarra was able to get the Bruins moving after taking over on their own 12.

UCLA drove to their 48 when Sciarra elected to pass on a second down play. USC freshman tackle Gary Jeter hit Sciarra as he was ready to throw to cause a fumble as defensive end Dale Mitchell recovered for Troy.

The Trojans couldn't generate any offense but Dave Boulware's punted out-of-bounds on the UCLA 10 to pin the Bruins deep in their territory with only 2:13 on the clock.

On the second down play, Sciarra was pressured by Mitchell and his pass was intercepted by Ted Roberson on the 20 to nail the coffin for UCLA's Rose Bowl hopes.

USC didn't worry about gaining any yardage. The big thing was using up the clock to set-up Chris Limahelu's 28-yard field goal which put the Trojans a safe 10 points ahead.

USC took the lead in the first quarter and never lost it as UCLA was forced to play catch-up.

The Trojans drove 68 yards on 15 plays on their first offensive series with Anthony Davis scoring from the four.

UCLA cut the margin to 7-3 when Herrera booted a 42-yard field goal late in the quarter but USC marched down the field again on an 80-yard drive on 12 plays with quarterback Pat Haden passing to his Bishop Amat buddy, John McKay, for 16 yards in the end zone for a 14-3 lead.

Bruin coach Pepper Rodgers decided to insert Sciarra for starting quarterback Mark Harmon and the Bruins immediately responded.

Thanks to a 39-yard run by Kermit Johnson, the Bruins showed their explosive nature in going 84 yards on nine plays with Johnson scoring from the third to cut the difference to 14-10.

It was then Davis' turn. The Trojan star brought the crowd to its feet by running 48 yards to put USC into UCLA territory again.

The Trojans settled for a 35-yard field goal by Limahelu to take a 17-10 lead at halftime.

Rams battle New Orleans again today

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — When the Los Angeles Rams face the New Orleans Saints today, it will be a season return match, and according to past performances the Rams shouldn't have a chance of winning.

That the 8-2 Rams are leading the NFL Western Division has nothing to do with it. The Saints, with a season record of 4-6, are 4-1 in New Orleans and have three consecutive home wins.

Precedent is also against Los Angeles. The Rams won over the Saints 29-7 only two weeks back in Los Angeles, but the Rams have lost in New Orleans on the final scrimmage play of the game for the past two years.

Tom Myers was the only player to miss Friday's 90-minute workout for the optimistic Saints, watching from the sidelines with a sprained knee. Coach John North said if Myers could not start today, Jerry Moore would replace him as free safety.

Channel 2, 11 a.m.

Sitting it out will be quarterback Bob Davis; linebackers Willie Hall and Ray Hester; cornerback Nate Ramsey; offensive guard Paul Fersen and tight end Andy Dorris.

We can beat anybody if we put our minds to it," said North. Hell, we've proved that already, haven't we? We beat the Redskins and the Buffalo Bills.

We can beat the Rams if we do the things we did against those teams.

The Rams are a great team, they're strong at every position," the New Orleans coach admitted. To beat them, or any team in this league, you can't make mistakes, and you can't let down. You've got to be at your best."

We can't afford to make any mistakes and not take advantage of any they might give us. They are an excellently coached team and it will take our top effort to beat them," he concluded.

Wolverines Bowl-bound?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Ties usually don't settle anything, but both coaches felt the 10-10 deadlock Michigan and Ohio State played to Saturday decided which of them goes to the Rose Bowl.

"We had to win this one to go and we didn't," a surprisingly affable Woody Hayes, coach of Ohio State, said.

"If they vote to send Michigan, Michigan deserves to go," Coach Bo Schembechler of the Wolverines said. "Why? if you have to ask that question, you didn't see the game."

Michigan entered the game with a 10-0 record and a No. 4 ranking while Ohio State will not be ranked No. 1 next week with its 9-0-1 record.

The Big Ten athletic directors are being polled by telephone and the announcement of their vote will be made in Chicago at 1 p.m. (CST) Sunday.

If they deadlock, 5-5, that means Ohio State, since it went last, will be eliminated and Michigan will be declared the Rose Bowl representative.

Should Michigan go, it likely will have to play without its regular quarterback, junior Dennis Franklin, who scored the game-tying touchdown on a daring ten-yard dash on the fourth down in the fourth quarter but was hurt later in the game. He suffered what is believed to be a broken right collar bone which will require surgery.

"Oh no, for God's sakes no," Hayes said when he learned of the injury. "I thought he just had a shoulder separation. That's a shame, what a dirty shame. He won't be able to play in the Rose Bowl."

Two last-minute field goal attempts of 58 and 44 yards by Michigan's Mike Lantry had the distance but were wide to the left and then the right and so the national collegiate record crowd of 105,223 and the national television audience will not know until the Big Ten announces which of the two teams will go to the Rose Bowl at 11 a.m. PST today, when the vote is announced in Chicago.

Michigan, which entered the game a three-point underdog and finished with a 10-0-1 record, flubbed an excellent opportunity to win when Ohio State coach Woody Hayes inserted senior quarterback Greg Hare in place of soph Cornelius Greene to throw the first Buckeye pass of the game late in the fourth quarter only to see it intercepted.

Safety Tom Drake stepped in front of halfback Brian Baschnagel on the 42 of Ohio State and took it to the 33 with 52 seconds left in the game.

Senior quarterback Larry Cipa, who entered the game when junior Dennis Franklin suffered a shoulder injury on the previous drive, ran one play and threw an incomplete pass to stop the clock—but Lantry, who had only missed three of 10 field goals all year, was wide to the right and Hare got a chance to throw three more incomplete passes before the clock ran out.

Franklin had engineered the Wolverines from their own 11 to the Ohio State 49 with less than six minutes to play before his shoulder was hurt when he was hit after completing a pass to fullback Ed Shuttlesworth. Cipa gained eight more yards before Lantry missed his 58-yard field goal try.

Ohio State was held without a first down in the first quarter but sensational sophomore Archie Griffin set up a 31-yard field goal by Blair Conway with a 38-yard run on the first play of the third quarter as the Buckeyes took a 3-0 lead.

Griffin, who gained 163 yards to enhance his Heisman Trophy chances, also set up a five-yard TD run by freshman Pete Johnson with just 53 seconds left in the first half when he carried five times for 41 yards in a 55-yard drive. Johnson carried three Wolverines with him into the end zone to give the Buckeyes a 10-0 haltime advantage.

Franklin kept handing the ball off over center to Shuttlesworth at the start of the second half and that, with some key passes on second game interspersed, set up a 30-yard field goal by Lantry and the junior's own game-tying TD.

The Buckeyes, 9-0-1, and apparently deprived of their first national title since 1968, had stopped Franklin on the option play and Michigan abandoned it until Franklin faked to Shuttlesworth up the middle and swept right end untouched for the game-tying TD.

Coach Bo Schembechler went for the tying points by kick and disdained the try for two since the game still had nine minutes to play, his defense was working and his offense moving the ball.

Trojans played best, Bruins didn't

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The irresistable force (UCLA) turned out to be resistable after all while the immovable object remained largely immovable.

As a result, USC is Rose Bowl-bound while UCLA is armchair-bound. The two head coaches summed it up very aptly following USC's 23-13 win over UCLA Saturday afternoon in the packed Los Angeles Coliseum.

"The key to the game was everybody saying the other team was better," said Troy's John McKay in answer to a writer's question. "This was our best game and it was not their best game because of the fumbles (four, all recorvered by the Trojans)."

When questioned about what he thought was the reason for the Bruin turnovers (six including two pass interceptions), McKay paused then replied, "I've been eaten out all year for our turnovers, so I'd have to say just mistakes."

While a smiling McKay was surrounded by writers in the USC dressing room, a disappointed Pepper Rodgers slumped in a chair in the silent UCLA quarters.

It was so quiet you could have heard a football drop.

"All I can say is you've got to give the credit to McKay," Rodgers said quietly. "They just line up and tackle the guy with the ball."

Rodgers had prefaced his remarks by saying, "I won't make a statement, but I will answer questions. I don't feel worth a damn."

"We didn't play very well defensively especially in the first half," he continued. "The six turnovers were the big difference in the ball game. SC has a fine defense, but we couldn't move against Podunk with the interceptions and fumbles we had today."

UCLA players in the dressing room requested that there be no interviews, but a few writers managed to talk to some before the request was made known.

Sophomore quarterback John Sciarra, who moved the Bruins more impressively than senior Mark Harmon, paid tribute to the Trojans. Commenting on the fumles, one each by Sciarra, Kermit Johnson, James McAlister, and Russell Charles, Sciarra said, "probably anybody in the same situation would have fumbled because SC was really hitting."

The turnovers kept breaking the Bruins momentum in the second half. "We played better defense in the second half," agreed Rodgers. "It looked like we definitely got stronger and the game momentum could well have turned except for our turnovers."

USC quarterback Pat Haden was one of several Trojans who visited the UCLA dressing room to talk with the Bruins. Haden praised his line and the execution by the Trojans.

"The line was unbelievable," he enthused as writers crowded around him. "They were blowing their men out all over the field. We had practiced well all week. The difference (between Saturday's game and previous games) today was 100 percent concentration."

Haden admitted the Trojans took full advantage of their 17-10 halftime lead.

"After the half, we felt using up a lot of time was an important factor," he said. "We wanted to make some first downs and maintain good field position."

And a final round from the coaches:

Rodgers—"No, our fumbles didn't appear forced and we haven't fumbled that way all year. Considering our six errors, I thought it was a pretty close football game."

McKay—"We haven't been the only team in the country making mistakes. We just publicize it more. I believe the wishbone is a good formation, but no matter what anybody says, we stopped Oklahoma and have stopped the wishbone. Our offensive line was great. Haden was super, our receivers caught the ball when it was thrown to them, and, again, my coaching was outstanding."

Rangers rally to tie Kings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jean Ratelle scored his sixth career hat trick, notching the final two goals within a 2:37 span late in the final period, to rally the New York Rangers to a 5-5 tie with the Los Angeles Kings Saturday.

The Kings, riding a five-game losing streak, appeared ready to break a five-year winless drought in Madison Square Garden when they fought back from a 3-1 deficit with four consecutive goals to take a 5-3 lead late in the game.

Vic Venasky scored two goals and assisted on another for Los Angeles while Bruce MacGregor had a pair of goals for the Rangers.

Lakers just do beat Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Gail Goodrich grabbed his own blocked shot and hit a jumper with 14 seconds left to help the Los Angeles Lakers down the Portland Trail Blazers 113-108 Saturday night in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers led 109-108 when Goodrich hit from outside with Geoff Petrie and Bernie Fryer guarding him.

Los Angeles held a 12-point lead at the start of the fourth quarter. But the Blazers, behind Sidney Wicks and Rick Robertston, charged back to tie the score at 105-105 with 1:47 remaining.

Portland, however, was never able to take the lead.

Happy Hairston ended the scoring by sinking two free throws with five seconds to go.

Goodrich hit 17 points in the third quarter as Los Angeles pulled away from a 54-54 halftime deadlock. He led all scorers with 33 points.

Curtain raises on Supernationals—act two

ONTARIO — The curtain goes up on act two, the finale, of the National Hot Rod Association's $177,000 Supernationals of drag racing today at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Heavy rains, which hit Southern California this past weekend, washed out last Sunday's finals, but not before the fastest fuel dragster field in history was established with two record-shattering qualifying sessions that set the stage for what promises to be one of the most exciting days in the sport's history.

The 64-car field, including the 16 lowest elapsed time qualifiers in four separate categories, is headed by veteran Don Garlits of Seffner, Fla., who vitually set the OMS quarter-mile ablaze Friday with a record 5.803 second performance that erased Don Moody's 1972 track mark of 5.91. Garlits also turned in the fastest speed ever recorded by a fuel dragster, at 247.25 mph.

Three other drivers also qualified in the magic five-second bracket, bringing to eight the number of men officially credited with covering the quarter-mile in less than six seconds.

Heading the latter list is 17-year old John Stewart of Sacramento, a high school student who surprised everyone Friday with his 5.923 clocking that gave him second place in the qualifying order behind the 42-year old Garlits. Stewart, who received his competition license only last January, defeated the popular Florida driver in his very first race.

Joining Stewart and Garlits in the five-second qualifying order were Dan Richins of Salt Lake City with a 5.932 clocking and veteran Larry Dixon of North Hollywood who was timed in 5.944 seconds. Their closest pursuer in the lineup is 20-year old Randy Allison of Vista, Calif., who holds the number five spot with a 6.045 effort at 226.70 mph.

Other record-setting performances were turned in by Funny Car veteran Don Prudhomme and motorcycle expert T. C. Christensen of Kenosha, Wis. Prudhomme, in a plastic-bodied Barracuda, tripped the timers in 6.169 seconds to become the first Funny Car driver to record a run in the teens. The time will count as a new National record if the Granada Hills driver is successful in backing it up with a second run Sunday, within one percent of the 6.13.

Christensen, who led the field of eight fuel-burning bikes, did back up his 8.451 clocking Friday and now is the official record holder for his class.

The two remaining categories of pro stock and pro comp are led by Wayne Gapp and Ken Veney. Gapp, of Birmingham, Mich., drove a Pinto to an 8.905 clocking to lead his Pro Stock competitors while Veney, of Torrance, recorded a 7.049 with his injected Funny Car.

Today's finals are scheduled to get underway at noon with the first round of eliminations. OMS gates will open at 9 a.m. with warm-up time trials set for 10 a.m. NHRA officals have announced that all spectators holding tickets from last Sunday will be admitted this week upon presentation of their ticket stubs at the gates.

Errors cost Chaffey one point loss

MOORPARK — Chaffey College committed 31 turnovers and blew a 10-point halftime lead in dropping a 79-78 decision to Moorpark Saturday night.

The Panthers, now 1-1 on the young season, saw their lead disappear with 1:16 left in the game on John Gonce's bucket. The Moorpark guard then watched his backcourt mate, Jim McGlamary, score a two-pointer to up the lead to 79-76.

Chaffey's Bob Kovach, who led all scorers with 29 points and 11 rebounds, pulled the Panthers to within one with a basket. Moorpark then ate up the remaining eight seconds on the clock and settle for the one point win.

Chaffey's Russ Williams added all scorers with 29 points Rankin and Myron Lutz chipped in 10 and 12 points, respectively. The Panthers hit 61 per cent from the floor, making 33 of 54 shots.

SLO rips 49ers, denied playoffs

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Chris Smeland returned a Long Beach State punt 82 yards for a touchdown in the first period Saturday to spark 10th-ranked small college Cal Poly San Luis Obispo to a 31-7 victory in the season finale for both teams.

The win gave Cal Poly a 9-1 record, but the Mustangs were denied a chance at NCAA post-season play by Boise State's 32-31 victory over UC Davis earlier Saturday. Boise State will advance to the NCAA college division II playoffs.

Owls top MSAC, 83-74

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT —Veteran guard Roy Hickman led Citrus College in a second half comeback that clipped Mt. San Antonio College, 88-74, Saturday night at MSAC.

Hickman canned 35 points—17 in the second half—as the Owls overcame a 46-39 halftime deficit.

The Mounties had led by as much as 12 points in the first 20 minutes, as center Gary Nash and guard Steve Arthur poured in 24 points between them.

But 58 per cent shooting in the first half cooled off to only 35 in the second, and the Owls took advantage of that and numerous turnovers to overtake coach Gene Victor's team.

It was the second loss in a row for the Mounties, who opened basketball season 1973-74 with a victory over the alumni Wednesday. The win evened the Owls' record at 1-1. They dropped a 94-62 decision to East L. A. Friday night.

MSAC returns to action Tuesday by hosting L. A. Southwest. Citrus won't play again until it hosts the opening round of the Don Edwards Memorial Tournament next Thursday.

Both teams appeared to have the potential Saturday to produce a better than average season.

Besides Hickman, the Owls got double figure performances from forward Roland Allbright (13 points) and center Tim Conklin (12 points).

Allbright pulled down nine rebounds, while Hickman and forward Ordale Newkirk each had seven.

For the Mounties, Nash led with 19 points and Arthur added 18. Nash has scored 73 points in three games. The 6-foot-10 center led the rebounders with 12 Saturday. He pulled down 14 in a 75-53 loss to Glendale Friday night.

Mountie forwards Steve Funk and Dan Carroll had 10 and 11 points, respectively, Carroll grabbed 11 rebounds and Funk had eight.

Sagehens tumble, 4-3

ST. LOUIS, MO. — Goshen College of Indiana edged Pomona-Pitzer 4-3 in the rain and mud Saturday in the consolation championship of the 15th Annual NAIA National Soccer Championships.

The Sagehens at one time held a 3-1 lead, but Goshen tied the score at 3-3 and regulation play ended with the score knotted.

Instead of the usual five-minute overtime, the officials, apparently feeling the downpour and rain-soaked field were too bad for further play, decided to have a goal-kicking competition and Goshen was the first to kick a goal.

Pomona-Pitzer thus winds up the season with a 16-3 mark overall and a sixth place finish in the national tournament.

College football roundup

Stanford rally beats Cal

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Ron Inge and Scott Laidlaw scored touchdowns five minutes apart late in the game Saturday to give Stanford a 26-17 victory over California as the Cardinals capitalized on four mistakes for all but six of their points.

Stanford, finishing the season with a 5-2 record in the Pacific-8 Conference and 7-4 overall, scored a touchdown and two field goals on California turnovers. The Cards added what proved to be the winning score following a 20-yard punt by Steve Bartkowski of Cal.

The Golden Bears, 13-point underdogs, took a 17-13 lead in the second minute of the fourth quarter when quarterback Vince Ferragamo went a yard after Bartkowski set things up with a 56-yard pass to Wesley Walker.

On the following kickoff, Stanford failed to move the ball but buried California deep in its own end after a long punt by Dave Ottmar. On fourth down, Bartkowski, punting from his own end zone, got the ball out only as far as the 29 and four plays later Inge skirted left end for a 20-17 lead for the Cards.

Five minutes later, Laidlaw swept right end from 10 yards out for Stanford's final points.

Cougars romp

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State fullback Andrew Jones ran for three touchdowns and quarterback Chuck Peck passed for two Saturday as the Cougars clobbered Washington 52-26 and left the Huskies without a Pacific-8 Conference victory for the first time in history.

The WSU defense held Washington to a minus 11 yards on the ground and the pass defense relaxed only briefly in the third period.

Vols survive

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Fullback Bill Rudder exploded for a 60-yard touchdown run in the third quarter and the Tennessee defense weathered a Kentucky rally to beat the Wildcats for the ninth straight year, 16-14, Saturday.

With quarterback Mike Fanuzzi scrambling, the Wildcats drove 74 yards only to have Ron Steele miss a 35-yard field goal with 19 seconds to play in Kentucky's late bid to end the Tennessee jinx. The Wildcat junior quarterback outgained Tennessee's Condredge Holoway 160 yards rushing to 20.

Penn St. rallies

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Tailback John Cappelletti's five-yard touchdown run triggered a 24-point Penn State rally in the fourth period Saturday that gave the Orange Bowl-bound Nittany Lions a 35-13 victory over cross-state rival Pittsburgh and an unbeaten regular season.

Linebacker Tom Hull ran 27 yards with an intercepted pass for another of Penn State's fourth-period touchdowns; flanker Chuck Herd caught a 32-yard pass from Tom Shuman for another score and Chris Bahr kicked a 45-yard field goal —his second of the game—to turn an otherwise tight game into a rout.

Kansas comes back

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — David Jaynes twice fired 14-yard touchdown passes in the fourth quarter, the first to Bruce Adams and the second to Emmett Edwards with 1:37 to play Saturday, and freshman Mike Love kicked the winning extra points, lifting Liberty Bowl-bound Kansas to a comeback 14-13 victory over Sun Bowl-bound Missouri.

The final touchdown came on a fourth-down play, capping a 42-yard drive that began with 4:17 left. Jaynes dropped straight back and pegged a perfect strike to Edwards, the Big Eight's leading pass receiver who made a diving catch with Missouri's John Mosley hanging all over him at the goal line.

Tulsa falls

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Wichita State used Fred Speck's running and a strong second half defense to give Tulsa its first Missouri Valley Conference loss of the season, 28-19, Saturday.

It left the Hurricanes tied with North Texas State for the conference crown at 5-1 and finished 7-4 overall. Wichita State finished with two league victories in six tries and a 4-7 season record.

Tulane tripped

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Tailback Louis Carter passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more to power Peach Bowl-bound Maryland to a 42-9 victory over 16th-ranked Tulane Saturday.

Carter scored on one and four yard runs and threw touchdown passes of 32 and 44 yards on option plays. Starting quarterback Ben Kinard threw a 57yard touchdown pass and substitute Al Neville threw a 57-yard touchdown the Maryland scoring.

Purdue wins

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Bo Bobrowski ran for two touchdowns and freshman tailback Scott Dierking scored the clincher Saturday as Purdue beat Indiana, 28-23, to retain the "Old Oaken Bucket," emblematic of their state football rivalry.

The Boilermakers closed the season with a 4-4 Big Ten record and 5-6 overall. Indiana finished winless in eight conference games and 2-9 overall. Junior fullback Dennis Cremeens scored all three touchdowns for Indiana.

Yale rolls

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Yale's reserve quarterback Kevin Rogan, starting his first varsity game, dashed Harvard's Ivy League title hopes Saturday by directing the spirited Elis to a 35-0 romp over Harvard.

Harvard's defeat in this 90th resumption of "The Game" combined with Dartmouth's triumph over Princeton, left the defending champion Big Green atop the Ivy League with a 6-1 mark and dropped Harvard into a second place tie with Yale and Penn at 5-2.

It was Yale's most decisive victory over Harvard since a 54-0 win in 1957.

Ole Miss triumphs

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Tailback Larry Kramer drove for three touchdowns Saturday to boost the Ole Miss Rebels to a 38-10 triumph over fumble-plagued Mississippi State in the season's finale for both teams.

The hard-running Kramer, a 190-pound junior, scored twice in the first half on runs of one and eight yards and smashed over from the two in the fourth quarter as the favored Rebels posted their sixth victory against five defeats.

USC downs UCLA for Bowl berth

USC made it 20-10 with 2:34 left in the third quarter on Limahelu's 32-yard three-pointer. The score came after Trojan tackle Art Riley recovered James McAlister's fumble on the UCLA 47.

Another fumble seconds later wiped up great field position for the Bruins. After Johnson returned the kickoff 51 yards, Russell Charles lost the ball on the Trojan 33 to keep the Bruins frustrated.

UCLA ended up with 331 net yards to out gain the Trojans' 316. Sciarra and Harmon combined to completed five of 10 passes for 82 yards while USC quarterback Haden hit on eight—all in the first half—of 15 for 94 yards.

Johnson completed his brilliant UCLA career by rushing for 107 yards on 17 carries, an average of 6.3 per play, while McAlister added 100 on 23 plays.

Davis, voted the game's top offensive player, enjoyed his second 1,000-yard season as he ran for 145 on 27 carries in his best performance of the season.

Neither USC's Allen Carter or UCLA's Charlie Schuhmann, the former Bonita High teammates, carried the ball Saturday.

USC nose guard Monte Doris earned defensive game honors as he led the tough Trojan defense with 11 tackles and seven assists.

It's not much consolation for UCLA but the Bruins did break the Pac-8 season total offense record by finishing 1973 with 5,177 total yards to surpass USC's record set in 1970.

UCLA, which had won nine straight by huge margins after the opening loss to Nebraska, will now think about 1974 while the Trojans smell Roses.

But UCLA fans can start cheering their tremendous basketball champions next week.

Zorn leads Broncos to win over USIU in season finale

SAN DIEGO — Quarterback Jim Zorn threw for a pair of touchdowns, to Ron Tatum, and ran 40 yards for another score Saturday afternoon to lead Cal Poly to a 35-29 win over United States International University (USIU) in the season finale for both teams at Balboa Stadium.

Zorn, the nation's total offense leader, amassed 405 yards running and passing. The southpaw completed 17 of 28 passes for 332 yards and rushed for 73 yards on 15 carries.

The Westerners rallied from a 28-7 halftime deficit to draw to within a touchdown, 28-21, midway through the fourth quarter.

The Broncs put the game on ice as Zorn scampered 40-yards to give Poly a 14 point cushion.

USIU's Collie Cann scored on a four yard run in the waning minutes of the game to pull the Westerners to their final 35-29 deficit. Cann finished the day with 93 yards on 12 rushes and scored twice.

Poly scored a pair of touchdowns in the first period on Zorn's 23-yard TD pass to Tatum and fullback Greg Cruz' 28-yard run. Cann's three yard run in the second period cut the deficit to 14-7.

The Broncs bounced back with another pair of scores on a 71-yard scoring strike from Zorn to Tatum and Cruz' one yard TD blast. Tatum had his finest performance of the season with 161 yards on six catches.

Flanker Joe Fabian didn't account for any scoring but hauled down four passes for 91 yards to run his season's output to 1,042 yards on 54 catches and five TD's. Cruz closed out his Cal Poly career with 75 yards on 16 rushes.

Cruz' output runs his season's stats to 722 yards and his three-year totals to 1,667 yards, a new career rushing mark. The old mark was held by Tim Hackworth who netted 1,646 yards from 1965-67.

Zorn's 405 yards total offense give him a new California Collegiate Athletic Association record, 3,000 yards. The old mark was 2,700 set in 1968 by John Erdhaus of Cal State Los Angeles.

U.S. duo still ahead

MARBELLA, Spain (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus called his performance "lousy" and Johnny Miller said his was "atrocious," but the two combined for a 145 Saturday to enable the United States to maintain a three-stroke lead over a resurgent South African team after the third round of the World Cup golf competition.

In addition, both Nicklaus and Miller moved into a tie with Lu Lian-Huan of Taiwan for individual honors with totals of 210.

Hugh Baiocchi scored a three-under-par 69 and Gary Player had a 70 to enable South Africa to move up from fourth place into second at 423 with only one round to play on Sunday.

Both Nicklaus and Miller failed to break par for the tricky, 6,905-yard Nueva Andalucia course, shooting a 73 and a 72 respectively to bring their 54-hole total to a 12-under-par 420.

Miller's 72 came just one day after he set a record of 65 for the par-72 course, and neither he nor Nicklaus could give an explanation for their scores.

The South Africans were seven under par and only one stroke behind the United States after nine holes Saturday. But then came what Player called the "drama at the 11th hole," where Baiocchi took a penalty drop for a double bogey and Player, upset after an argument with course officials, bogied the hole.

Player's three-round total was 211 and Baiocchi's 212.

Taiwan's defending champions, Hsieh Min-Nan and Lu, scored a 68 and a 74 respectively to retain third place with a total of 425.

Argentine veterans Roberto de Vicenzo, 50, and Fidel de Luca, 51, who had led the field of 49 teams after the first round, dropped from second to fourth place when de Vicenzo shot a 75 and de Luca a 77 for a total of 432.

The Japanese, Spanish, Thailand and Puerto Rican teams, which had held fifth through eighth places after two rounds, failed to produce scores even approaching par and all dropped far behind the leading teams.

Most of the third-round golfing was as dull as the weather, with Hsieh's 68, Baiocchi's 69 and another 69 by Randall Vines of Australia the only outstanding results. Both Baiocchi and Vines eagled the 505-yard, par-five third hole, each hitting to within 25 feet of the pin with a three-iron and then holing the putt.

Miller said he thought the many bad results were caused by the tricky greens.

"You never get a flat putt here, you never get an easy putt," he said. "The course is okay, it's just the greens."

Nicklaus said, "I played lousy. Neither Johnny nor I played as good as we can. But I played worse."

The 11th hole, which cost South Africa three strokes, is a difficult 210-yard par three, with water enclosing the left of the green.

Baiocchi drove into the water, and taking a penalty drop twice dropped the ball, which rolled back into the water each time. After two drops like this, a player must place his ball on the spot where the second drop landed before it rolled into the water.

There was some discussion about this, since Player thought it could be placed within two club-lengths of the drop spot. Finally, Baiocchi chipped out and took two putts for a double-bogey five. Player, visibly upset, three-putted for a bogey four.

Dolphins post win in Empire Bowl

ARCATA — The Pomona Dolphins defeated the Hoopa Braves, 12-0, Saturday afternoon in the 4th Annual Redwood Empire Bowl at Humboldt State College.

The Dolphins went through the Mt. Baldy regular season unbeaten in nine outings only to lose to the Fontana Bucks in the Championship Bowl, 12-6 last week.

The Braves are from the Hoopa Indian Reservation, approximately 50 miles east of Eureka.

The two midget league teams (ages 11 to 13) played to a scoreless standstill through the first half in light rain and on an extremely sloppy field.

The Dolphins broke into the scoring column early in the third quarter.

Pat Munford returned a kickoff 60 yards to the Brave four yard line. Two plays later, Benny Gooden scored from the one foot line. The run for the two point conversion failed.

In the fourth period, Pomona's Craig Parm recovered a Brave fumble inside the Hoopa two yard line. Gooden carried the ball over the goal line on the next play to extend Pomona's lead to 12-0. The extra point kick was blocked.

In a game played Friday, the Fontana Bucks and the McKinleyville Wildcats battled to a 14-14 tie.

Both Pomona and Fontana will arrive at Ontario International Airport today at 1:45 p.m.

APCs Swift finishes first

BLOOMFIELD, Colo. — Azusa Pacific College All-American walker Carl Wfit finished first for the United States in the 20-kilometer walk in a race against Canada Saturday.

Swift, a junior and the first Cougar athlete to be selected to represent the United States in international competition, finished the walk with a time of 1:42:23.3. Jim Bean of Oregon College was second in 1:44:26.7, while Canadian Roman Olszewski was third in 1:48:15.4.

Pack and 49ers on local TV

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Monday night's San Francisco 49er-Green Bay Packers football game was sold out Friday and will be shown locally on television.

A 49er spokesman said restaurant owner Joe Betz purchased the final 94 tickets just before the deadline to assure the sellout. Betz, who paid $799 for the tickets, said he would distribute them to youths under 18.

Tee to cup

Winners of Gene Littler's Golf Inns of America tournament series will compete in an 18-hole championship playoff on next Sunday for the Carbonite Cup and a purse $2,500

Carbonite Corporation, an El Cajon firm that produces carbon graphite golf shafts, is sponsoring the playoff that will determine the top players of the fall secondary tour.

Winner of the Carbonite Cup will receive $1,500.

Robert Basso, president of Carbonite, said that eight players will participate in the medal play competition, which will be held at the Whispering Palms Country Club in Rancho Santa Fe.

Winners of the eight Golf Inns of America tournaments automatically qualify for the Carbonite Cup. Should there be fewer than eight winners available, the field will be completed by selection of the leading money winners in the Golf Inns events.

The tournament series began Oct. 17 and the eighth and final event will conclude Dec. 1. Each 54-hole tournament has a minimum purse of $30,000.

"I am grateful that Carbonite's participation has made it possible to conclude the series in this way," Ted Vallas, president of Golf Inns of America said. "There should be an overall winner, a champion of the fall tour. And now we're going to have one."

Winners of the first four Golf Inns events and who qualify for the Carbonite Cup playoff are Bill Brask, San Diego; Jeff Van Wagenen, Phoenix; Terry Florence, Charlotte, N. C.; and Steve Bogan, Yorba Linda, California.

THE DIAMOND BAR WOMEN'S Golf Club concluded this year's annual Presidents Cup Tournament recently.

Ella Wiley won the Presidents Cup and the Medallion Award. Second place was won by Sally Millar. Peg McAllister won the Vice-presidents Cup with Lois East coming in second.

Shelby Myers finished first in the A flight of the Low Net tournament. Mary Ellen Finnigan was second. Vicky Tauscher and Carol Steck finished one-two in B flight competition, while Anna Dietrich and Rita Le Roy finished one-two in C flight.

GUS GRETERMAN defeated Bob Smirl in a playoff to win the 1973 Via Verde Country Club President's Cup tournament.

Greterman had won the first flight with a 208, earning the right to meet Smirl, the second flight winner at 214, in the finale. Greterman took a four-stroke victory over Smirl in the playoff.

Second in the first flight was Bob Sennett at 217, while Harry Brown and Ed Berryman tied for the runnerup spot in the second flight with 223s.

Eloise Cutler won the Via Verde Ladies President's Cup, edging Gladys Fischer.

Barbara Brode captured the Vice President's Cup, and Irene Hall was second in that flight.

RESULTS OF RECENT Palm Lakes Women's Club Tournament saw Joan Eggington (25; and Della McCuiston (28½) placing one-two in the ONES event. Marie Muchmore and Lillian Keniston tied at 49 for first place in the choice score tourney, while Vern Perrin, Mrs. Eggington and Pat Jones tied at 52 for second place. Mrs. Eggington won the match par event with a 59. Bea Jones and Mrs. Muchmore were second, tied at 64.

Schedules vital for playoff berths

By United Press International

It's getting down to that point in the pro football season when it's not how you play but who play that counts.

As the teams battle for the final six playoff spots — Minnesota and Miami have already clinched—the teams with the softer schedule have a definite advantage.

That's why the Cleveland Browns face such a critical test today when they host the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Browns, who got the wild card spot in the AFC, would like to do the same thing this season if they can't beat out the Steelers for the AFC Central crown.

After the Pittsburgh game, the Browns close the season against Kansas City, Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

If the Browns don't beat the Steelers, their chances of eating out the Steelers for first place will be almost nil. That means they'll have to beat out Cincinnati or the second place team in the AFC West for the wild card berth.

And Cincinnati would probably have a definite edge in the struggle if Cleveland loses to Pittsburgh. The Bengals meet St. Louis this Sunday and close out their season against Houston. Cincinnati is figured to win those two.

Besides the game with Cleveland, the Bengals also play a Minnesota team that may or may not be interested in the game—since the Vikings have already clinched but lost their perfect record.

Cleveland is 6-3-1 while Cincinnati is 6-4. Pittsburgh leads the division at 8-2.

The Pittsburgh game is such a critical one for the the Browns that the 80,000 seat Cleveland stadium has been sold out and it will be televised locally in Cleveland.

Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll took his Steelers for secret practice this week so the team could prepare for a game on a grass field.

"It's easier for the players to concentrate when there are no crowds around," he said.

The Steelers won eight of their first nine games before they were upset by Denver last Sunday. "Denver made things happen and we didn't. They blocked very well and their ball carriers did a great job of breaking tackles,"

Pittsburgh won the first game this year 33-6 between these two teams but Cleveland has improved and upset Oakland 7-3 last week.

And Cleveland coach Nick Skorich is certain this meeting with the Steelers will be much closer. "Considering past games between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, you could probably toss out the record book. Don't depend on the odds," he said.

The oddsmakers figure Cleveland is a three-point choice.

In the other games, Atlanta is at the New York Jets, Buffalo is at Baltimore, Chicago is at Minnesota, Kansas City is at Denver, Los Angeles is at New Orleans, New England is at Houston, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia, Oakland is at San Diego and St. Louis is at Cincinnati.

Denver gets a chance to show it is for real when it faces Kansas City in an AFC West showdown. The Browns are in second place with a 5-3-2 mark while Kansas City is first at 6-3-1. Oakland, which is third at 5-4-1, has a good opportunity to gain ground on the KC-Denver loser when it meets San Diego. Oakland has lost two straight games at home to Pittsburgh and Cleveland but the Raiders should bounce back on the road.

Los Angeles, which has an 8-2 record, is expected to stay on top of the NFC West with its second victory over New Orleans in three weeks. The Saints have lost two straight.

But Atlanta, which is 7-3, is expected to keep its wild card hopes bright with a triumph over the New York Jets.

However, with Joe Namath back in the lineup, the Jets could have a shot at pulling off an upset. The Jets are fourpoint underdogs.

Namath came off the bench in the last five minutes against Cincinnati last week and came within six inches of pulling off a triumph. In fact, the Jets think Namath got them into the end zone—but the officials disagreed.

Atlanta is expected to have a letdown, too, after its emotional victory Monday night over the Minnesota Vikings.

N.C. State challenges UCLA

NEW YORK (UPI) — It will probably be another year before the college basketball season takes on a different light, but there's a chance, albeit a slim one, that this season might provide something different.

For the last seven years UCLA, which opens defense of its NCAA title Friday night against Arkansas, has dominated the college basketball scene like it has never been dominated before, and with Coach John Wooden and the Walton Gang returning for another year it appears likely that the Bruins' reign of terror will continue.

However, this year the Bruins might find a possible challenger to their throne in the presence of North Carolina State, which went undefeated last year but was on probation and did not get a chance to meet the Bruins in a showdown.

This year the Wolfpack won't have to wait until the NCAA tournament to get a crack at the Bruins. The two teams have scheduled a game for Dec. 15 at a neutral court—the St. Louis Arena—and so the season will be only two weeks old before we know if this season is going to be any different than the last seven.

UCLA, which has won 75 games in a row including seven straight NCAA tournaments, has made an effort to beef up its schedule this year. Besides North Carolina State, the Bruins will take on other national powers such as Maryland, San Francisco and Notre Dame twice.

The Bruins lost a couple of starters from last year's squad, but they probably have enough overall talent returning to make a good showing in the NBA. Back from last year are 6-11 Bill Walton, college basketball's player of the year the past two seasons, and veterans Keith Wilkes, Tommy Curtis, Greg Lee and Dave Meyers.

Also joining the Bruins this year are hotshot guard Andre McCarter, a redshirt last season, and freshman Richard Washington, one of the most sought after high school players in the nation.

North Carolina State, which is probably the only team that can even test the Bruins, is also loaded. The Wolfpack returns All-America David Thompson, 7-4 center Tom Burleson and guard Monte Towe from last year's squad and Coach Norman Sloan feels this season's club will be as strong as last year's.

East—Providence and Syracuse figure to be the best teams. Providence, which made it to the final four in the NCAA tournament a year ago, returns Marvin Barnes and Kevin Stacom from that club while Syracuse has three starters returning from last year's NCAA tourney team, including guard Dennis Duval.

South—Exciting races are predicted for both the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Southeastern Conference. North Carolina State will battle it out with Maryland and North Carolina for the ACC title while Tennessee, Alabama, Vanderbilt and Kentucky are the SEC contenders. Jacksonville and South Carolina loom as the best among the independents.

Midwest—The State of Indiana will provide the strongest teams. Indiana University, a semifinalist in last year's NCAA tournament, is the favorite to win the Big Ten Conference with Purdue expected to provide the strongest challenge. Notre Dame, however, should be the strongest team overall in the area. The Irish return all five starters from last year's NIT Runnerup Club.

Midlands — Oklahoma and Kansas State should fight it out for the Big Eight title while Tulsa, with Willie Biles back for another year, is the favorite in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Southwest—Houston lost three starters from last year 23-4 team, but the Cougars have enough height and talent to have another 20-victory season. Texas Tech and Southern Methodist loom as co-favorites for the Southwest Conference crown.

Rockies—Arizona State and Arizona are the best of the Western Athletic Conference clubs, with Denver isted as the best of the area's independents. Denver returns three starters from last year's 17-9 squad.

Far West—Stanford and Oregon will probably fight it out for the No. 2 spot in the Pacific Eight behind UCLA. San Franciso is the favorite to take the West Coast Athletic Conference, with Nevada-Las Vegas providing some surprising competition, and Long Beach State figures to repeat as Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ.

Garcia builds unbeaten string

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Renato Garcia, 156½, of Santiago, Chile, ran his unbeaten string to 20 Friday night, taking a 10-round split decision over David Love, 156¾, of San Diego.

Love set the pace with a jolting left jab in the first six rounds, trying to move away from Garcia's powerful punches.

Garcia almost scored a knockout in the seventh round when he put Love down twice with right hand shots to the head. Love managed to escape the round, and Garcia won the final rounds.

Referee Fred Hayes and Judge George Latka both had it 6-5 for Garcia, while judge Frank Rustich had it even at 55.

Love is now 20-5.

Erma Bombeck

As soon as my children were born they started a genetic scoreboard.

From their father they figured they inherited wisdom, high I.Q., patience, understanding, tolerance and integrity.

Under mother, the boys listed, "Short, stubby legs" and my daughter has "Long torso and gangly arms."

"Look, kids," I explained, "just think. If I had had a real sense of humor, one of you could have been King Kong."

"That's not funny!" they said, and stalked out of the room on their short, stubby legs, flinging their long gangly arms behind them.

It makes me wonder if any child is happy with his height. When they are toddlers and banging their heads under coffee tables, they can't wait to grow. Then there's the day in about the sixth grade when your daughter comes to you and says, "I want to quit growing."

"Whatya mean you want to quit growing?"

"I mean I'm too tall now. Do you know what it's like to have to always stand in the back row when class pictures are being taken? To never have a winter coat that covers your wrist bone? To have a boy ask you to get his hat down from the top of the locker? What boy is going to look at a girl who can stuff a basketball?"

"What do you want me to do about it?"

"It's all your fault," she says, and stomps out of the room.

Right on her heels come your sons who grumble, "When am I going to start growing? You promised me that I'd start in the eighth grade and here I am the 26th shortest in the class."

"That's not so bad."

"The first 25 are girls."

"It's just something in the genes," I said.

"Then they shouldn't let short people with genes get married."

By the time your daughter is a senior and the boys have surpassed her in height, she approaches you and charges, "When am I going to start growing again? They don't make neat clothes for short girls. Everything you put on makes you look dumpy. All the neat models are tall, but not me, I got stuck with 'your' short, stubby legs."

And the boys complain, "When am I going to stop growing? I bought a new pair of pants last week with my own money and already they look like flood pants (over the ankle). And if I get sleeves to fit me I have to pay extra. You and your long, gangly arms."

"You'll have to keep doing it until you get it right," smiled my husband.

Under his genetic scoreboard, I chalked in, "Dominant Smart-Mouth Gene."

Students building 50 m.p.g. 'dream car'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — An automobile that gets 50 miles to the gallon at 50 miles an hour in these days of fuel shortages not only would be classed as a "dream car" but also as a "dreamer's car."

Well, put down the pipe. Watch General Motors. "Bug" builders of Germany beware.

Students at Western Washington State College are mighty close to getting such a show on the road.

The young men and women in the school's technology department are putting together a vehicle named Viking II that may turn out to be a working model of the urban car of the near future.

The kids and their profs are not new to this business. They've already turned out Viking I which won several national design awards last year and accounted for a handful of patents pending in Washington, D.C.

Michael Seal, an associate professor of technology, is in charge of coordinating the construction of Viking II. He says the prospects for success are very good.

"It's out of the planning stage and into the building stage, although we are making some changes as we go along," he said. "The frame now looks like a birdcage. Shortly, we will be testing it out in the University of Washington wind tunnel to measure it's drag."

Seal, who used to build race cars in his hometown of Vancouver, B.C., said the Viking II will weigh about 800 pounds, 150 pounds less than its predecessor. A Volkswagen "bug" weighs about 2,200 pounds.

"We expect to get better than 50 miles to the gallon," he said, explaining that the Viking II will be fueled by propane gas.

"With modification the engine should be capable of 100 miles an hour with good mileage. But it won't be as good as 50 miles to the gallon available at slower speeds, say 50 miles an hour.

"With the price of fuel what it is today, any vehicle that can get that kind of mileage with gasoline would be economical. With propane it should be much more economical."

He said Viking II will have a low exhaust emission and good performance using a fourcylinder stock 80-horsepower, 1,300 cubic centimeter Subaru Japanese engine, which, incidentally, was donated to the project.

The vehicle's sleek construction and light weight will cut down wind resistence, thus attributing to fuel economy.

The students building the car will get classroom credit for their work, including credits for directed research in such studies as power mechanics, plastics, woodworking, metalurgy, graphics and electronics.

Western Washington has challenged other schools, including UCLA, where another experimental car currently is under construction, to a border-to-border road race

Laguna fire won't repeat, say rangers

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Three years later there is confidence that never again will the Cleveland National Forest feel the fury brought by the infamous Laguna fire of September, 1970.

The blaze —the largest brush fire ever in california—burned for eight days, charring 200,000 acres of forest and brushland. Three persons died.

"I'll never forget the day I flew over the burning area in a helicopter," Descanso district forest ranger Tom Grigery recalled. "It sort of tears you up. After two hours, I told the pilot to turn around. I'd had enough.

"It kind of takes a part of your life away," Grigery remembered as he stood on a charred and barren hillside where trees had once thrived. "You know you can't redo and replant what was there in the time you have on this earth."

In an effort to recreate the forest destroyed by the fire, 37,000 seedlings were planted by the forest service and volunteers. Half died within a year and had to be replaced.

"The first year there wasn't enough moisture, and then the Santa Ana dry winter winds came. We don't have a maintenance program once the seedlings are in the ground. To water 50,000 pines isn't easy."

Practically speaking, though, the forest service doesn't expect or want all the seedlings to survive.

"If every tree we planted survived, you wouldn't be able to walk through them," said the ranger.

Grigery said his men consider their gardening successful if 90 per cent of the seedlings live. Even at that, it will be at least 10 years before any of the new trees reach a height of even 15 feet.

"When you get down to it," Grigery said, "the fire was easy compared to all the work that followed it."

Most of the work consisted of planting seedlings and creating fire breaks by clearing away brush.

Grigery said the breaks are planted in light grass which is suitable for wildlife and blends in with the hillsides.

He said fire on the breaks was easy to control, and the breaks additionally provided swift access to denser fire areas for firemen.

There could be another fire, but not like Laguna.

"Maybe a 10,000 to 30,000 acre fire, but nothing as large as Laguna," says Grigery.

In addition to site work there has been a doubling of staff, meaning more manpower can get to fires faster than in the past.

Grigery said he is pleased with progress since the fire, but he adds that more money and more time are needed to make the forest safe.

And even Grigery is first to admit that even with unlimited resources, the danger of fire in Southern California's national forests will always be there.

English burglar real gentleman

CHELTENHAM, England (UPI) — The burglar behaved like a perfect gentleman when Mrs. Jean Skidmore found him robbing her house."

"Where do you suggest I wait. Madam?" he asked as she telephoned the police, a court heard in recent testimony.

Then he waited for the police to arrive and showed them where he had hidden $225 worth of Mrs. Skidmore's property, according to testimony.

Bacchanalia slated Saturday

Webster's Dictionary describes a Bacchanalia as "A Roman festival celebrated with dancing, singing and revelry" but the Women's Auxiliary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, District 14, labels its third annual Bacchanalia as "a major fund-raising effort to provide scholarships for youths seeking careers in medical and paramedical fields."

However, the Saturday event will live up to its title, with gourmet food, dancing, games and entertainment from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. in McConnell Center, Pitzer College, Claremont.

Following an Oriental rather than Roman theme, the motif this year is "The Golden Dragon." Jack Mayo's band will provide music for dancing and the Gourmet Caterers from Pasadena will serve the 8 p.m. dinner.

Through the efforts of the annual fete, scholarships will be available to young people from the Greater Pomona Valley. The medical association auxiliary hopes that these youngsters, once educated, will return to the area to help alleviate the critical need for professionals in the various health fields.

Last year's Bacchanalia provided scholarship for eight students.

Mrs. Robert W. Dukes is auxiliary president and Mrs. Calvin Chamberlain is president-elect. Program cochairmen are Mrs. Burton Sandberg and Mrs. Jay Palmer. Mrs. Marc Leventhal, as auxiliary ways and means chairman, is in charge of the gala party.

Serving on the Bacchanalia committee are Mrs. Sandberg, and Mrs. Donald Cox, costumes; Mrs. Maxwell Fonda and Mrs. James Beasom, cashiers; Mrs. Robert Allen, bar girls; Mrs. Walter McCleery and Mrs. Donald Moehring, decorations; Mrs. Roger Ellison and Mrs. Richard Davis, dealers; Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Leventhal, reservations; and Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Moser, script.

SCHOLAR GREETED

Miss Rosemary Rangel, 20, who attends Mt. San Antonio College on a prenursing scholarship from District 14, Woman's Auxiliary, LACMA, meets with Mrs. Jay Palmer, left, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dukes. Mrs. Dukes is president of group hosting gala party Saturday to raise scholarship funds.

Americans must restitch their personal lives to save energy

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now is the time to "restitch our personal lives."

To save energy. To stretch gasoline. To make sure we don't have to bring back the candle and the horse. To make sure we stop living high off the hog as the biggest consumers of energy in the world.

The advice to trim your power demands—and how to do it—comes from Dr. John H. Gibbons. He is director of the Department of the Interior's new Office of Energy Conservation.

His job is to plan and direct programs to coordinate energy conservation efforts and provide the consumer with vital information on how to save energy.

During the 30's, says he, Americans trimmed a lot—due to the depression. Lights were turned off to keep the electric bill down.

If you couldn't pay the bill, the electricity was shut off.

During the 40's, Americans stretched gasoline, quieted their sweet tooth through sugar rationing and otherwise exhibited the ability to restitch their lives for a national purpose, Dr. Gibbons said.

The energy crisis or emergency is going to be around a long time, says he. That's why he calls for volunteerism in the effort to make us less gluttonous consumers of electricity and other energy sources.

I asked Dr. Gibbons what every household could do right now to stretch available supplies. He answered:

—Turn the thermostat down to 68 right now, keep it there in the daytime. Turn it lower at night.

—Plan your trips to the store more carefully. You can cut the number of trips in half. (Dr. Gibbons thinks it's silly to power up a 3,000 pound car to go a block or two for a loaf of bread or a can of cat food.)

—"Knock off" half the lights in the house. If you have two lamps in the living room, only light one at a time. The same for every room in the house. Don't have lights on in a room that is unused. (Dr. Gibbons said the federal government has unscrewed one million light bulbs in its complex stretching from Washington, D.C., to neighboring Virginia.)

If all of this seems difficult, well—consider the alternative: blackouts. It could happen, energy authorities like Dr. Gibbons caution.

Dr. Gibbons was interviewed while in New York to brief the National Association of Science Writers (NASW) on the energy problems Americans face this year and next—and for quite some time.

He said we just can't go on being the wasteful consumers of energy that we have been in the past. Instead of slowing down our consumption while the danger signs were being hoisted, we speeded up. To Dr. Gibbons it makes no sense for 6 per cent of the world's population—which we are—to consume 33 per cent of the world's energy, which we have been doing.

When we should have been slowing down in the decade 1960 to 1970, we increased our consumption of energy 46 per cent per capita. "This was a direct result of affluence," Dr. Gibbons said.

"We treated energy as cheap and plentiful, borrowing on the future. Half of the growth was due to new appliances. All these things were parts of the gathering storm."

Some other practical tips from Dr. Gibbons:

—We need to slow down our country (turnpike) driving to 50 miles per hour and speed up driving in cities. The stop and go, traffic crawling done by the city cars is a big waste of gas.

—Radial tires on a car stretch the fuel five per cent.

—We can start thinking of the lifetime of equipment that we buy. Cars, for example, should last longer. Appliances, too. Other hard goods, the same. This is because energy is required to produce replacements, including the basic materials used in making such products. Adding life to these things adds up to an energy saving in production.

—Building codes are almost non-existent in many places. If upgraded buildings by requiring sufficient insulation there would be a 40 per cent saving in energy for heating and cooling.

Long term, according to Dr. Gibbons, we've got to develop lifestyles less dependent on the automobile—for work, play and living.

"Someday we will look back on the year 1973 and see it as the year that gave us a few years lead time on our energy problems," Dr. Gibbons said.

"We can be careful stewards of energy.

Miss Joan Elizabeth McClure and Steven W. Enoch of La Verne exchanged wedding vows in a Saturday morning ceremony at Trinity United Methodist Church in Huntington, Ind.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. McClure of Huntington was given in marriage by her father. The bride designed her own gown of ivory peau de soie with re-embroidered lace, adorned with pearls and glass-beaded clusters. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a V-neckline, sheer sata peau sleeves and pointed cuffs.

MRS. STEVEN W. ENOCH

Lace bordered the hemline of the floor-length, A-line skirt and the cathedral-length train.

A re-embroidered lace tiara held the bride's elbow-length veil of silk illusion. She carried an Edwardian cascade arrangement of Fuji mums, gilded stephanotis with dried German status and English ivy.

Mrs. Stephen J. La Barbera was matron of honor for her sister. Another sister, Mrs. James C. Harwood, Miss Jan Leatherman and Mrs. Stanley Ellis served as bridesmaids.

Christopher Enoch was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Sink of La Verne, James C. Harwood and Ray Ade Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch will make their home in La Verne.

MARY ESCOBAR

Miss Escobar graduated from Presentation High School in San Jose; attended De Anza College at Cupertino and graduated with honors from Bryant and Stratton College of Business.

The California Dairy Princess is sponsored in her statewide activities by the California Milk Advisory Board, a dairy farmer organization dedicated to the non-brand promotion of milk and milk products.

Egg packer given fine, probation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A San Joaquin County egg packer has been fined and placed on probation for selling "underweight" eggs, the state Department of Food and Agriculture has reported.

The packer, Ralph Burson, operator of Burson Egg Farms in Acampo, pleaded guilty to one of three counts of violating state egg regulations in Municipal Court in Roseville. Burson was cited at the Roseville Auction Yard July 21 by a state egg and poultry quality control officer.

He was fined $150, but $75 was suspended during a probation of indeterminate length, the department said.

Burson admitted removing a red "hold" tag placed by the state agent on 2,730 dozen eggs to be sold by him at the auction yard, the department said.

The eggs were labeled Extra Large Grade AA, the department added, but the shipment contained "underweight eggs in excess of state tolerances."

Santa back as popular card figure

NEW YORK (UPI) — In recent years, Christmas card publishers have found there's a steadily increasing demand for Christmas cards with Santa Claus designs for grown-ups to send.

People are nostalgic for the dimly remembered but happy days of their own childhood when Santa's long-awaited visit was the glorious climax to the Christmas celebration. People have recognized that Santa, possibly better than any other symbol, epitomizes the warm-hearted spirt of Christmas.

Papier mache exhibit on

UPLAND — An exhibition of papier mache works, including Christmas decorations and tree ornaments, by Marie Petroff and Harriet White is now on display at the Upland Public Library.

Papier mache ("chewed paper" in French) was the first recycling of waste paper, and examples have been found in China dating back to 206 A.D. The old paper is chopped up, shredded or molded — sometimes boiled, and, with paste, lamination or cloth, formed into sturdy shapes and art objects. The resulting form can be sanded, varnished or painted.

The Upland library exhibit will continue through December.

Huge shale oil pool lies untapped in the Rockies

Business World

By JOHN J. SANKO

DENVER (UPI) — The United States, a nation thirsty for oil, has not yet gone to the well to draw upon the more than 600 billion barrels of oil locked in the Green River shale formation of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

Despite growing demands for oil and increasing problems in getting it, it will be years before shale oil makes an impact on the market. Hollis M. Dole thinks the lack of a marketable product borders on the criminal.

Dole is general manager of the Colony Development Operation, a consortium of four oil firms which has been at work since 1965 studying the problem of removing oil from shale.

"Here we have a resource—certainly one of the great energy resources of the world— and right now we aren't doing anything about it," Dole said. "I think it borders on being a crime that it hasn't been developed before now.

"If for no other reason, the United States should be developing an oil shale industry because we have such a large amount of it," Dole said. "We ought to know what we can do with it. We ought to know how we can handle it, what the costs are and what the technological problems are."

Colony wants to be in the forefront of the commercial development of shale. It has operated a so-called semiworks plant in the Parachute Creek area of northwest Colorado, near the small community of Grand Valley. Now it wants to move on to something bigger.

Real thing

"We know on a laboratory scale and on a pilot plant scale how to get shale oil," Dole said. "But going from the pilot plant scale to a commercial size plant will involve a lot of technical problems we will only know how to handle when one is built. And that is what borders on being a crime—we have not built a plant before now."

Colony would like to begin construction of a plant in the next year or two, but Dole admits there are many obstacles, among them getting federal, state and local approval to go ahead.

Dole said he knows of at least 38 permits which will be needed, includng road and river crossings, air and water discharges and pipeline construction.

Environmental problems admittedly are a headache, but Dole thinks the choice may be between some environmental degradation or alternatives that a mobile nation—which depends upon oil to run its factories and its transportation—would find unacceptable.

"We have to take a lot better care of our earth than we have in the past, no question about it," Dole said. "We must be committed to a quality environment. But we think there is a happy trade off, that there should be, there has to be, a trade off between what is best for the country, what is best for the people, and how much degradation can be suffered.

Among the environmental problems is the mining of the shale, much of it located on federal lands. Although shale is found on every continent and in at least 30 states of the United States, the world's largest reserves are found in the relatively virgin 17,000-square-mile Green River formation of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

"We think it can be done and still end up with a quality environment," he said.

Then there are air pollution problems. To get the oil from the shale rock, it must be from a vapor state into a liquid state. The end product is heated, then brought back a material quite similar but not exactly like conventional crude oil.

One of the most difficult problems is what to do with the spent shale—that which is left after the oil has been removed. Processed shale expands to 10 to 15 per cent greater volume than the original product.

"So on a volume basis, although you might remove a cubic yard, you would end up with more than a cubic yard," Dole said.

Possible solutions include some underground disposal in sections opened by mining, but that would require a lead time of about five years to develop room to move the material in for disposal. Since there is a greater volume, some surface disposal also would be necessary.

Colony claims to have had success in surface disposal of the processed shale. After dumping the processed shale in a valley, it can be revegetated or covered with natural soil or crushed rock.

"We have performed over 30 studies over a period of four years and have determined that we can successfully reseed and revegetate spent oil shale," Dole said.

On the plus side of the environmental question, shale oil is one of the cleaner fuels available.

"By using this material for generation of electricity in metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles, Chicago or New York," Dole said, "you could continue your industrial development without any degradation to the atmosphere."

No question

Dole said there really is no question that the nation will turn to oil shale as an answer for some of its energy demands —the only question is when.

Even with immediate development, Dole said, it is unlikely that shale oil could make any sizable contribution to the country's energy requirements before 1985.

The National Petroleum Council has predicted a shale oil industry could be pumping out about 750,000 barrels of oil a day by 1985.

"But I don't think the size of the shale oil industry is really the point behind all this," Dole said. "Certainly it's going to contribute a lot of needed material and high quality material to our energy supply, but I think the importance is that the United States will have at hand an industry capable of expanding if need be.

"If the Arab oil is used as a political and economic club against the United States, we have an option," he said. "Shale oil is an option—and it's a very good option because it's a domestic source."

Dole said the federal government could help encourage shale development via a number of routes, including nonrecourse loans, changes in the depletion allowance tax, an increase in the investment tax credit from 7 to 12 per cent, rapid amortization of the first shale plants and leasing of federal shale lands.

"It depends upon the policy of the government as to how rapidly shale oil will be developed," he said. "And certainly, in the position in which we find ourselves at the present time as far as energy goes, it would seem to be in the best interests of the country."

Dole said shale oil could provide about four per cent of the nation's energy needs by 1985, coal liquefaction another two or three per cent, and geothermal energy another four to five per cent. The United States is now producing about 10 million barrels a day of conventional oil.

"All this does not add up to total dependency on domestic sources," he said, "but I don't think we will ever reach total dependency on domestic sources again. It does put us in a position where we have more than one option—the dependency on overseas sources of supplies. I think we are recognizing more and more the implications of that."

Stocks slump again - fourth straight week

NEW YORK (UPI) — The energy crisis and the recession that could result pummelled stocks on the New York Exchange for the fourth consecutive week in active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average plunged 37.33 to 854.00 in a four-session week where swings of ten and twenty points in an hour were commonplace.

The average of 30 blue chips has dropped 133.06 points in the last four weeks, reflecting the energy crisis, confusion over the Nixon administration's energy policies, the Arab oil embargo, growing talk of a recession, Watergate, and Wall Street's disappointment over the Federal Reserve's tight money policies.

Declines Occurring

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 4.46 to 99.42. The NYSE index sagged 2.39 to 53.09.

Twice this week the number of declines occurring in a single session set Exchange records. On Monday, 1,404 issues were thrown for losses, but that record lasted only a day as 1,454 issues fell on Tuesday. On both days, the list was battered by uncertainty over the energy crisis, the possibility of a recession, and steps the Nixon administration might take in response.

For the week, losers topped gainers, 1,592 to 221, among the 1,966 issues traded. There were 3 new highs, 586 new lows.

Three Days of Action

Most of the week's action came during the first three days. On Monday, a toughening anti-U.S. stance by the Arab oil sheikhs and talk of a nationwide ban on Sunday driving resulted in the fifth worst decline in the history of the Dow industrial average —28.67 points.

As talk of an imminent recession filled the air, the Dow sank another 17.76 points the following session.

The California Bicentennial Commission announces a unique and enduring gift: The Official 1973 California American Revolution Bicentennial Medallion.*

Now you can give a gift no one's ever given before: California—and the part our state has played in America's proud history.

As part of America's bicentennial celebration, the California Bicentennial Commission has created a series of remarkably beautiful medallions you can give, or keep, with pride.

Struck in either Solid Sterling Silver or Antiqued Bronze, this Official 1973 Medallion was designed by Preston Condict of Paso Robles Senior High in a state wide scholarship competition. It is the first of four medallions to be issued annually through 1976.

The Sterling Silver medallions are individually numbered like fine etchings or lithographs.

When you give the Official 1973 California Bicentennial Medallion, you give more than a beautiful, inspiring tribute to America. You also help us. As a public service, proceeds from the medallion's sale will go directly to the California Bicentennial Commission to support our planned celebration of America's 200th birthday.

Give the Official 1973 California Bicentennial Medallion in either Solid Sterling Silver ($12.50) or Antiqued Bronze ($3.50). To your friends. To your children. To yourself.

*Each purchase entitles you to membership in the American Bicentennial Society at no extra cost.

ART IN HOSPITAL — "Cypress at Monterey," an oil painting by Muriel Woodruff of Pomona, is one of the works she has on display in the dining room of the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Woodruff, who has worked at the hospital for 23 years, will retire next Saturday but will leave many of her art works to adorn the walls of the hospital. She plans to continue her art career.

PVCH artist will leave work behind

POMONA — More than memories of her help to hundreds of patients will remain at Pomona Valley Community Hospital when Muriel Woodruff retires Saturday.

Although Mrs. Woodruff will leave her position in the surgery department after 23 years of service, she will continue to display her landscape paintings on the walls of the hospital dining room.

"It came on me all of a sudden," she says of her start in oils four years ago. She did her first work, an ocean scene, while vacationing at Idyllwild.

Mrs. Woodruff never took lessons, but she comes from an artistic family which has included artists, architects and decorators. She started carving figurines out of apples, and became known for her apple-headed dolls, the fruit preserved by shellac, an old southern country practice.

When she switched to oil painting she concentrated on landscapes, yet most of her painting is done in her studio in her apartment on Chester Street.

Color is her strongpoint and she has caught the eye of residents here with her exhibit at the hospital.

"It opened up a whole new field for me just when I began to think ahead to retirement," she said.

Mrs. Woodruff will not have to worry about what to do with her time when she leaves PVCH. She already has orders for pictures which will keep her busy through the middle of next year.

California residents eye political reform

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — In a twist of roles encouraged by Watergate, California voters find themselves with an opportunity to enact sweeping laws regulating state politicians and government officials.

At campaign tables sprinkled in shopping centers and parking lots, petition circulators are asking: "Do you want to reform politics?"

The two-month-old initiative drive is aimed at clamping the tightest restrictions yet on reporting campaign money, plus imposing for the first time limits on how much state politicians may spend. It also is designed to bar any flow of money from lobbyists to politicians and to take away some of the advantages that incumbents naturally have in seeking reelection.

The effort, which spurred legislators this past session to pass hurriedly their own versions of some of the restrictions, was born from the coalition of "Citizen Lobbyists" and an ambitious young politician.

Bringing together ideas earlier this year on "new rules" for politics were People's Lobby, a state group noted for previous environmental initiatives; Common Cause, a national lobbying group with an emerging California chapter; and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown, Jr., 35, a Democrat with gubernatorial hopes who has a reputation as an aggressive chief elections officer.

Political reform initiative

Their union produced what is known as the Political Reform Initiative Of 1974.

"To my way of thinking, this is the greatest bill that I've ever seen," said Joyce Koupal, cofounder of People's Lobby. "If politicians still want to cheat, then they are going to be caught and punished under this law."

Brown, who is relying heavily on the initiative in his early campaigning for governor, calls it the "culmination of my four years as secretary of state."

As of the first of this month, roughly two thirds of the needed 325,000 signatures had been gathered to qualify the measure for a spot on the June 1974 primary ballot.

"Watergate helped us," said Ms. Koupal, who is personally gathering signatures in Southern California. "People are very angry and very frustrated (and) they are tickled to death about us."

Areas covered

Basically, the highly detailed, 112-page initiative, covers these areas:

Political spending—limits the amount candidates for statewide office may spend during primaries and general elections. The limits are based on a certain amount for every resident of voting age—7 cents in the primary for governor, 9 cents in the general election for governor, and 3 cents in primaries and 3 cents in general elections for other statewide officers. Other provisions limit spending for initiatives to 25 cents per signature needed to qualify for a ballot spot; both sides would be allowed 8 cents per voter-age resident in the election, but neither side could outspend the other by more than $500,000, and incumbents would be cut back an additional 10 per cent.

Campaign reporting — requires all state and local candidates to file campaign reports, detailing contributions and expenditures. Names, addresses and occupations of all contributors who give more than $50 must be included. Expenditures of more than $50 must be itemized.

Lobbyists

Lobbyists —bans lobbyists from giving money to state officials and limits gifts or entertaining by lobbyists to $10 a month for each official. Requires lobbyists to register with the secretary of state.

Conflict of interest—requires all policy-making public officials, state and local, to file conflict of interest reports, detailing if and where assets of more than $1,000 are invested within their areas of control.

Fair Political Practices Commission—establishes a five-member appointed commission to administer the act and appropriates $1 million each year for its expenses.

Other provisions of the initiative provide for a more attractive, more "readable" and more expensive ballot pamphlet—something the legislature already voted to do. It also requires that incumbents not automtically be given the top spot on the ballot.

Early bowl game

The first postseason bowl football game was played Jan. 11 1902, when Michigan defeated Stanford, 49-0, in the Tournament of Roses.

Clerk's reply nets sympathy from gunman

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — A man wearing a Halloween mask and carrying a revolver walked into Victoria Liquors recently, obviously intending to hold up the place, clerk Thomas Dougherty reported.

"How's business?" the robber asked.

As a matter of fact, Dougherty said, it had been a rotten day. The customers stayed home this holiday.

$1,000 reward offered for $20 hijack bill

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A $1,000 reward has been offered for just one of the $20 bills hijacker "D. B. Cooper" disappeared with on Thanksgiving eve 1971.

The offer was made by The Oregon Journal, which listed the serial numbers of some of the bills in the $200,000 package "Cooper" extorted from Northwest Airlines. The package contained 10,000 $20 bills.

"Cooper" boarded the Northwest Boeing 727 jetliner in Portland, received the ransom in Seattle, Wash., then ordered the plane flown to Reno, Nev. When the aircraft landed in Nevada, "Cooper" had disappeared.

It was believed the hijacker parachuted out of the craft over southwestern Washington. But there has never been a trace of him.

All that is known of the man is that he signed on the plane as "D. B. Cooper." He was believed to have had a disguise.

The Journal said in its Thursday editions that, if authorities had just one of the $20 bills, they would have a significant clue.

Other serial numbers will be published later.

The doctor comments

Potassium important in body's chemistry

DEAR DR. LAMB — I should like to know what is the purpose of the need for magnesium and potassium in foods?

Also, it is my understanding that watermelon contains a great deal of potassium, is that true?

DEAR READER — There has been lots of excitement about magnesium, more excitement than facts. It is a light weight metal, and it is essential to the body. Most of it is stored in the bones. It is important in the actions of the vital enzymes that we use in processing our food to energy.

Magnesium, and other minerals, with potassium, sodium, and calcium all are important in the delicate balance of chemicals within our muscle and nerve cells. When the balance gets out of kilter, nerve and muscle function go awry. The heart muscle may not contract properly, nerves may become easily excited resulting in twitches or worse, and muscles may cramp. It's the balance of all of these and other minerals that keeps things functioning right.

Despite exaggerated claims by some nonmedical enthusiasts, the evidence that there are any real problems about magnesium deficiencies in the population at large is very meager or nonexistent. Much misinformation is given to the public on these matters in so-called health magazines. The truth is that magnesium is widespread in our food. It is hard to eat without getting enough of it.

The two main groups of people who often do have magnesium deficiencies are the alcoholics and those people taking water pills or medicines to flush out water through the kidneys. Such medicines are used in heart failure, high blood pressure, and by some women to relieve the problems of premenstrual tension with wather retention. If none of these apply to you, the chances are that you are getting enough magnesium.

Potassium is one of the main chemicals in our cells. We have mostly sodium chloride salt in the water outside our cells and inside we have mostly potassium phosphate. The phosphate is particularly important in the cell functions needed to generate energy. Did you know your cells use those phosphates to make high energy compounds to run the whole energy system of the body? It's our stored energy source.

Potassium is in a lot of foods, but fruits, melons and berries are the best sources of it. Watermelon has a lot of potassium, specifically 100 milligrams in three-and-half ounces (100 grams). That is about half as much as a similar weight of orange juice.

If you drink orange juice regularly you will be getting enough potassium, unless you have a medical problem. Even then three glasses of orange juice a day will provide as much potassium as most doctors like to prescribe in medicines.

Patients taking digitalis-type medicines for heart trouble need to be particularly careful to keep their chemicals in balance. Inadequate amounts of body potassium can affect how the heart responds to the medicine.

Michigan city fights auto with minibus

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — While many cities are groping for answers to their public transportation problems, this community of 100,000 has found one solution—a door-to-door transit system called "Dial-A-Ride."

With Dial - A - Ride, inaugurated as a pilot project in 1971, all a user has to do is phone in a request for service. Within minutes—usually less than 10— a bright purple minibus can be at his door to take him exactly where he wants to go in the city. The price: 25 cents.

Dial-A-Ride is actually the first step in a more comprehensive project called Teltron which is expected to completely overhaul the city's conventional bus system by 1975. The pilot project operated with three minibuses only in the southwest corner of the city, but it proved so successful that voters last April approved a proposal that nearly quadrupled the city's transportation budget to an estimated $1.5 million annually for the new system.

Although Ann Arbor was the first major U.S. city to approve financing for such a mass transit package, the Dial-A-Ride concept has been used on either an experimental or small scale in other U.S. and Canadian cities since the late 1960s, according to Karl Gunther, director of the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority.

"It's now a proven concept and very accepted," said Gunther, who previously worked on several pioneer DialA-Ride projects in Ohio and Canada as a member of a Ford Motor Co., transportation research team. Similar systems are also being organized in communities in New York, California, Maryland and New Jersey.

Service diversity

Unlike conventional bus systems, Ann Arbor's Teltran will offer a diversity of services, of which Dial-A-Ride is a part, Gunther said.

"We figure a transportation system is a bundle of services, not a single service," he said. "It means different things to different people on different days of the week."

Already operational is a subscription program which transports more than 400 school children to and from their classes each day. That concept eventually will be expanded to provide similar regular daily service for working people.

A special bus to transport wheelchair passengers was started this month with more to come, and the Dial-A-Ride system is expected to be expanded city-wide on evenings and weekends by December.

For the heavy weekday traffic, however, Dial-A-Ride minibuses ultimately will serve as "feeders" to an express bus system that will become the backbone of Teltron.

Express rendezvous

Under the plan, a person wanting to go crosstown would be picked up by a minibus that would rendezvous with a fullsize express bus. A second minibus on the other side of town would then meet the express bus to take the passenger to his location—all without the passengers' having to stand and wait outside.

Dial-A-Ride service already has replaced one of the city's six conventional routes, but further expansion awaits approval of a $1.7 million federal grant to buy 35 to 40 additional buses. Each eventually will have a system through which its driver will receive printouts of pickup and dropoff locations from a computer, eliminating the degree of error inherent in the verbal two-way radio system now used between the driver and the central dispatcher.

Other future plans include the installation of 50 special telephones in locations throughout the city along the express routes.

The system is not without a few bugs.

For example, a dispatcher may be annoyingly off in his estimate to a caller on the time he will be picked up. On the other hand, the caller has

Teens learn about 'Price of Death'

FRESNO (UPI) — Teenaged traffic offenders here are undergoing a unique program called "The Price of Death" which local officials say is apparently producing better young drivers.

The program, initiated six months ago, is the brainchild of Phillip Jenkins, hearing officer of the Juvenile Traffic Court.

It requires young speeders, "red runners" and teenagers guilty of other moving violations to personally visit local ambulance services, funeral homes, hospitals and cemeteries and write at least a 1,000-word report estimating the financial costs of one traffic death.

So faar, more than 500 teenagers have gone through the "Price of Death" program and only five per cent have ended up back in traffic court on new moving violations—a record Jenkins says is better than all his other traffic safety programs.

"It is too early to make any prediction and say 'well, this is a real excellent tool' but it would indicate so far that we're getting young people to think about what some of their acts might cause," Jenkins said.

When given the assignment, the teenager must set up appointments with the ambulance services, hospitals, mortuaries and cemeteries and then pay a personal visit accompanied by at least one parent.

Jenkins said the parents often learn as much as the teenagers and not one has turned down his request that the teenager be accompanied.

The program is free and the agencies involved all donate their time and have set up tours and talks for the teens.

Most harrowing of the experience for many of the teenagers is a visit to the Belmont Memorial Park where Mrs. Mollie Lawlor points out the graves of teenagers who didn't slow down or who weren't paying attention.

What is the price of a traffic death? The teenagers found ambulance services charge a base price of $35 with extra charges for using the siren, night calls, passengers, oxygen and a flat fee of $1.50 per mile which can run the bill well over $100.

Hospital bills even for victims who are DOA (dead on arrival) can reach several hundred dollars including costs for shock revival treatments, reviving drugs used, x-rays and autopsy costs.

And a traffic victim who arrives in critical condition or a coma can run up a huge bill if he lives long enough.

One teenager was shown a bill for $32,000 for a man who had been intensive care for six months.

Funeral costs are well known and can range from a few hundred dollars to thousands while interment and headstone costs can also reach into the hundreds or thousands.

Jenkins said a rough average shows the financial cost of a traffic death ranges between $3,000 and $12,000 although one youthful traffic offender came up with a minimum price of $1,586 while another figuring the worst, came up with a total of $47,325.50.

In addition to figuring the costs, the teenagers are asked to recommend ways of reducing traffic deaths and their ideas and suggestions are forwarded to a citizens' Price of Death committee which refers the better ideas to local agencies for possible action.

Jenkins said he has received numerous letters from thankful parents who were unable to convince their offspring of the importance of safe driving while one trip to an emergency room or a mortuary produced noticeable improvement in the youngsters' driving habits.

"For the young person that is delightfully intrigued with driving and not paying much attention sometimes to what they're doing, this is a sobering experience," says Jenkins, who hopes that other communities consider a similar program.

While the teenager becomes aware of the financial cost of a traffic death he also becomes aware of other, more important costs.

As one youth wrote in his report: "If the cost of dying were only $1.00 it would still be too great a price to pay. One cannot put a price on the love and companionship lost to a family when a life is ended in tragedy."

Jewish leader asks Nobel winner to renounce prize

VIENNA (UPI) — Simon Wiesenthal, head of the Jewish Documentation Center, has urged Konrad Lorenz to renounce his Nobel prize because of his support of Nazi ideas during World War II.

Lorenz, an Austrian professor lecturing on the behavior of animals, was awarded the 1973 Nobel prize for medicine for hus scientific research on geese.

Wiesenthal said Lorenz, in an article published in 1940, supported the idea of "extermintion of ethnic inferior people."

Wiesenthal said there was only one step from the "extermination of ethnic inferior life" to the murder of millions of innocent victims in the Nazi concentration camps and gas chambers.

"In the name of Jewish victims of the Nazi regime, I appeal to you to renounce the Nobel prize to show that you no longer support these ideas," Wiesenthal said in a letter to Lorenz.

A copy of his letter was sent to the Nobel prize committee in Stockholm, Wiesenthal said.

Brooke: still feels President should resign

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, the first Republican senator to call for the President's resignation, says "nothing has happened" to change his mind.

"It has been my hope that the President would make full disclosure and would be able to turn things around," Brooke told newsmen following a meeting at the State House with Gov. Francis W. Sargent recently. "I think this would take something of a miracle."

Minibus battles cars

to be ready and waiting for the bus when it does arrive, since it immediately must move on to its next passenger.

Giving it a chance

But residents of this university town know what reliance on the automobile has done to other cities, and they're giving the system a chance.

"I always leave the car sitting in the driveway now," said a businessman in his 30s on one of the minibus rides to the downtown area. "I haven't started it in over a week."

"Where else can you get a bargain like this?" asked an elderly lady. "This is terrific. It costs me $2 to take a cab downtown."

Gunther said he has been "sort of overwhelmed" by the public support the new system has been given.

"This community has a strong dedication to public transportation," Gunther said. "People have been able to look ahead and recognize some of the problems before they get out of hand, such as air pollution, traffic jams and acres of downtown parking lots, all of which Ann Arbor does not now have.

"This is a town where public transportation is going to make a difference ten years from now."

Drop in home loan interest rates is seen

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Interest rates on home loans would drop to about eight per cent by the middle of next year, the head of the Federal National Mortgage Association has predicted.

Oakley Hunter said rates probably would not drop below eight per cent.

Interest rates already are moving down because of a decline in housing starts the past two months, he said.

The FNMA is a public corporation with federal backing which purchases mortgages to stabilize the mortgage market.

1929 bill finally paid

BEAVERTON, Ore. (UPI) — Loton Cromwell of Amboy, Wash., has taken care of something that "bothered me a lot of years."

This week he paid $45 to Dr. C.E. Mason, 93, of Beaverton for performing a tonsilectomy on his son in 1929. Cromwell said he recently found the unpaid bill in the attic.

Cromwell said at the time of his sons tonsilectomy he had lost his job, home and car in the Depression. Following the Depression, he worked at various jobs and sent money to creditors.

"They're all paid now," said Cromwell. "I'm a lot more at peace with the world."

Contradictory spectacle

Congressional fight again looms over defense funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Mideast War seems to have set the stage in Congress for another liberal-conservative battle over defense spending and foreign policy.

If Congress behaves according to form, the country may be treated to the spectacle of watching lawmakers who just voted to restrain presidential war powers make conflict more likely by cooling detente with the Russians and upping the arms budget.

The irony is compounded by the fact that many of those who would restrict military spending will be compelled for political reasons to vote against detente —thereby making higher defense appropriations more probable.

The issues are an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to the foreign trade bill, and a Pentagon request for $3 billion to 4 billion in extra arms.

Jackson's amendment would bar the United States from giving trade advantages to Russia until it permits free emigration. It is directed at forcing Moscow to let Soviet Jews flee to Israel.

Moscow is reluctant to do so because it might exacerbate Russian problems with other national minorities like the Ukranians or Lithuanians, academic experts say.

Jackson says his amendment is no more than a modest effort to urge "the Soviet authorities to meet a minimum standard of human decency."

Opponents, like Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., charge that his real motive is to renew the Cold War. They suspect Jackson's hard line position aims at gaining Jewish support in his run for the 1976 Democratic nomination.

While many liberals want detente continued and broadened, the pro-Israel vote is so strong they must back Jackson, like it or not.

Even the administration recognized this when, at the height of the crisis with detente apparently collapsing before the Soviets' rush to help the Arabs, it asked a delay on the trade bill to avoid making the amendment law.

The Pentagon demand for more arms also sprang from the crisis. To Fulbright and other liberals it is inseparably linked with military opposition to detente.

"They use any excuse, any emotion to get more money," Fulbright said in an interview a few days ago. "This is part and parcel of the effort to kill detente."

The Pantagon wants the extra money because, it says, the war showed gaps in U.S. preparedness. Most of the funds would go to increasing airlift capacity by buying giant, longrange transports.

Some would be spent on building up arms stocks on U.S. soil to hedge against the future refusal of an ally to cooperate in a crisis —like the German ban on shipping U.S. weapons in that country to Israel.

Both liberals and conservatives shot holes in the Pentagon's trial balloon when it was floated late last week, because it would "bust" the President's budget.

But 1975 Pentagon money requests are due on the Hill in three months, and even if there is no hurry-up appropriation now, a big slice of what the military wants is sure to be included then.

Presuming that the liberals will have helped Jackson paint the detente policy into a corner by that time, it will certainly make sense for them to vote extra money for weapons. They might well be needed.

Health unit gives view of 'outside'

STANFORD (UPI) —There's a new kind of halfway house on the Stanford University campus —this one for hospital patients.

Physically handicapped patients soon to be discharged from Stanford University Hospital use the house to bridge the gap between fulltime care and the time at home when the patient is on his own.

During the two-day to five-day period at the home, the patient and his family are trained to perform nursing and physical therapy, tasks —all in a home-like atmosphere.

This halfway house is part of a program called "Family Focus," established two years ago by the Division of Phisical Therapy at Stanford Medical School and the only one of its kind in the country.

Program Coordinator Kay Shepard says that although data is still being collected on the effectiveness of "Family Focus," results so far seem to be very positive.

"In some instances, physicians referred cases here to demonstrate to family members that they could not handle the patient and shouldn't take him home," she said. "But in each instance, the families proved much more capable than expected."

Two days at the Family Focus house with her disabled husband gave Margret McKenzie the confidence to act as nurse at their Redwood City home.

While Ross McKenzie learned to walk again following total hip replacement, therapists at Family Focus showed Mrs. McKenzie how to turn her husband over —something he is now unable to do himself.

"In the hospital, the nurses showed me how, but I was petrified," she said. "They just don't have enough time to spend with you."

The staff at Family Focus, she said, could give her all the time she needed to do the delicate task.

"They showed me how, then told me what I did wrong, then stayed with me until I did it," she said.

Mrs. McKenzie said physical therapists and one intern occupied a room in the Family Focus house for eight hours a day. When the staff wasn't teaching McKenzie exercises or taking him for walks or showing Mrs. McKenzie how to aid her husband, staff members were still in the same house and available if any problems came up.

The McKenzies, both retired, were encouraged to follow as normal a routine as possible so any problems that might be encountered at home could be solved at the "halfway house." Mrs. McKenzie did the cooking, they invited guests over, watched TV —just like at home.

They had no problems, but Mrs. McKenzie says that without Family Focus, that vital ingredient, confidence, would be lacking in her handling of her husband.

"If I hadn't gone, I'd probably have eventually caught on, but I would have been very much worried about what to do," she said. "And my husband would have been unhappy, too."

Bush doesn't put stock in Gallup sizeup

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Republican National Chairman George Bush took exception recently to pollster George Gallup's prediction that Watergate is going to hurt the GOP in the 1974 elections.

Bush, addressing the Republican Governors Association, said public opinion polls in 1965, after the crushing defeat of Sen. Barry Goldwater, also showed very poor prospects for GOP candidates in the years ahead.

But Bush said Republicans did well in 1966 and two years later captured the White House. He said Democrats who tried to blame uninvolved GOP candidates for Watergate were going to see a "backlash."

He said that happened to Lt. Gov. Henry Howell, a Democrat turned independent, who Bush said raised the issue in the Virginia gubernatorial race against Republican Mills Godwin and "clutched defeat from the jaws of victory."

Bush said the Howell-Godwin race was proof voters would not blame all Republicans for Watergate and added: "The Republican party is clean and is going to stay clean."

Record harvest sends wine prices down

PARIS (UPI) — Despite inflation, the price of wine is dropping thanks to a record harvest, perhaps the best in a century, the newspaper France-Soir said.

This year, grape pickers brought in 2.08 billion gallons, outdoing the 1962 harvest of 1.92 billion gallons and comparable only to the legendary 1875 output, the newspaper said.

The record production, according to France-Soir, explains the price drops of from 2 to 18 cents per bottle in wineshops.

Part of the drop is due to the 60 to 300 per cent price increases registered beginning in 1972, France-Soir said. These increasees were the result of growing foreign demand and a relatively poor harvest. In 1972, only 1.4 billion gallons were brought in.

The newspaper said that wine harvests around Europe were also up. In Italy, the harvest totalled 1.82 billion gallons and in West Germany 286 million gallons, both increases.

The global European figure was 4.21 billion gallons, or about 910 million gallons above the yearly average, France-Soir said.

Keep your posies fresh as daisies

NEW YORK (UPI) — To keep holiday flowers looking top-top, follow these tips.

Place stems in deep warm water. Pour warm water into the container in which they will be kept. Cut stem ends diagonally with a sharp knife. Remove all foliage below water level. Add a commercial flower preservative to the water.

Poinsettas have a milky substance or juice which should be sealed into the stem by quickly dipping stem ends one or two inches into boiling water.

When stem ends get soft, recut to remove the bad portion.

DO WANT ADS WORK?

DO MICE LIKE CHEESE?

The answer to both questions is a roaring "yes".

Why mice prefer cheese over all other types of food is something we two-legged creatures will never understand.

Why Want Ads work, at a lower cost and greater effectiveness than any other form of advertising, is easy to understand. It is because Want Ads provide people-to-people communication, bringing buyer and seller together.

If you've never used a Want Ad, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

Let us put a Want Ad to work for you . . .

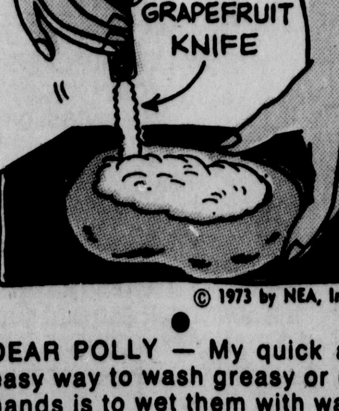
Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When removing the center from a baked potato that is to be mashed, seasoned and then put back in the shell, I discovered that a grapefruit knife works beautifully. It fits around the curve of the potato just as it does around a grapefruit. — MRS. H. J.



GRAPEFRUIT KNIFE

© 1973 by NEA, Inc.,

DEAR POLLY — My quick and easy way to wash greasy or oily hands is to wet them with water and then rub with a tablespoon of granulated sugar. Rinse thoroughly, then finish the job with ordinary hand soap. — TERRY

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — To clean venetian blinds, spread them on the lawn. Spray with the garden hose with a pressure-controlled nozzle and a rather heavy spray. Next, spray with a liquid cleaner and then rinse with the hose. Leave to dry quickly in the sun. I hang them while they're still a little damp as the tapes tend to shrink a bit. This is much easier than the old bathtub routine. — CONNIE

(POLLY'S NOTE — Be careful not to leave them in a wet spot for drying. Better still, wipe off excess water to prevent rusting of metal blinds and warping of wooden ones.)

DEAR POLLY — Cultured marble bathroom sink tops do not take well to cleaning with a regular powdered sink cleanser. I keep a plastic scrub sponge and a small bottle of liquid detergent in each bathroom for this little job. One or two drops of detergent and a brisk scrub do the trick, with no scratching. — K. M. S.

LIQUID DETERGENT

DEAR POLLY — I keep my sewing machine up all the time. I have five children, so it's most convenient to be able to stitch something immediately rather than use a safety pin until next using the machine. — BETTY C.

(POLLY'S NOTE: If there seems no place to keep your machine up all the time, perhaps you have a closet large enough so it can be used there. A friend of mine made a great sewing "room" in a corner of her basement.)

DEAR POLLY — To keep a doubled thread from twisting and tangling so badly, make a neat knot at the end of each thread instead of just one for the two threads — ALENE

DEAR POLLY — Cute little wastepaper baskets can be made of those colored egg cartons. Cut the lids off, but leave the little side flaps. Lace cartons together with ribbon run through holes you punch in the flaps. Then, cut a piece of cardboard that will fit tightly in the bottom. Eight such cartons make a nice basket about 12 inches high. — PEARL.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

PAM HINCHEE OF ABERDEEN, WA, ASKS: "WHY ARE THE KEYS ON A TYPEWRITER ALL MIXED UP?"

EARLY-DAY TYPEWRITERS WERE SLOW AND CLUMBSY TO USE. THE LONG TYPE BARS FELL BACK SLOWLY AFTER BEING STRUCK. AT FIRST, THE LETTERS WERE ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY. IF TWO LETTERS WERE TYPED QUICKLY, THE LONG TYPE BARS WOULD OFTEN BECOME JAMMED TOGETHER BEFORE THEY COULD FALL BACK. TO REDUCE COLLISIONS, THE LETTERS WERE REARRANGED SO THAT THE LETTERS MOST FREQUENTLY TYPED WOULD BE ARRANGED AS FAR APART AS POSSIBLE. THIS ARRANGEMENT IS STILL USED ON THE STANDARD TYPEWRITER.

BERLE'S 60TH ANNIVERSARY'

Milton Berle's 60th anniversary in show business will be observed on an ABC Special, Tuesday at 9PM, and will feature many of the greatest names in the entertainment world. The testimonial tribute to Berle was a black-tie affair given by the Friars Club at the Beverly Hilton Hotel on Oct. 13. Berle is currently president of the Friars Club. During his 60 years as a performer, Berle has conquered every entertainment medium—stage, screen, nightclubs, radio and television, as well as writing, directing and producing.

In 1931, Berle headlined at the Palace, and soon after starred in Earl Carroll's "International Vanities" on Broadway. Berle was the only star to be billed above the title in the famous "Ziegfeld Follies." He starred on radio during its early days, and as a member of ASCAP wrote such songs as "Sam, You Made the Pants Too Long," "Lucky, Lucky Me," "A Million Tomorrows,' and "I." Berle's "Texaco Star Theatre" with an eight-year run on NBC firmly established him as "Mr. Television," and helped transform the leisure time habits of the American public.

TIME FOR DRAMA

(Top to Bottom)

Kay Lenz, John Forsythe and Anne Baxter star in "Lisa, Bright and Dark," a Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation on NBC, Wednesday at 8:30PM. The drama deals with a teenager's descent into mental illness, a problem which the parents do not wish to acknowledge. The drama is based on the novel of the same name by John Neufeld, and was filmed on location in the San Francisco area.

"Catholics," a TV adaptation of Brian Moore's short novel of the same title is presented as the season's first CBS Playhouse 90 Special, Thursday at 9PM. Trevor Howard (pictured), Martin Sheen and Cyril Cusack star in this drama focusing on the conflict between the aging, conservative abbot and a young, progressive priest over the abbot's observance of the mass. Within this framework—a dispute over the celebration of the mass in Latin instead of English—the drama touches upon the personal conflict of faith between the aging, doubt-plagued abbot and the young social-activist priest from Rome.

Cliff Robertson is host-narrator of "The World Turned Upside Down," an American Heritage Special on ABC, Tuesday at 8PM. The story centers on the American Revolutionary War, and re-creates the clash between Gen. George Washington and his hero-adversary, Gen. Cornwallis at the battle of Yorktown. Pictured here is Jan Leighton who portrays George Washington in the Special.

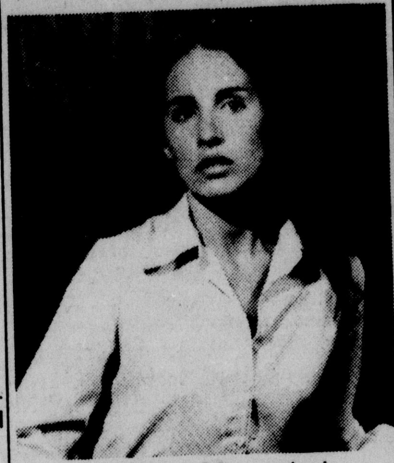
ACTRESS HAS EMPATHY FOR ROLE



Andrea Marcovicci

Andrea Marcovicci has resisted the lure of Hollywood film makers for several years, largely because her home is in the East and she had been able to make a very attractive living as an actress there without the need for the film capital. Then, she was offered a part she couldn't turn down.

"It is important," she says of the role which brought her to Hollywood for the first time. Miss Marcovicci plays one of the victims in Leonard Freeman's dramatic production of "Cry Rape!" airing on The New CBS Tuesday Night Movie at 9:30PM.

As the title implies, "Cry Rape!" concerns victims of one of urban society's least understood, and fastest growing crimes. Miss Marcovicci voices concern about the rising incidence of rape cases in our cities, not because she has ever been a victim, she points out, but because she takes an active interest in community affairs and is a very feminine feminist.

"I know of no other crime in which the victim is more subject to suspicion," she notes. "A raped woman has to prove herself to be innocent before the legal process can function to apprehend the criminal. "I can understand the reasons for this—too often a spurned girl will try to take revenge on a lover by claiming he took advantage of her, or she may have a grudge against her boss—but it makes the trauma of a real-raped victim doubly strong. "And it is a trauma. The script of 'Cry Rape!' brings this out. I play a victim who has the courage to see the investigation through in order to bring the culprit to justice. Manv victims don't. " 'Cry Rape!' isn't just another voice in the wilderness. It is a compelling television drama. which tells it the way it is."

THE PEOPLE OF 'PEOPLE'S CHINA'

"The People of 'People's China'," an hour-long television special report on the myths and realities of contemporary life in the People's Republic of China, will be telecast Saturday (Dec. 1) at 9PM on ABC. The special program was filmed in China by ABC News Hong Kong Producer David Jayne, Chief Hong Kong Correspondent Steve Bell and Diplomatic Correspondent Ted Koppel, all of whom have spent a six-week long assignment traveling in and reporting from the People's Republic. Executive producer is Ernest Leiser and producers in New York are Arthur Holch and Joan Richman.

The program, according to Mr. Leiser, "will attempt to tell the human stories of China, to see it through the eyes of and with the focus on specific individuals. "We have set out for the first time to look at individual Chinese in order to show the difference between the official propaganda line and the reality of their daily lives." Diplomatic Correspondent Ted Koppel, commenting on the ABC News team's experiences in the People's Republic of China, noted, "It's difficult to imagine two more contrasting societies. They have little or nothing in common on the surface, and even less in common beneath the surface.

"And, yet, the United States and the People's Republic of China find themselves sharing a certain mutuality of interest. The most difficult part of our assignment," Koppel said, "and the most necessary part, has been to show clearly the difference between the progress they want to show and the problems the Chinese people and their nation still clearly face." "The People of 'People's China'," presents profiles of representative Chinese in both major cities and in the countryside. Included among them will be a student, a farmer, a doctor, an industrial worker, an "up-and-coming" politician, and members of the People's Liberation Army.

'SUPER—BARRISTER'

Perry Mason is back—again. The hero of Erle Stanley Gardner's courtroom classics is known internationally to readers who have purchased nearly 200 million copies of his hard-backed adventures. For 14 years radio listeners followed his exploits when the late John Larkin portrayed the super-barrister on the air. There was a motion picture in which the late Warren Williams personified Mason.

Raymond Burr was the original Perry Mason on television. The old series enjoyed a nine-year run on the CBS network with a total of 271 episodes based on 70 of Gardner's books. Since it went off the network in 1966, the initial black-and-white Perry Mason series has been syndicated throughout the U.S. and in foreign countries; has reportedly grossed more than $20 million, and is broadcast in virtually every language except Russian.

And now comes the latest chapter in this remarkable saga of show business.

MONTE MARKHAM

Monte Markham, the "now" Perry Mason, was selected over 350 other actors for the role. He is youthful (37), lean and active and he moves like an athlete—the antithesis of the Erle Stanley Gardner lawyer-sleuth as created by Raymond Burr.

It has the same cast of supporting characters but the live replacements are components of the drastic "new look" of the dramatic series: Harry Guardino portrays Hamilton Burger, the Los Angeles district attorney and Mason's traditional courtroom adversary, previously played by the late William Tallman.

Canadian-born Sharon Acker inherits the role of Della Street, Mason's confidential secretary, a role originally handled by Barbara Hale. Dane Clark plays Lt. Arthur Tragg, homicide detective on the Los Angeles Police Department, enacted by the late Ray Collins in the old series.

Albert Stratton is the new Paul Drake, professional private-eye and operator of a large detective agency, formerly portrayed by the late William Hopper. And Brett Somers is Gertrude Lade, Mason's loquacious receptionist and switchboard operator.

The present series costs about five times as much to produce as the first one. It is in color. Markham's salary is considerably larger than Burr's was. The show also reflects the latest developments in courtroom procedure, including such factors as the use of closed circuit television to examine a witness thousands of miles away.

Perry Mason, himself, is more "humanized." For the first time his apartment is revealed, reflecting his way of living. Paul Drake's detective agency is shown. The new courtroom is an exact replica of the Los Angeles County Criminal Court.

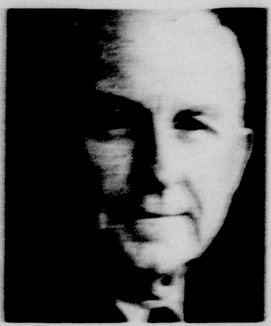
FOR ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS, journalist

After many years of covering the Washington news scene, which Administration did you most enjoy? —C. A. Wisely, Coulterville, Ill.

● The Roosevelt Administration. Like Willie Mays, the Roosevelts could do it all. There was FDR himself, brilliant, witty, dramatic. He was a genius with the press. He not only told us what we wanted to know, but often asked our help and advice in getting to the country with his ideas or asked us how the country was reacting. Then there was Eleanor, a source of color, courage and goodwill for the world. The Roosevelts knew that the Freedom of the Press was the first of all freedoms, without it there is none other, and they made us proud of our part in that.

FOR ADM. THOMAS H. MOORER, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff



The war in Vietnam is supposed to be over. Why can't we reduce our defense budget now and spend the money saved for our domestic needs?—S. K. L., Athens, Ohio

● Defense spending, as a percentage of total federal spending, is down from 42.5 percent in fiscal 1968 to 26.4 percent in fiscal 1974. It is time to put an end to the myth that cutting the defense budget is a cure-all for other domestic needs.

FOR MUHAMMAD ALI

Do you still get upset when writers and other fighters such as Floyd Patterson refer to you as Cassius Clay?—John Dawson, Bloomington, Ind.

● I never did get upset by this. The reason I said it upset me was for the sake of publicity.

FOR VALERIE HARPER (Rhoda Morgenstern of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show")

I read somewhere that you have a daughter who is almost 20. This can't be true, can it?—F. F., Salina, Kans.

● Yes. Wendy is 19. She goes to Los Angeles City College, and hopes to become an actress someday. She is really my stepdaughter from my husband's first marriage. She's been living with us since she was 13.

FOR SUSAN SAINT JAMES of "McMillan & Wife"

I heard you say on TV that you didn't do many films because of the "nude scenes." Why are you against them, and have you ever turned down a film because of that?—Theresa Devroy, Green Bay, Wis.

● I don't believe I ever said I wouldn't do nude scenes in films. It's just that I've never been asked!

FOR HANK AARON of the Atlanta Braves

Would you like to see the National Baseball League adopt the designated hitter rule to help you pile up the homers? —Tony Amato, St. Bonaventure, N.Y.

● Personally, I hope the designated hitter will not come to the National League for a while. There are already too many logs on the fire about breaking Ruth's record—like my batting more times than Ruth. If, after I break the record, they want to adopt it, fine.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

How come you shaved off your beautiful mustache? Are women attracted to you more or less without it?—Carol Poillucci, Wappingers Falls, N.Y.

● I shaved it off for a "different" look in "White Lightning." Fan mail runs 50-50 for and against the mustache. My agent doesn't like it, but I do. Glad you approve, too!

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What paperbacks have you had published?—M. E. Nedella, Sturgis, S.D.

● I thought you'd never ask. My first book, "At Wit's End," is now in paperback, as it was a runaway best seller in garage sales in 1967. My latest, "I Lost Everything in the Post-Natal Depression," has just been published in hard cover, which I urge you to buy as I am the sole support of an orthodontist in Palm Beach.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER

I read that Pat Boone baptized some people in your pool while he was staying at your home. How did you feel about this?—P. G., Torrance, Calif.

● I drained the pool and refilled it. It makes me nervous to swim in holy water.

FOR MARK DONOHUE, racing driver

Do you find it difficult to stay within speed limits when driving on regular roads?—Margaret Faith, Camden, N.J.

● I sure do. I'm ashamed to say that I've been given speeding tickets, but I have. Perhaps the reason is that often speed limits are set for the average driver for average conditions on average highways. It's very hard for me to make a proper determination of what a speed limit should be. A racing driver, because he has a better understanding of what a car's total capability is, often finds himself driving above the speed limit, sometimes even being accused of reckless driving. I recognize that this is wrong. To respect other drivers on the highway, race drivers must make a valid attempt to obey the traffic laws.

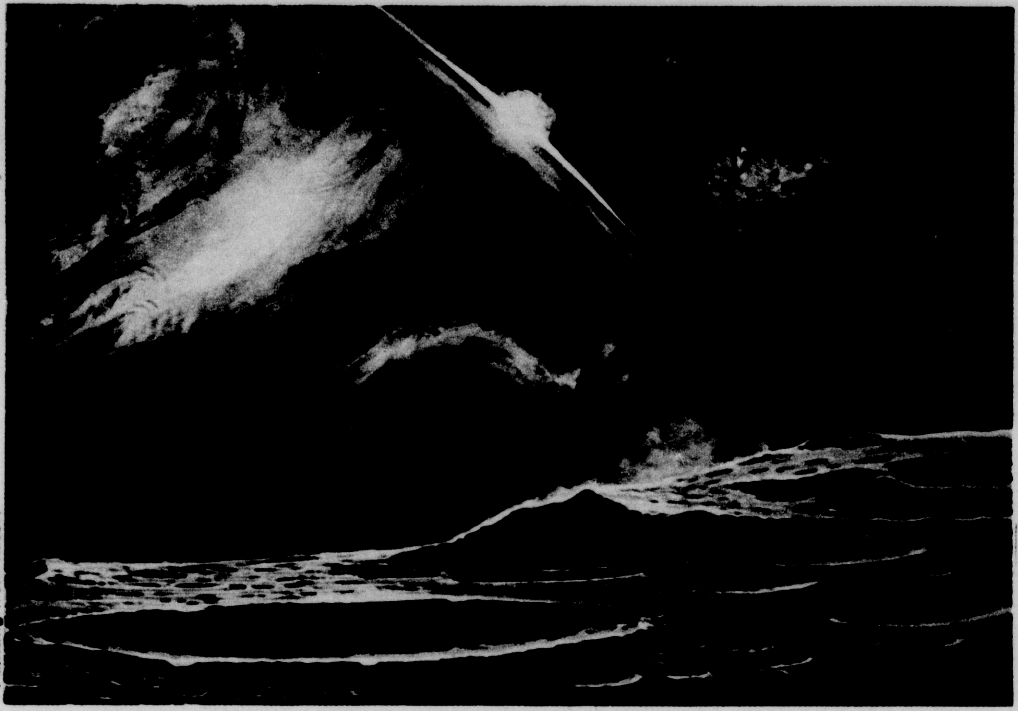
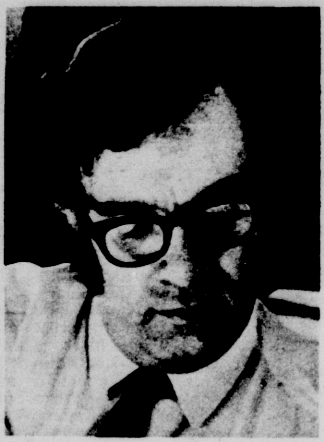
Through the Eyes of a Great Science Writer:

"It has long since passed the orbit of Mars; it has traveled safely through the asteroid belt; it is farther away now than any man-made object has ever been. In comparison to Pioneer 10's fantastic journey, all other travels of man and his artifacts to this day shrink into insignificance."



Painting from NASA

Jupiter, seen from one of its moons.



ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Isaac Asimov is one of the foremost science-fiction writers in America. A native of Russia who was educated in the U.S., he is the author of a number of textbooks and popular works on scientific subjects.

VITAL STATISTICS ABOUT "PIONEER IO"

Weight: 570 lbs.

Launch date: March 2, 1972

Date of closest proximity to Jupiter: December 3, 1973

Goals: To gather information on Jupiter and to return pictures to Earth. Also, to gain experience for future missions to outer planets, and knowledge of such hazards as the asteroid belt and Jupiter's radiation.

Space "firsts": First spacecraft to Jupiter; first spacecraft to escape solar system; first spacecraft to explore asteroid belt; fastest man-made object ever flown.

Next mission: Pioneer 11, launched April 5, 1973, to reach Jupiter in December, 1974. Identical in size to Pioneer I0. May go on to Saturn.

What If You Were Aboard Our Incredible Flight to the Planet Jupiter?

By Isaac Asimov

As these words appear, Pioneer 10, a quarter-ton space probe packed with instruments, is approaching the planet Jupiter. It left Earth on March 2, 1972, at an initial speed of nine miles per second, the fastest speed ever attained by a man-made object up to that time. It was embarking on a journey designed to bring it, after 21 months, to the environs of the largest planet in the solar system.

It has long since passed the orbit of Mars; it has traveled safely through the asteroid belt; it is farther away now than any man-made object has ever been. In comparison to Pioneer 10's fantastic journey, all other travels of man and his artifacts to this day shrink into insignificance.

It is only the cold eye of a camera that will turn on Jupiter; only the impersonal receivers at NASA's Ames Research Center near San Francisco, which conceived and operates the Pioneer mission, that will record the radio waves, and the flux of solar particles, and the sweep of cosmic rays from the stars. But what if you were on Pioneer 10? What would you see as you approached Jupiter?

To understand that we must first ask what we see now. Jupiter is a giant globe, 88,000 miles across at its equator, 11 times as broad as Earth, 125 times as large in surface area, 318 times as large in mass. It has 12 satellites, four of which are as large as or larger than our moon.

At its closest, Jupiter is 400 million miles from Earth. At that distance, its bulk is so huge that is still nearly the brightest point of light we can see in our sky. Only the sun, the moon, sometimes Venus, and on rare occasions Mars, are brighter than Jupiter.

Through the telescope, Jupiter expands into a circular body; not a perfect circle, to be sure, but an ellipse, because Jupiter bulges in the equatorial regions by reason of its rapid rotation. Jupiter's bulk turns once in ten hours as compared with the 24-hour turn of the much smaller Earth. A point on Jupiter's equator moves at 22,000 miles per hour as the planet rotates, as compared with a mere 1,000 miles per hour for points on Earth's equator.

Jupiter's rapid speed throws its equatorial substance outward through centrifugal effect. There is also an effect on the thick cloud layer that forever hides the planet's surface. The clouds, affected by Jupiter's hurrying speeds, spread out in globe-circling belts parallel to the planet's equator.

The overall color of Jupiter is yellow, but the belts can be anything from a slightly darker yellow to a deep brown. Occasionally, blue and gray tinges may appear. Now and then, spots of varying colors can be seen—cyclones or tornadoes, perhaps.

And there is at least one particularly large spot that seems permanent. This large spot can be a light tan in color or it can deepen to a pronounced red. It is called the "Great Red Spot," and is oval in shape, with its long diameter parallel to the equator. It is 30,000 miles long and 8,000 miles wide and has an area just equal to the surface of the Earth.

No one knows what produces the Great Red Spot, why is it red, why it is permanent, why it drifts east and west erratically. No one knows why Jupiter's belts are colored. No one knows exactly what Jupiter's atmosphere is like, or what lies underneath, or why and how the planet gives off radio waves, or what space is like in its vicinity. It is to help answer these and other questions that Pioneer has been sent out on its long, lonely journey.

Let's follow Pioneer on that journey. By the time it is within ten million miles of Jupiter—40 times as far away as the moon is from Earth—it would be in among the orbits of the seven outer satellites. It would be closer to Jupiter than some of these satellites, farther than others. From Pioneer, however, it is very unlikely you would see any of them with the naked eye at any time, for all of them are tiny bodies under 50 miles in diameter.

Jupiter, however, would now be as large to the naked eye as the full moon looks to us on Earth, but only one-third as bright. It reflects more of the light it receives than our rough, bare moon does, but Jupiter is five

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

‘You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!’

“I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!”

“Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ...”

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing “There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments.”—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions “Anyone who is anemic will find . . . improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old.” —Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart “No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method. . . . I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients.” —Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain “I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment.” —Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins “I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs.” —Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids “Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!” —Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator “Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old . . . Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!” —Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. “After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose” and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and “he was able to stand straight.” The hump disappeared. “He was not deformed at all,” I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. “The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one,” and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, “his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man.”

What A Physiotherapist Says:

“During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers . . . I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

“The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them. . . . For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective.”

Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

“Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly.”

“There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

“If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!”

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the “drugless” way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Painting from NASA

Pioneer 10 approaches Jupiter.

times as far from the sun as the moon is, and receives only 1/25 as much light to begin with.

Jupiter's light would be a soft yellow, and the two chief belts on either side of the equator would now be clearly visible. The Great Red Spot would be visible in the southern equatorial belt, or at least would become visible as Jupiter rotated.

Jupiter's four large satellites would look like mere points of light at a distance of ten million miles—but they would be bright points. They would appear as bright stars on one side or the other of Jupiter. As you watched, they would move farther or closer; sometimes moving in front of the planet so that a shadow could be seen trailing across Jupiter's lighted surface, sometimes moving behind.

At ten million miles, Jupiter would be in front and the sun behind. Almost the entire face of Jupiter would be illuminated; it would show as a "full-Jupiter," as we see it through a telescope from Earth.

As Pioneer continues to approach Jupiter, however, aiming to one side (there is no desire to have it crash into the planet), the night side would become slowly visible. In other words, Jupiter would begin to resemble a lopsided circle, like the moon when it gets to be a day or two past the full.

Jupiter steadily increases in apparent size. By the time Pioneer is one million miles from Jupiter, the planet will look 8½ times as wide as the moon appears to us, and 13 times as bright. All its belts will be clearly visible. The Great Red Spot itself will be larger in appearance than the full moon is to us—a huge oval, with its color the more washed out, perhaps, the larger it grows.

Pioneer 10 will pass fairly close to three of the large satellites—Ganymede, Europa and Io, in that order—and each will swell up to a large globe, considerably larger than the moon appears to us. Each will probably have a rough, moon-like surface broken by Arctic-like sheets of frost.

By the time we pass the orbit of Io, the innermost of Jupiter's four large satellites, we will be within 200,000 miles of Jupiter's center, closer than our moon is to us. There will be nothing ahead now except the planet itself and one small remaining satellite, Amaltheia. There will not be much chance of seeing Amaltheia (it is a

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

How Good Are You at Getting To Know Other People?

True or False: It's easier for a woman to get to know and understand a man than it is for her to develop a close relationship with another woman.
(See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The best way to get to know a person better is not to talk about yourself, but to ask questions designed to draw him out.

2. People who are well-adjusted are the easiest to get to know.

3. It's easier for a woman to get to know and understand a man than it is for her to develop a close relationship with another woman.

4. One of the best ways to understand another person is to duplicate his facial expressions.

5. When you're introduced to a person you'd like to get to know better, you should bring up conversational topics that are sufficiently controversial to assure a spirited discussion. This will intrigue him and serve to further the relationship.

6. It's easier to get to know a poor man than a rich one.

ANSWERS

1. False—according to one university's studies, which showed that people generally receive as much information from other people as they reveal. Other investigations likewise show that confidence begets confidence, and that one of the best ways to get to know someone better is to take the lead—and let him get to know you.

2. True. Psychological studies at Purdue University have shown that people with well-rounded personalities, who are well-adjusted and emotionally stable, are the easiest people to get to know. On the other hand, the investigation showed that people who are difficult to know—who are disinclined to reveal themselves as they really are—tend to be more neurotic and conflict-ridden.

3. False. Studies have demonstrated that both men and women are capable of better understanding of another person's character when they are of the same sex. It was found that men understand other men's attitudes and motivations better than women do, and the fair sex has the inside track when it comes to other women.

4. True. Studies at New York University have demonstrated that "people can learn to duplicate facial expressions with the aid of a mirror." And other investigations have demonstrated that just as facial expressions mirror a person's feelings and general outlook on life, it is impossible to "wear another's face," even for a few brief moments, without gaining insight into his character and disposition.

5. False—as evidenced by studies at Notre Dame, which show that when two strangers meet, conversational topics that are of a controversial nature—no matter how stimulating—tend to increase the other person's reserve. However, the investigation showed that if the conversation can be kept to topics where agreement is mutual, the other person is likely to open up and reveal far more of himself than he otherwise would.

6. False. At the University of Missouri studies were made on hundreds of men and women of various degrees of affluence, running the gamut from rich to poor. Each person was subjected to psychological interviews designed to determine how willing he was to reveal himself. Findings: There was no relationship between social or economic status and willingness to reveal oneself.

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya gives the latest in "affordable" home furnishings. "This Christmas," she suggests, "besides giving each other gifts, why not also invest in presents for the home?"

Gifts to Give Your Home for $100 or Under (And Mostly Under $40)

Ernie Silva

A Gift of Storage (under $6 each)

Ideal for storing almost anything, these colorful, stackable boxes add a bright accent to the family room or a child's room. Available in a spectrum of colors, these versatile boxes by Lustro-Ware have interlocking tops and bottoms. Made of light, durable polyethylene and measuring a roomy 13¼x13¼x11⅛ inches, they have built-in slot handles for easy carrying. See-through sides let you peer at the contents. Bob Hoebermann

Plants thrive under a special fluorescent light.

Give Your Living Room a "Light" Touch of Nature (about $6)

Plants enhance the appeal of an interior, but often need the aid of artificial horticultural light to color and bloom. In this room, bougainvillea and impatiens are hung at the window to receive natural light. Vita-Lite—a special fluorescent lamp—provides "indoor sunshine," including ultraviolet rays that promote growth and flowering. Directional louvers hide the tubes. The fluorescent tube lamp, approximately $6, is manufactured by Duro-Lite.

Instant Playhouse (about $16) ▶

An unusual Christmas gift for a child's room, which makes it a "house within a home," is Amsco's inflatable-frame playhouse. It's a special place for playacting, just big enough for a child or two to get into and out of. Made of rugged vinyl, 3x3x4 feet, it is simple to put up and folds flat for storing. Its inflatable tube, on a vinyl frame, can be blown up easily. Its green venetian-blind flap window rolls up or down.

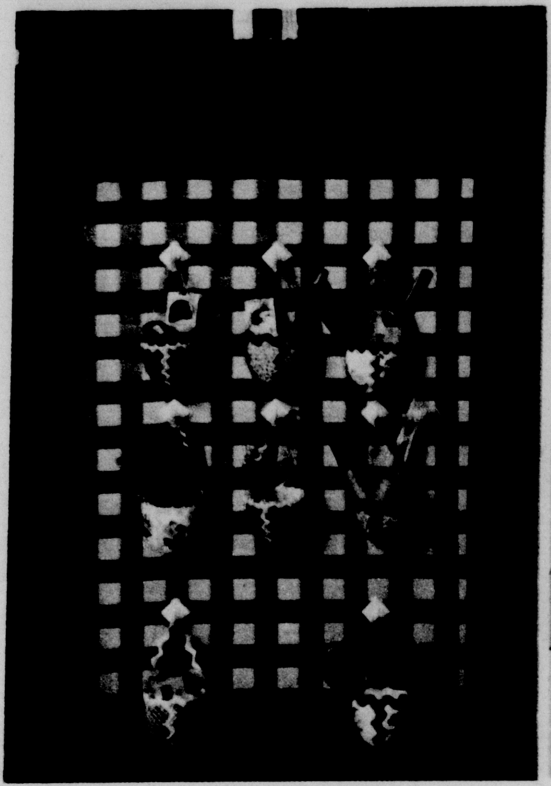
Inflatable playhouse is a "fun" house for kids.

You Can Make This Wall Caddy (under $10)

Cover an 18 x 24-inch piece of corkboard or lightweight wood with gingham or other fabric. Use a staple gun or thumbtacks to secure material tightly to back of board. Next you'll need Styrofoam cups, or halves of eight plastic eggs (we used the larger halves of eggs from L'eggs pantyhose). Cover each cup or egg with material or decals. Cut material into four petal-like strips and glue onto egg. Cover seams and edges with rickrack in a coordinating color. Use rickrack to make a handle. Place self-sticking plastic hooks on board.

Normand Menard



Plastic egg halves function as caddies.

Decorator Appliance With Storage Facilities (Under $17)

Gift your kitchen with a fashionable and functional deluxe five-speed hand mixer from Hamilton Beach that covers all tasks from stirring to whipping. The mixer has an open handle design with padded feel for easy grip and a gourmet decorator case that colorfully depicts many of the appetizing foods this dependable 125-watt mixer can quickly turn into reality. The handsome case also neatly stores beaters and detachable cord when mixer is not in use. In tawny yellow or parsley green, it is a nifty gift for $16.95.

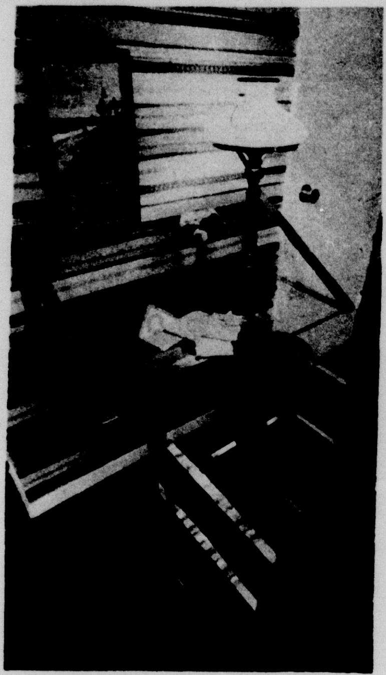
Wall-Hung Glass Shelf Fits Into Any Area

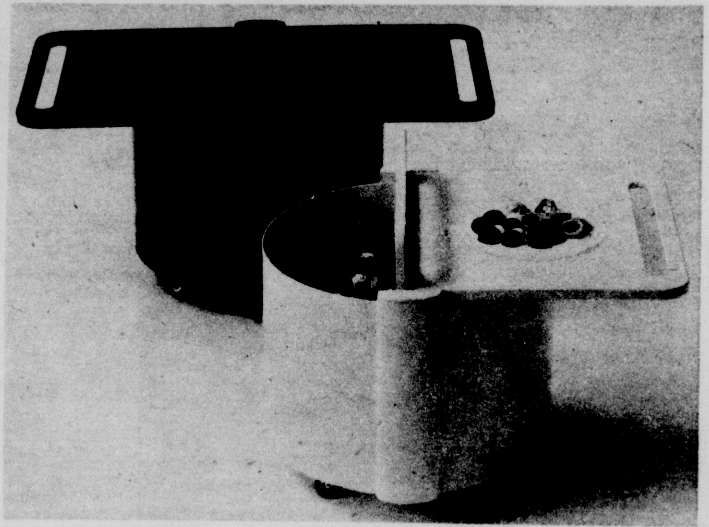
Give a Gift of Space (About $75)

Here's the kind of space that family members can use—in the form of an exquisitely designed glass shelf, hung on the wall with two chromium brackets. Mother can use this desk in the kitchen as she plans her menus, and Dad certainly will appreciate it in the bedroom or den when he has some work to complete. Since the shelf is small, it can fit into corners and nooks that are too tiny for a regular desk. Other areas for this versatile piece? Put one up in your entranceway and top it with a mirror. It will give a gracious welcome to your guests and serve as a handy place to put your mail. One or two shelves in the dining area would be useful to put cups and saucers on at mealtime. As for this Yule season, what a dandy place to write thank-you notes for the lovely things Santa will bring this year! By Selig.



In the American Tradition (under $100)

The dozen brass mini-knobs of this spice-chest design add an authentic touch of Early Americana, but the piece actually has two deep drawers that are handy for stowing away games, cards and party goodies. Peters-Revington made this multi-functional occasional end table of solid northern pine with a mellow burnished-brown finish.



The Go-and-Serve Cart (Under $50)

The mystical appeal of anything shaped in a circle, the smart contemporary look, and the practicality of this mobile storage piece assure its future popularity—and make it a great gift. The cart, which moves on casters, has two leaves. They act as a storage divider and a handle, pull up to create a small table. Made of shiny, durable ABS plastic, the piece is available in white, yellow or cocoa. An Italian design from Directional.

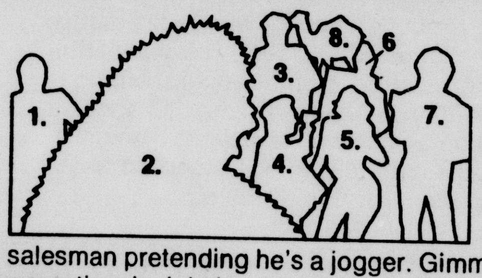
Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.



Even at the Zoo everybody has a gimmick . . . almost everybody. Find the one who doesn't.

1. No. He's Miles Tugo, underwear salesman pretending he's a jogger. Gimmick: Cigarettes with filters so thick every time he inhales, his ears pop. 2. Meet Livingston I. Presume, gorilla. A latent Homo Sapien, who throws tires at anybody who doesn't believe in Evolution. 3. Nope. He's Jerry Bilt, zoo painter. Holds gimmick: A long pole to paint ape's cage (says he's allergic to fur and having his leg pulled off). His Maxi-Long cigarettes easily break in half, too. 4 & 5. No and no. They're Sam and Janet Evening, movie team making a low budget jungle picture: "King Kong Gives Detroit A Hickie." 6. He's Skip Tickel. Was given this address to deliver 12 Chinese dinners. Gimmick: Smokes cigarettes with filters so hollow he talks with an echo. 7. Right. He prefers wildlife to wild gimmicks. Wants no nonsense in his cigarette, either. Camel Filters. Good taste. Honest tobacco. 8. No. It's either the symbol of a high-quality cigarette, or a high-rise sheep.

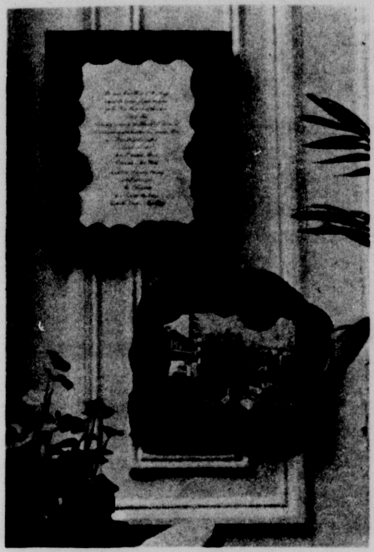
Contemporary Memorabilia Plaque Looks Time-Worn



Create a Memorabilia Plaque (about $5)

Add the mellow touch of time to announcements, invitations, a favorite poster, postcard or photograph. Choose any item as long as it is heavier than newsprint. Simulate the effects of aging by lightly burning the edges over a candle flame. Run a finger over the charred area to remove loose material. Select the base material of wood, slate, brick, stone or tile, being sure that it is at least one to two inches larger on all sides than the item after burning. Distressed and stained wood is most effective. Use the claw of a hammer to gouge the wood area that will frame the item. Stain front, back and sides of wood. Allow to dry thoroughly. Apply a white glue, such as Elmer's Glue-All or School Glue, with a damp cloth over back of memorabilia, spreading evenly. Center the item onto the base material, using a damp cloth to wipe away excess glue. Smooth surface with a dry cloth, working from center to edges to eliminate air bubbles. Allow to dry, then spray lightly with a finishing coat such as Krylon Crystal Clear Gloss or Matte protective coating. Four coats are recommended, and each should be allowed to dry thoroughly. If desired, "sign" your plaque by using a sharp instrument such as a nail or awl. Mount on easel, frame or hang by attaching appropriate picture hangers. Approximate cost to make, about $5 for a 12x12-inch size plaque. The ones shown were designed by Nancy Kaye. For additional gift ideas for your home, send 25 cents to cover postage and handling to "Christmas Creativity" booklet, Dept. FW-11, P.O. Box 266, Medina, Ohio 44256.

It's the best present I ever got.

At our house Christmas was roaring fires and red-faced, blue-nosed relatives who came trooping in from the cold with armloads of gifts. Aunt Nel always made us kids save the wrappings. Christmas was me racing coatless through the snow to fetch more of the firewood I'd chopped while pretending to be Abe Lincoln, Paul Bunyon ...anyone but me chopping wood all day on the day before Christmas.

I remember how Christmas was. How I'd rip, tear, yank open the biggest, most promising gift. Only to find a doll for Sue or a tablecloth. Inevitably someone got the cards confused.

But this year after 38 years of hoping and opening the biggest gift and finding it meant for somebody else—this year the biggest gift really was for me. How did they know I wanted a McCulloch chain saw?

Not just any chain saw, a McCulloch Mini Mac 1 (for only $99.95*). Because one chain saw is not just as good as another. And unless you happen to be an expert on chain saws, how do you know which is which?

You look at the manufacturer. For over a quarter of a century professional loggers have depended on McCulloch chain saws for their livelihood. Obviously, McCulloch really knows how to build fine chain saws.

Mini Mac 1 is no exception. It's the original lightweight, the power unit only weighs 6.9 pounds. It cuts fast and sure whether firewood, building projects or tree pruning. Even cuts through a 20" log. Mini Mac 1 is all the chain saw Dad needs.

Why settle for just any chain saw, when you can get a McCulloch for only $99.95.* Give Dad the quality he deserves. Give him a McCulloch this Christmas.

Mini Mac 1 only... $99.95
why pay more!

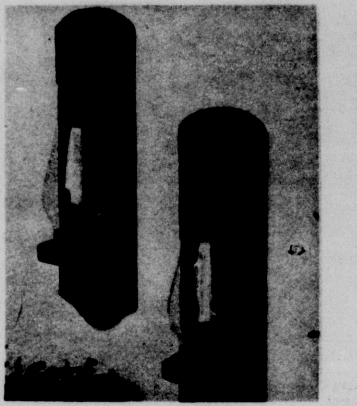
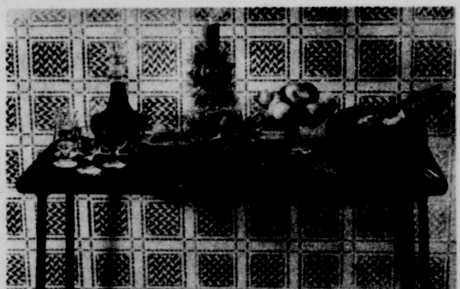
A Holiday Shade for Christmas (about $4)

Here's a fun do-it-yourself gift project. This handsome red-and-white "Cabana Stripe" window shade lends itself beautifully to all sorts of gala ideas. This one, by Joanna, was treated to a paste-on border of Christmas bells cut from several tones of green felt. The gay shade pull is another felt bell, backed with cardboard for sturdiness. Cut out the felt bells carefully with a sharp scissors and arrange them in a design on the shade. Then apply the glue to the reverse side of the ornament, making sure the entire surface is covered before pressing it into place. Smooth carefully. Always use an adhesive that remains flexible when dry so the shade can be rolled up when necessary. The cost is minimal; a shade 37¼ inches wide and 6 feet long costs approximately $4.



Aged Wood Sconces You Can Make (Under $8 a pair)

Give a wall a decorator look by constructing these simple-to-do wood candle holders. Their charming weathered appearance is achieved with a new wood product, Vermont Barnboard, that is distressed and stained to look exactly like old barn siding. It's available at your local lumber dealer. For instructions on how to construct the sconces, which measure 17x5 inches, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Vermont Barnboard Marketing Division, P.O. Box 686, Wilmington, Vt. 05363.



The "Everything" Table (Under $22)

Here's a great gift idea for families who live in limited spaces—a multipurpose table that does everything from serving holiday buffets to doubling as a sewing, game, study or work table. Cosco's foldable table is a handy 20x 48-inch rectangle that hugs the wall when it's up and tucks conveniently away when not in use. Available in simulated Spanish-oak grain or antique-gold vinyl top, on a bronze-finished frame.

"The Heart of Our Christmas Is in Our Kitchen"

Shirley is surrounded by her "three lively boys," Ryan, Pat and Shaun.

"Our Christmas tree is always real and green. No plastic and spray paint for us! Decorating it has been Jack's job—until the last couple of years, that is. He is very meticulous and very artistic. He's overseen the decorating of the whole house."

Christmas is my very favorite time of the year. It always has been. Even when I was a little girl.

My grandmother had ten children, so even though I was an only child I grew up surrounded by family. Every year at Christmas my grandmother would gather all of us together for a holiday dinner, and we kids would entertain. We'd prepare all year for the big event. Mostly my cousins hung back, and my aunts would urge, "Recite your piece, dear!" or "Dance, Judy, dance!" But not me. I was such a ham I always had two or three songs all ready to sing. You couldn't hold me back.

I looked forward to those reunions. And I loved Christmas in Smithton, Pa., where I grew up. I miss a white Christmas desperately. So much, in fact, that last year we rented a marvelous old 17th-century farmhouse in Poundridge, N.Y., near the Connecticut border, just for the holidays. It came complete with a frozen pond on which we could ice-skate. But no snow. Not one flake last Christmas! I was so disappointed!

I've tried to bring all of the things I loved about Christmas into my children's Christmases. Fortunately, Jack [Shirley's husband of 18 years, Jack Cassidy] and I feel the same way. We don't have big family gatherings anymore. When we were first married and lived in a New York apartment, we used to collect all of the stragglers from out of town and I'd cook a big Christmas dinner for all of us. Now we live in a "Connecticut" farmhouse, Beverly Hills' style, and we've gradually discovered that three lively boys —Shaun, 16, Patrick, 11, Ryan, 7— create quite enough excitement on Christmas.

Our yellow-and-white kitchen is the heart of our home. At Christmas the boys like to decorate the cookies I bake, but we don't hang any on the tree—even if there were any left after the boys finished "tasting." We once strung popcorn, but Jack is so fastidious, it bothered him to think of having food hanging around!

I have special Christmas-colored tea towels I keep just for the holidays. And we always use the gay red-felt place mats with a spray of holly in one corner that a friend made for me. Actually I think my lovely old copper pots and pans hanging in the kitchen are decoration enough. Most of them are antiques, collected from all over. Like the kettles we found in England last March, and shipped home. I like having them out for everyone to see. I think they're pretty, and they're very handy this way.

On Christmas the boys go wild, closeted all day with the good aromas coming from the kitchen, waiting for five o'clock to roll around. It usually takes me that long to get everything ready. I cook the traditional dinner myself—from scratch. Down to the pie crusts. And I chase everyone out while I'm working.

We always have roast turkey. A big one! Jack likes to make the stuffing, using the giblets. He's an excellent cook. Then we have mashed potatoes with chopped onions, homemade gravy, tiny peas with new onions, hot biscuits—and mashed rutabaga, an addition because of Jack's German heritage. I also make coleslaw, which he likes. For dessert, hot-mincemeat or lemon-meringue pie. Jack likes the mincemeat; the lemon is my favorite. And the three boys take after me in this department.

I decorate the dining room table with a centerpiece made of an enormous white candle and white leaves. It's beautiful on the wooden table. Our floor is of dark wood also, laid in squares. The backs and seats of the wooden chairs are covered in orange velvet; the drapes are of burnt orange. I like to combine red and orange for the holiday season. It's very warm and festive.

The best part of having a stairway in a home is decorating the balustrade for various occasions, and it lends itself perfectly to garlands of holly and good-smelling evergreen tied with red-velvet bows.

For the big coffee table in the center of the living room I have a huge sleigh that I fill to the brim with gold and silver balls.

Our Christmas tree is always real and green. No plastic and spray paint for us! Decorating it has been Jack's job—until the last couple of years, that is. He is very meticulous and very artistic. He's overseen the redecorating of the whole house. Someplace in the San Fernando Valley he found the fantastic big chopping block I have in the middle of the kitchen. It's very old and marred by years and years of use. Now I use it—constantly. I can't imagine what I ever did without it! I do everything on it, even sit at it to have my morning cup of coffee and read the paper.

The last couple of years Shaun has taken over decorating our tree. Like father like son: It is still simple and elegant, with either green or red-and-white lights, the ornaments we've saved from year to year, a few carefully placed candy canes, and strands of silver tinsel and red rope wrapped around. An angel, made for us by a friend, crowns the top.

This is the first Christmas the boys have had their own rooms. Until we remodeled, Shaun, being the oldest, was the only one to have a domain, and he used his allowance to buy a little tree and decorate his room with felt and construction-paper ornaments. This year the other two have a chance to do the same.

Santa Claus still mysteriously arrives at our house during the night. Jack was brought up in the European tradition of opening presents Christmas Eve, so he and I exchange our personal gifts at that time. Then in the morning—very early, I might add—the boys are up and there are all the surprises under the tree and stuffed into the beautiful, long, knitted red stockings that another friend made for each of us, complete with our names stitched in white.

Another thing I enjoy and have turned into a tradition is the Christmas grab bag hanging in the entry. It's an old pillowcase I covered with red bows and fill with about 20 one-dollar gifts. I wrap each individually, and no matter who comes to the door during the holidays, they get to stick their hand in and pick one. I got the idea at a party years ago, and everyone seems to delight in it. I guess it appeals to the child in all of us. And what better time to indulge such whimsy than at Christmas! fw

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes pizza. "Pizza parties are fun!" says Marilyn. "They are a great way to entertain on a Sunday afternoon of TV football-viewing. These are hefty pizzas—one is an adequate meal for two people."

Recipe given

PARTICIPATION PIZZA

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cups warm water
¼ cup olive or vegetable oil
½ cups (about) unsifted all-purpose flour or unsifted enriched unbleached white flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon coarse ground pepper
2 cups Pizza Tomato Sauce, recipe below
½ lb shredded mozzarella
½ lb. grated provolone
Pizza Topping Suggestions:
¼ lb. thinly sliced pepperoni
¼ lb. thinly sliced salami
½ lb. precooked ground beef
½ lb. precooked Italian sausage, sliced
1 cup onion rings
1 cup green-pepper chunks
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 can (2 ozs.) anchovies, drained

1. In large bowl sprinkle yeast over ¼ cup warm water. Stir to dissolve. Add remaining water and olive oil.

2. With large spoon, beat in 1½ cups flour until smooth; continue beating 2 minutes. Add salt, pepper and enough remaining flour to make a stiff dough.

3. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place in oiled bowl, turning to oil top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

4. Punch dough down; divide in half. Press onto a lightly oiled pizza pan or large baking sheet, making 12-inch circles with ½-inch-high borders.

5. Preheat oven to 400°F. Spread each round with 1 cup tomato sauce. Top with cheese mixture.

6. Bake 20-25 minutes, until crust is golden brown.

7. Hand guests mitt-type potholder, a trivet and a pizza cutter (or kitchen shears) and let them choose their toppings.

Makes 2 pizzas, 4 hefty servings

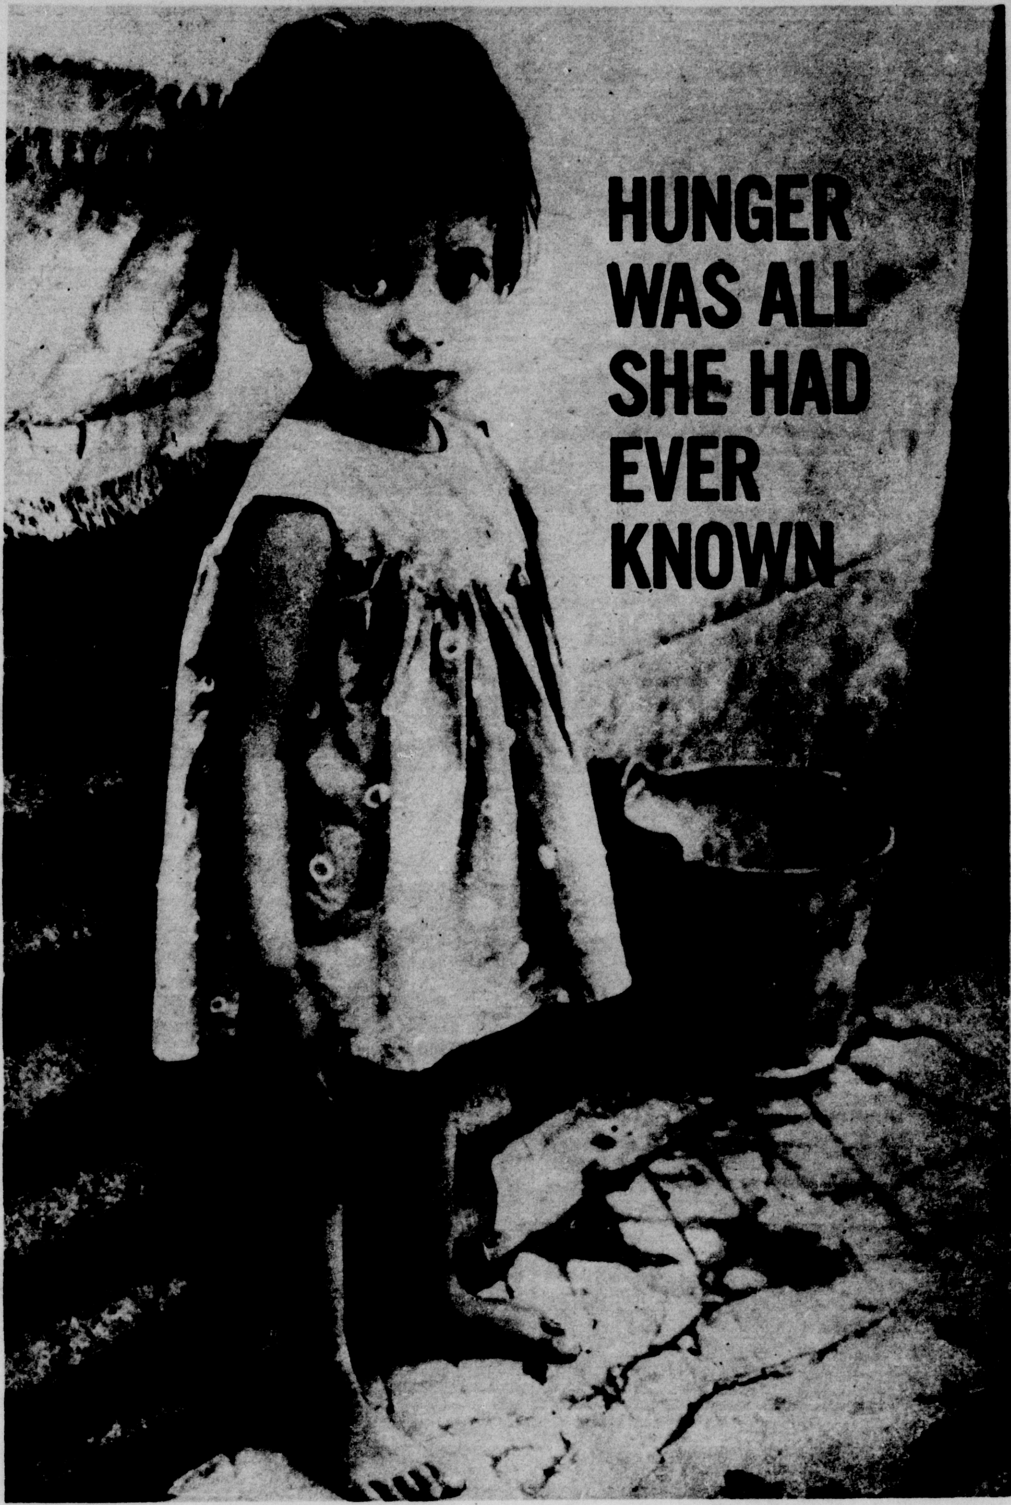
"Participation Pizza" recipe was suggested by FAMILY WEEKLY reader Bonnie Brooks of Salisbury, Md.

PIZZA TOMATO SAUCE

1 can (15 ozs.) tomato sauce or 2 cans (8-oz. size) tomato sauce
1 teaspoon oregano leaves
½ teaspoon basil leaves
½ teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons water

1. Combine all ingredients in small saucepan. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer uncovered 5 minutes.

Makes about 2 cups



HUNGER WAS ALL SHE HAD EVER KNOWN

Margaret was found in a back lane of Calcutta, lying in her doorway, unconscious from hunger. Inside, her mother had just died in childbirth.

You can see from the expression on Margaret's face that she didn't understand why her mother couldn't get up, or why her father didn't come home, or why the dull throb in her stomach wouldn't go away.

What you can't see is that Margaret was dying of malnutrition. She had periods of fainting, her eyes strangely glazed. Next would come a bloated stomach, falling hair, parched skin. And finally, death from malnutrition, a killer that claims 10,000 lives every day.

Meanwhile, in America we eat 4.66 pounds of food a day per person, then throw away enough to feed a family of six in India.

If you were to suddenly join the ranks of 1½ billion people who are forever hungry, your next meal might be a bowl of rice, day after tomorrow a piece of fish the size of a silver dollar, later in the week more rice—maybe.

Hard-pressed by the natural disasters and phenomenal birth rate, the Indian government is valiantly trying to curb what Mahatma Gandhi called "The Eternal Compulsory Fast."

But Margaret's story has a happy ending, thanks to the American who sponsored her. And for only $12 a month you can also sponsor a needy child, helping provide food, clothing shelter—and love.

You will receive the child's picture, personal history, and the opportunity to exchange letters, Christmas cards—and priceless friendship.

Since 1938, American sponsors have found this to be an intimate, person-to-person way of sharing their blessings with youngsters around the world.

So won't you help? Today?

Sponsors urgently needed this month for children in: India, Brazil, Philippines, Indonesia and Guatemala. (Or let us select a child for you from our emergency list.)

Flight to Jupiter

mere 70 miles across), but no one will be looking for it, since Jupiter, like a monster, will fill the sky.

When Pioneer reaches its minimum distance from Jupiter, it will be only 128,000 miles from its center and 81,000 miles or so above its cloud layer. Although we will only be seeing a "half-Jupiter," it will be 8,500 times as large as the half-moon we see from Earth, and over 1,200 times as bright. By now, you will see Jupiter's belts as heaving, moving objects. You will be close enough to see the vast unrest and turbulence of Jupiter's atmosphere. What from Earth appear to be trifling spots and irregularities in the belt will seem huge coilings and uncoilings of storms involving areas of atmosphere larger than all of Earth.

Look closely and quickly at these enormous writhings, for they will not be visible long. Caught in Jupiter's gravitational field, Pioneer 10, which had been losing speed since leaving Earth, will be gaining speed again. It will be very close to Jupiter for only a few hours, then will be whipped away into space. Its instruments will continue to record radio waves, cosmic rays, charged particles and so on, but what you can see with your eyes will rapidly dwindle.

The rendezvous with Jupiter is over. The planet, a bare crescent, is shrinking steadily as we move away at the rate of 11 miles per second. In the weeks and months ahead, gigantic Jupiter will become just a dim spot of light near the sun.

In 1977, Pioneer 10, long since having completed its messages to Earth, will be passing the orbit of Saturn. By 1980 it will have reached the orbit of Uranus, and by 1987 it will have passed beyond the orbit of Pluto, the most distant planet.

On and on it will travel, out into the space between the stars, never to return to the solar system. Inside Pioneer is a slab designed by astronomers Frank Donald Drake and Carl Edward Sagan, and drawn by Linda Sagan. On the slab, information concerning man and his knowledge is drawn in sophisticated fashion. Whether any intelligent beings will ever see it, we can't say. But if any do find it, it will probably be only after many millions of years. By then, for all we know, mankind may no longer exist. fw

"PLAY 'MELANCHOLY WHAT'?"
"Distinction" plus for Alexandra

Perfect pitch is only one of the rare gifts bestowed on ten-year-old Alexandra Birch. Recently she passed a music examination with a mark five points above "distinction" level. That puts her only a step away from becoming a Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music, where a spokesman commented: "She could sit her examination for the performer's LRAM whenever she feels ready—there is no age limit." Alexandra, who lives with her musical parents in Essex, England, also plays the violin and the recorder. She practices the piano four hours a day and is already more qualified than many music teachers. Modest about her achievements, she said of her examination results: "I'm very pleased. . . . It was better than I expected."

WHAT'S UP, DOC?
Ear spread: 24 inches

Bugs Bunny? Wrong! This is a Lop—a fancy species of rabbit that was popular in England during the 19th century. Recently, however, Lops are making a comeback. Renowned for their enormous ears, the Lop rabbit has no other known use in life except to be as soft and decorative as Loppy, the rabbit shown here. Loppy's ear spread is three inches short of the record 27 inches. But Ken Edwards, Loppy's owner, is hoping Loppy will break the record when he reaches maturity.

Remember this mysterious "masterpiece," painted on a jail wall by an unknown artist? Well, the artist has been found, thanks to Action Line reporter Jim Newton of the Journal News in Hamilton, Ohio. The painting, done some 40 years ago in a St. Louis jail, is the work of one Melvin Perry, an artist, who sought refuge in the St. Louis Central District Police Station one wintery evening during the Depression. The jailer, so the story goes, found him and kicked him out before he was able to complete the almost life-sized crucifixion. Hence the figure's missing right hand. According to Newton, Perry is now a nationally recognized artist working out of Loma Linda, Calif. It's said that sketches, paintings and murals from his "lean years" can be found in unlikely bars and restaurants around the country.

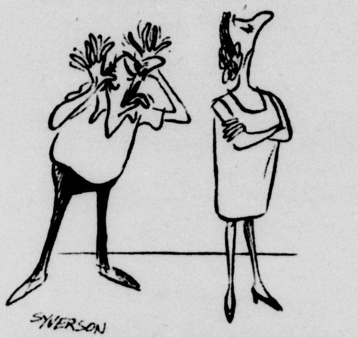
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



NO DEFENSE AGAINST IT

Most women, anyhow the bulk,
Do something that is known as sulk,
Or much the same, I have no doubt,
They turn their lips down and they
 pout.
They say no word, they make no sound,
And this is part of it, I've found.
The "silent treatment" it is called
And leaves men helpless and appalled.
Men try to solace, try to flatter,
But nothing really seems to matter.
It's woman's way, it's not a crime,
And passes, happily, in time.

Fuel shortage may chill Yule; but experts not sure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Santa Claus' reindeer don't use gasoline but the fuel crisis still may put a damper on Christmas.

The shortage could hurt Christmas shopping sales if things get worse in the next two or three weeks according to executives in selected department stores queried in UPI's annual shopping outlook survey.

Already it has made a difference. Many Yule lighting displays are out. Some stores will be dimmed after dark, although they will be open.

Instead of the traditional luxuries and fripperies, Christmas gift purchases are expected to run heavily to sweaters and warm clothing and to games and home entertainment items such as record players and TV sets because many people expect to stay home more than in past winters.

Experts in national merchandising have been predicting Christmas sales this year would exceed last year's by 8 to 10 per cent. Gimbel's president Paul A. Salomone said he would be delighted but surprised if things turned out that well in New York. "I expect a more modest increase," he said.

Two other large New York department stores. Bloomingdale's and Lord & Taylor, took much the same stand.

Some price cutting was noted in New York stores along with special sales for charge customers.

Boston store managers said they haven't yet seen any clear buying trend for this Christmas except for warmer clothing. Charles Colar, manager of Filene's children's department, said parents are stocking up on warm sleepwear for kids.

Merchandise managers in New Hampshire and Maine expected good sales increases. Howland's in Concord, N.H., predicted a 15 per cent rise. The Sears, Roebuck and Mammoth Mart chains in Maine also forecast gains but on a much more modest scale.

In Philadelphia, Mar Fisher, of Strawbridge & Clothier, said, "If business continues as it has been we'll have a very good Christmas. He said color television receivers are selling well. Both Wanamaker's and Gimbel's in Philadelphia said Yule sales will be as successful as last year or more so.

Marjory Windt of the Garfinckel chain in Washington said Christmas prospects are excellent with such odd items as a $500 silver-plated crab and a $350 solid brass teacart already selling well.

Chairman Harold Brockey of Rich's, Atlanta's largest store, said even though November sales have leveled off, Christmas business should exceed last year's by 6 to 7 per cent. Robert Regenstein, head of Atlanta's century-old Regenstein department store, saw a 10 per cent increase over last Christmas. Other Georgia stores, including Kessler's in Atlanta, Cullum's in Augusta and Vick's in Columbus predicted gains of 5 to 10 per cent.

Higbee's in Cleveland, said only another interntional crisis could interfere with good Christmas sales in its area. But the company said deliveries of all except the bulkiest and heaviest merchandise are being discouraged to save gasoline.

The huge Hudson store chain headquartered in Detroit agreed with forecasts that sales this Christmas will be up 8 to 10 per cent.

But for the first time Hudson's has no huge Yule tree outside its main store and all lighting is subdued. Crowley's department store in Detroit was less confident, but General Manger Dick Baker said sales would be at least as good as last year.

Louis Goldblatt, head of the moderate-priced Chicago department store chain, expects total sales to be ahead of last year's, although not equal to the 16 per cent gain his store enjoyed in the first half of this year. Sears, Roebucc predicted a 9 per cent gain in Chicago. Marshall Field, the city's biggest store, also said prospects are excellent.

Stix, Baer & Fuller, the St. Louis department store, expects a moderate increase over last year. It also reported a brisk demand for home entertainment merchandise and attributed it the belief of many people that they may have to stay home more this winter.

Downtown stores in New Orleans said sales will be about the same as last year but the addition of new branch stores may increase total Christmas sales 6 or 7 per cent. The D.H. Holmes store, one of the largest, said it expected "a strong Christmas season."

Joske's in Houston said simply, "we're expecting a larger Christmas than last year" and added "the most noticeable trend is a big demand for fine sweaters. Obviously mny are being bought for gifts."

Los Angeles store managers think sales would be close to those of last Christmas. General Manager Philip Egan of Ohrbach's said the only effect of the fuel shortage in southern California probably would be an unprecedented demand for thermal underwear, blankets and heavier clothing.

Nixon to tell plan to fight fuel crisis

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on nationwide television this afternoon to announce "some pretty strong, tough actions" to cope with growing fuel shortages, including a possible ban on Sunday gasoline sales and rationing of home heating oil.

Nixon announced his plan for a brief address to the nation midway through an hour-long meeting Saturday morning with White House energy chief John A. Love and domestic counselor Melvin R. Laird. The speech will begin at 4 PST.

Reliable sources indicated that among the restrictions Nixon had decided to impose were Sunday closings of gasoline stations to discourage weekend driving, and mandatory rationing of heating oil for homes and businesses.

No heavy tax

He was not expected to order rationing or a heavy new tax on gasoline, but sources said he might also act to shorten business hours at shopping centers and to make mandatory the 50 mile-per-hour speed limit he asked motorists to observe voluntarily nearly two weeks ago.

Chatting with Love during a picture-taking session in his White House office, Nixon said: "The weather has been on our side until this, but not enough to avoid some pretty strong, tough action we are going to have to take on Monday."

Americans warned

The President said he wanted to forewarn Americans "how everybody must cooperate so they can avoid any suffering — but everybody is going to have to do some sacrificing in order to handle the energy crisis."

Love withheld details until a briefing for reporters today in advance of Nixon's speech. It was learned that the President's advisers had recommended cutting heating oil allocations to home owners by 15 per cent and to commercial businesses by as much as 25 per cent.

Sources said a ban on weekend gasoline sales would extend from 9 p.m. Saturdays to midnight Sundays.

After his conference with Love and Laird, the President met for about 40 minutes with Bryce Harlow, his chief of congressional relations, presumably to review the prospects for quick passage of legislation giving him sweeping energy-conserving authority. An emergency energy bill already has cleared the Senate and could win House approval next week.

Nixon, who returned from Camp David, Md., late Friday night for the conferences, flew back to his Maryland mountain retreat by helicopter shortly after noon Saturday to rejoin his family for the long holiday weekend.

Accompanying him was his close friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, who had stayed overnight at the White House with Nixon.

The President was clearly concerned about critical expected oil shortages in the Northeast. Chatting with Love about the weather, he asked at one point, "How's the Northeast?"

"Not too bad yet," Love replied, "but a real cold winter could magnify it."

It was understood that the Cabinet-level energy task force was still considering the possibility of gasoline rationing, but only as a last resort contingency.

Nixon's final decisions came after intensive consultations with government exports about the most effective and least disruptive ways to compensate for the cutoff of Middle East oil shipments. In his last address to the nation Nov. 7, the President predicted oil supplies would fall more than 2 million barrels a day short of domestic demands this winter.

Scuba divers still stranded in Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Saturday negotiations were under way to attempt to return to the United States 16 scuba divers who were forced to land in Cuba on Thanksgiving due to a breakdown of their airplane's equipment.

But Paul Hare, the department spokesman, would not verify earlier reports that the Cuban government was asking for $11,000 in return for the Americans and the aircraft.

Earlier in the day, Norris Bryan, president of the company that chartered the twinengine Lockheed glodestar airplane for the group of scuba diving enthusiasts, said he had been notified by the State Department that Cuba was asking for $11,000, reportedly the cost of repairs on the aircraft.

Workouts start for Ted Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's 12-year-old son, whose right leg was amputated above the knee a week ago, is in excellent spirits and busy undergoing physical therapy, a spokesman for Georgetown University Hospital said Saturday.

Edward M. Kennedy Jr. was working out on parallel bars and crutches. His doctors were confident that the operation last Saturday had succeeded in halting the spread of bone cancer discovered in his lower right leg.

"His spirits are excellent," the spokesman said. "His overall medical condition is satisfactory."

Dr. Philip Caper, who examined the boy Tuesday, said afterwards there was an "excellent chance" the amputation of his leg had arrested the cancer.

"We are working on the assumption that the cancer has not spread," Dr. Caper said, "and that no future treatment is indicated."

Young Teddy, an athletic, blond seventh-grader, began using the parallel bars Monday when he walked for the first time since his hour-long surgery.

Henry Aldridge actor dies at 40

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Ellis, who played the teen-ager Henry Aldridge in the radio and television series and received a special certificate in 1948 for his performance as a child actor, died of kidney failure at the age of 40, a spokesman said Saturday.

Ellis, a former actor, writer, and producer, died Friday morning at the John Wesley Hospital after being in a coma for six days, according to the spokesman.

The boyish-looking Ellis portrayed the 17-year-old character Aldridge in the series made famous by the opening lines, "Henry . . . Henry Aldridge . . . Coming, Mother." He was 23 at the time.

Donrey announces 2 promotions

Fred W. Smith, executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Donrey Media Group, has announced two major promotions within the company.

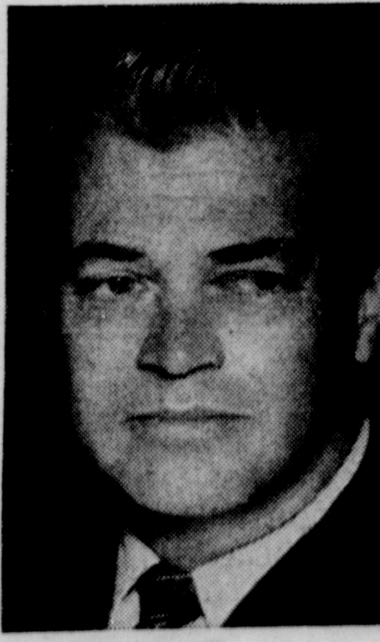
Bill Metcalf, general manager of Donrey's Ontario Daily Report, has been appointed vice president of Donrey's Western Newspaper Division.

Smith also named Jay Holmes, advertising director of The Daily Report to the position of general manager of that newspaper, succeeding Metcalf.

Metcalf will supervise nine newspapers in the Western Division, including the Carmel Pinecone and the Carmel Valley Outlook in Carmel, the Daily Report in Ontario, the Progress-Bulletin in Pomona, the Red Bluff Daily News, the Carson City, Nev., Appeal, the Ely, Nev., Daily Times, the Las Vegas, Nev., Review-Journal and the Aberdeen, Wash., Daily World.

Other duties

He also will supervise the Bonita Publishing Co., in Montclair, publisher of six community newspaper: the Diamond Bar-Walnut Bulletin, the La Verne Leader, San Dimas Press, Upland News, Montclair Tribune and Cucamonga Times.



BILL METCALF

In making the announcement, Smith said, "I am sure that Bill Metcalf will do an outstanding job as vice president.

"He has always been one of Southern California's top newspapermen and his experience will greatly benefit Donrey's Western Newspaper Division."

Metcalf will be based in Pomona and will maintain his office in the Progress-Bulletin building.

Metcalf, who has lived in the Pomona-Ontario area all his life, began his newspaper career in 1948 with the Upland News.

In 1949, he became a sales trainee at the Pomona Progress-Bulletin. He later was promoted to salesman and then advertising manager.

General manager

In 1965, Metcalf became advertising director for both the Progress-Bulletin and the Daily Report. In 1968, following Donrey's purchase of the two newspapers, Metcalf was promoted to general manager of the Daily Report.

Metcalf long has been active in the community, and has been president of the Old Baldy Boy Scout Council and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Because of his wide experience in newspaper publishing, he recently was named to the board of directors of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Holmes, new general manager at the Daily Report, has the longest tenure of any employe at the newspaper. He began as an apprentice printer in 1946 and was promoted to advertising salesman in 1963.

In 1968, he became advertising manager and in 1972 he was promoted to advertising director.

Holmes is a former member of the Ontario Parks and Recreation Commission, and a member of the Kiwanis Club and the California Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.

Daughter of senator slain 7 years ago

Two men linked to Percy killing

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two members of a gang of housebreakers were linked Saturday to the unsolved slaying of Valerie Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., seven years ago, the Chicago Sun-Times reported.

In a copyrighted story, the newepaper named the two men as: Francis L. Hohimer, 46, a burglar now serving a 30-year sentence at the Iowa State Penitentiry in Fort Madison, Iowa, and Frederick Malchow, an accomplice of Hohimer, who died in 1967 after he escaped from authorities and plunged into the Schuylkill River near Norristown, Pa.

Miss Percy, 21, died after being hit on the head twice and stabbed 10 times in the senator's home in suburbn Kenilworth, Ill., early Sunday, Sept. 18, 1966. Police have failed to discover her murderer despite questioning as many as 10,000 persons, following up countless leads and checking out the false confessions of 11 men.

Hohimer was accued of being Miss Percy's assailant in statements given the Sun-Times by Hohimer's brother Harold Wayne Hohimer, and crime syndicate figure Leo Rugendorf, a known fence for stolen jewelry. Rugendorf died in 1972 after telling two Sun-Times reporters that Hohimer said he killed Miss Percy.

Hohimer flatly denied he killed the girl when confronted at the Iowa prison, the newspaper reported, and instead accused Frederick Malchow of the crime.

He said a bloodied Malchow, along with two other gang members, Harold J. (Jimmy) Evans, 28, and William Jackson, 39, came to his North Side Chicago apartment for a change of clothes on the morning of the murder. Hohimer said he burned Malchow's bloody clothes.

Hohimer said Malchow later confessed to him that he killed Miss Percy but gave no details.

"All I know is that he admitted killing her and he thought it was a joke because he'd never get caught. He just figured he would never go down on that rap," Hohimer told the Sun-Times.

Hohimer said he was prepared to take a lie detector test to show his own innocence.

Sex killer of 19 women sought by Mexico police

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police assigned 50 special agents Saturday to the search for a sex killer who has raped and strangled 19 women.

Authorities said they have almost no leads to the identity of the "Naucalpan strangler."

"Women here have started to panic," said a police spokesman.

Police renewed their drive to track down the maniac after a pretty secretary, Victoria Leon, 20, became the 19th rape-murder victim of the strangler early Friday. Her partially nude, beaten body was found floating in a water cistern.

All the women have been slain in suburban communities around Mexico City. Police dubbed the slayer the "Naucalpan strangler" because a number of his early victims lived in the western Mexico City suburb of Naucalpan.

Police said they were investigating three possible suspects, including a 23-year old youth identified as Miss Leon's boyfriend. But sources close to the investigation said it was doubtful that any of the three young men being questioned was linked to the Leon slaying or to any of the earlier murders.

Police said there were unconfirmed reports that the strangler at times dresses as a woman, so as to be able to approach his victims without alarm.

Reports of an unrelated attempted rape in another nearby uburban comminity, Atizapan de Zaragoza, Friday provoked new concern there and heightened speculation about the theory, supported by some investigators, that the "strangler" is not one person but several.

An unidentified 18-year-old girl was reportedly rescued by police from being raped by a 15-year-old youth.

FIRE LEAVES 5 HOMELESS

A blaze traced to a short circuit in a back porch forced Mrs. Patricia Ross and her four children to flee their two-story home at 462 E. Arrow Hwy., Upland, shortly before 9 a.m. Saturday. The Upland Fire Department, only two blocks away, controlled the fire quickly, but the house is a total loss. One child, Margaret, 7, was treated for smoke inhalation at San Antonio Community Hospital, Capt. Don Morton reports.

Snake bite victim 'out of danger'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A 15-year-old youth was declared "out of danger" Saturday less than two days after being bitten by a deadly Asian cobra in the basement of his home.

Carmen Hicks, described by his father as an "aspiring zoologist," was admitted to Einstein Medical Center Thursday after being bitten on the thumb while removing venom from the snake.

Girls begging for 'nun'

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Police reported Saturday the arrest of a 64-year-old woman who pretended to be a Roman Catholic nun and ran an orphanage which turned to be the front for a large-scale begging operation.

Police said the woman, whom they identified as Ana Perez Bustamante, forced the girl inmates of her "orphanage" to go out on the streets to beg alms and kept the profits of the operation for herself.

Mrs. Bustamante called herself "missionary sister serf of the Holy Lord" and used a black nun's habit, police said.

Her "orphanage" was filthy and rats ran rampant through the premises. Police also said she locked the girls up at night in dark rooms and whipped them occasionally to keep discipline.

But city still under martial law

Military lifts Athen's curfew

ATHENS (UPI) — Military authorities Saturday lifted the Athens curfew imposed during last weekend's abortive rebellion which left 12 persons dead and caused more than $3.5 million in damages, but the nation remained under martial law.

Government sources said Public Order Minister Panayotis Therapos resigned and was replaced by retired Gen. Vassilios Tsoumbas, who had been public order minister in the former militry government of President George Papadopoulos.

Sources close to the regime said Therapos resigned immediately after the bloody rebellion put down by army tanks but was asked to remain until Saturday.

No official explanation was given for the resignation.

Continuing a gradual move toward normal life in the ancient capital, martial law commander Gen. Dimitrios Zagorianakos lifted the curfew and allowed theaters to resume plays.

The Sunday soccer matches still were banned, however, and the Greek Soccer Federation asked permission to resume the national soccer championships Wednesday.

Spyros Zournadzis, the deputy to the prime minister, told a mid-afternoon news conference that estimated losses were "in the hundreds of millions drchmas (at least $3.5 million) in public and private property in the weekend rebellion.

"It is characteristic that one of the police stations, the 8th, gives a figure of 80 million drachmas ($2.9 million) in public and private shops, cars, banks and so on," he said.

The 8th police station is in the area of the Athens polytechnic school —center of the uprising.

Zournadzis said 302 persons were being held as of Saturday in Athens military and police headquarters in connection with the student-worker rebellion, but arrests and investigations were continuing.

"We are now doing what any other police would do in an analogous case," Zournadzis said. "We are continuing the investigation."

Viet truce violations increase; 100 on both sides die in fight

SAIGON (UPI) — Truce violations rose to the highest total in a month Saturday and nearly 100 persons on both sides died in the fighting, the South Vietnamese military command reported.

Lt. Col. Le Tring Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, reported 111 cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at noon today. It was the highest such total since Oct. 24, when there were 120 in the corresponding period

Hien listed 53 Communists, 34 government soldiers and 11 civilians killed in the fighting. He said 190 government troops and six civilians were wounded and four government soldiers and 32 civilians were missing. All the battles were small skirmishes.

He announced that 12 soldiers and nine civilians were wounded in Friday's rocket attack against Pleiku Air Base in the western Central Highlands, 230 miles northeast of Saigon. Hien said the 19 rockets also damaged a C7 Caribou transport plane, three trucks and two buildings. Military sources said the Caribou was destroyed along with two fire trucks.

In neighboring Cambodia, the government drive to recapture strategic Highway 4 stalled Saturday in face of extremely heavy rebel mortar fire and ground fighting, UPI field reporters said.

The reporters said government troops under a constant shower of mortar fire adanced only about 100 yards from the positions they captured Friday about a mile south of Mohasaing, 36 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Suffered stroke

Ben-Gurion losing his fight for life

TEL AVIV (UPI) — David Ben-Gurion, the 87-year-old former prime minister who helped lead Israel to nationhood, took a turn for the worse Saturday in his fight to recover from stroke, the national radio said.

The broadcast said Ben-Gurion's blood pressure and pulse dropped during the night and that his condition was deteriorating from complications following the cerebral hemorrhage last Sunday.

Ben-Gurion was reported in serious condition most of the week, but Thursday his doctors said he was improving.

Dr. Boleslaw Goldman, Ben-Gurion's personal physician, was unvailable for comment on the white-haired former prime minister's condition.

Hospital officials said informtion about him woild be available later Saturday.

Ben-Gurion was rushed to Tel Hashomer hospital six days ago with what doctors described at the time as a "mild stroke."

They said it paralyzed his right side, but that Ben-Gurion never lost consciousness and received a steady stream of visitors, including his family, Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Ben-Gurion has had a series of illnesses in the past several years that doctors said resulted from his advanced age.

Ben-Gurion, born David Green, emigrated from his native Poland to what was then Palestine in 1905.

In a stuffy, hot room of the old Tel Aviv museum, he proclaimed the creation of Israel May 14, 1948 and became its first prime minister and defense minister.

He conducted Israel's first war wtih the Arabs and led the nation for a total of 12 years, his term in office broken only by a three year retirement in the mid-1950s.

With his permanent retirement in 1963, Ben-Gurion moved to the Sde Boker collective settlement in the Negev desert. He turned 87 on Oct. 16, 10 days after Israel's fourth war with the Arabs broke out.

Cancer victim can't use sick leave of others

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A park district attorney has ruled that 70 employes cannot legally transfer their sick leave to a co-worker dying of cancer.

Sick leave cannot be given to someone else, attorney Tom Hyde of the East Bay Regional Park District said, citing provisions of the state constitution.

Sylvain H. Mahler, a district gardener who has one year to live with a malignant neck tumor, had been offered more than 1,000 hours of sick leave by 70 district employers.

Mahler had used all but 19 hours of his own sick leave due to weakness caused by cobalt treatments and coworkers said his family, including two children, was short of money.

Mahler, a 16-year employe, said he would return to work Dec. 3 and stay as long as he is able.

'River Kwai's' Japanese star dies in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese-born actor best remembered for his role as the swaggering prison camp commandant in the film "The Bridge on the River Kwai," died Saturday after a lengthy illness. He was 83.

A spokesman at Kyoundo hospital said the cause of death was softening of the brain complicated by pneumonia.

In the movie, "The Bridge on the River Kwai," a World War II story of life of a British battalion in a Japnese POW camp in Thailand, Havakawa played opposite British actor Alec Guinness, the commander of the Allied prisoners.

Hayakawa came to the United States from Japan when he was a young man to study political economy at the University of Chicago. He arrived in Hollywood in 1916 and within year he was a star.

Rattles & straws

Family travels on its stomach

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Eating out with the kids — what fun, what excitement . . . what a drag.

The wise parents of four or five young sprouts (a contradiction in terms) do not rashly march the tribe into cafes and restaurants — Bob's Burgers, Harry's Hot Dogs, Pedro's Pastrami Palace. It is much easier and safer, when wheeling your station wagon snake pit of ravenous and unruly moppets along the highway to drive into one of those In-and-Out Burger places or Basket of Chicken at the Curb for Chicken Parents.

Some young Mommies and Daddies, unwary and unwise, will take the kids to a restaurant, especially if they are on a vacation trip and holed up in a motel in some strange city (where the owner already regrets accepting them .

Then the local resident, munching thoughtfully on the blue-plate special (breaded veal cutlet) is treated to a circus of shouts, screams, crashes, slaps and wails rivaling "Hellzapoppin." Older (and wiser) parents at nearby tables view the carnival with amused indulgence, recognizing it, remembering all too well, envious of the young couple and their round-cheeked slobbering young, but happy it's all in the past.

The average family entering a quiet coffee shop is like an invasion from outer space. Bill and Tim, relieved to be out of the car after a six-hour journey, slug each other, steal matches from the counter, knock over the gum ball machine, and generally act as if they were already home. Sally missed her nap and is wailing fretfully, and little Jimmy is shrilling the announcement that he is hungry and needs changing.

Everyone gets cheeseburgers and Coke. Safe enough, you say? Never traveled with kids, have you? Bill pours catsup on Daddy's shirt; Tim spills French fries into his lap; Sally knocks over Mommy's coffee. Little Jimmy, having thrown up, has fallen asleep in his chair, a half-gummed zwieback in one shubby fist.

The little family has only been in the restaurant half an hour, but it has seemed like two hours to Mommy and Daddy and six hours to the other diners. (Tweve hours to the waitress.)

And out they go, shouting, falling down, breaking things (Daddy leaves an extra large tip), and off into the station wagon for another jaunt down the highway, reading comic books and fighting, until it is time again to swing in and terrorize some unsuspecting cafe.

On the whole, the proprietors would prefer Hell's Angels.

LOVE WORDS: (Q.) David and I are very close although he lives in Pennsylvania and I see him only about three weeks out of the year.

When he writes me he always says how he loves me a real lot. But when he calls me up, which is about once a week, he never even mentions the word "love." How am I supposed to know if he really does love me? —Wondering in Connecticut.

(A.) When David writes you he can be alone and put down the words. When he calls, some member of his family may be listening. You should listen to his letters.

HELPING: (Q.) I want to help people. I want to do some useful job. But I am just 14 and I know I can't get a paying job before I am 16.

This summer I wanted to be a candy striper in a hospital. My mother wouldn't let me. She thinks that no one should work free in a place that has enough money to pay you.

I told her the money wasn't important. I wanted to HELP. —Willing in Connecticut.

(A.) I'm with you. Keep looking for a volunteer job that your mother will agree upon. She should consider the experience and the feeling of achievement and worth you will get out of working to help others.

Gas shortage threat

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — Judy Allen, 28, uses less than a gallon of gasoline a week, but she says the fuel shortage could put her out of work.

Judy, a professional fire eater, is due to begin a week's theater booking soon. But garages have banned the supply of gasoline in cans in a bid to stop motorists from stockpiling.

"Two garages have refused to fill a container for me," she said Thursday. "I need petrol (gas) for my act."

Oceanside 'farms' may soon produce sea foods

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Delicacies of the sea will soon come from oceanside "farms" that are sprouting up along the California coast.

With pollution and population causing a depletion of the once abundant shellfish, scientists have turned to the controlled environment for producing seafood dishes.

Experiments show that even San Francisco's gastronomical delight, the Dungeness Crab, may soon be making a comeback — growing up in cages.

With prices going up and quantity going down, the farming of abalone, clams, oysters and scallops is simply good business, according to Dougald H. Thamer, general manager of International Shellfish Enterprises (ISE).

Thamer says ISE's indoor warm water plant at Monterey Bay could promote animal growth at nearly twice the speed of natural development in the Pacific.

"Our products will be the same size as natural sea-grown shellfish and their meat quality and taste will not differ," says Thamer, whose firm expects to have 5 million oysters and 1.5 million clams ready to market by the end of next year.

How to cultivate the unpredictable Dungeness Crab has been the study of James P. Welsh, a professor of fisheries at Humboldt State University. After four years of experiments at Eureka, Welsh believes the commercial growing of crabs is just around the corner.

California's crab catch, according to the State Department of Fish and Game, has dropped from 18.2 million in 1957 to 2.5 million in the past two years. This year's harvest is expected to be even less. With the declining arvest, the price of crab has skyrocketed.

Welsh has found that crabs can be raised by varying the diet and feeding schedules and allowing each crustacean nearly two square feet of room to prevent cannibalism.

Raising crabs, says Welsh, would provide edible results as much as six weeks before the ocean crab season begins in late November. His Eureka project shows that 7,800 crabs could be grown in cages 100 yards long and 100 yards wide.

In Santa Rosa, a firm has developed a facility to raise abalone in record time. The soupbowl shaped delicacy has been seen less and less in the past few years clinging to rocks in 7-foot depths.

"I used to be able to get my limit (five) around Fort Bragg all the time," said Gene Templeton, a skindiver from Santa Rosa. "Now they're just not around or you have to dive in rougher, deeper water to find them." He blamed the decrease on pollution and too many people disturbing the fragile tidal areas.

Joe Damato, skipper of a crab boat at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, said the crabs, too, have gone because of "all the garbage they're throwing into the bay...and acid, too."

"Nobody was listening," said Vince Spadero, another crab boat operator, "when fishermen started finding dead crab in their crab pots 10 years ago."

Although crab farming may be a ways in the future, other seafood products, according to ISE, should soon be reaching the dinner table direct from commercial growers.

ISE President William D. Sauers said advanced scientific processes at Moss Landing, including the use of warm water discharged from Pacific Gas & Electric Company's "Mighty Moe" power plant, can greatly accelerate marine growth.

Clams and scallops that reach maturity in four or five years under normal ocean conditions, said Sauers, will mature in about 18 months at the ISE facility.

Oysters will be ready for consumption in one year to 15 months compared to four years in the ocean, and abalone will be ready for the market in 12 to 15 months, instead of seven years in a natural environment, he said.

Here's definition of the 'good life' in future America

Editor's Note: This is the ninth of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is resident fellow at the Center for Studies of the Person, La Jolla, Calif. Herein he discusses many issues concerned with what we call "the good life."

By CARL R. ROGERS

From my experience with young people, with individuals in encounter groups, and in psychotherapy, I have become convinced that we are working out a new definition of the good life. I want to give you my perception of this new goal as I see it emerging in our country, and perhaps in Western culture generally.

But first let me remind you that this has always been a debatable issue for mankind. The "good life" has had very different meanings for different groups and in different ages. For some it has meant a life given over to meditation—the holy man on the mountaintop. In sharp contrast, to others it has meant a life of achievement—gaining wealth, status, knowledge or power.

For many it has meant strict adherence to a creed, a set of rules or principles—whether found in the Bible, the Koran or emanating from a religious leader. For still others it has meant selfless dedication to a cause outside of themselves—Christian missionary work, communism or Hitler's German youth. For some it has been the indulgence of every pleasurable appetite, with the slogan "Eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die."

These examples indicate that the "good life" is not some known, fixed, timeless goal, the same for all, but is a matter of choice.

I trust that this quick review will cause you to be thoughtly critical as you read what follows, which is my perception of the good life as I see more and more people defining it today. What I say is not based on scholarly or philosophical abstractions. It is based on years of intimate acquaintance with the inner life of others as they have willingly exposed their inmost desires in personal discussions, in the close relationship of therapy and in the intimacy of encounter groups.

To an ever increasing number of people the desire which is strongest can be stated in this way: "I want to be a process in which I am becoming my deepest, truest self."

Note that the desire is to become a process.

It is not a desire to achieve a fixed state—whether a state of happiness, or wealth or even oneness with the universe. Continual change is the essence of the goal. This is certainly in line with the trend of today's culture, which is toward ever-accelerating change, brought about by the incredible (and often frightening) advances in our technology.

But it is perhaps the first time in history that personal goals have embodied changingness as a primary element. In individual living, in man-woman relationships, even in our place of living, we expect change and process to be central. Let me express it in personal terms: "I do not expect to be the same person a year from now that I am today; nor do I expect my marriage to be the same; and I am not sure that I will be living in the same home."

Gone are the days when people married "and lived happily ever after."

Gone are the days when a man worked at the same task in the same place for all his active life. Gone are the days when the rules of behavior and the standards of morality remained fixed and certain throughout one's life. All is in flux, and we are accommodating to this by choosing to be — as individuals — an adaptive, relativistic process, rather than an unchanging self.

But clearly a process must move in some direction. What are the directions which help to define, for many, the meaning of the good life? Several directions seem to stand out.

In the first place I have found that when the individual is free to choose the kind of process person he wants to be, he opts for movement toward an openness to all of his experience.

Let me explain. We are continually experiencing — the changes in our bodily processes, our feelings, our thoughts, all the multitude of flow which goes on within our skin. We are also experiencing the continuously altering stimuli from our outer environment — not only the physical environment, but the social as well — the slight snub from this person, the envy of that one, the love of another, the frightening domination of someone in authority. We are becoming highly aware persons, conscious of these multiple pulls and prods. We are also becoming aware of our feelings — the resentment, the fear, the affection, the anger, the jealousy — any one of which may be uppermost in any given moment.

As we are more aware of these changing reactions, we are also more willing to take the risk of expressing them when we feel it appropriate — and increasingly we take the chance that it is appropriate.

Hence, many people today are choosing to be more open to their experience, with all the discomfort that that involves, for it is not easy to recognize that you are jealous of a colleague when you "should" be approving of him, or that you are angry at your wife when you "should" be feeling love.

This means that a growing number are deeply opposed to sham, to hyprocrisy, to wearing a facade. We feel contempt for political leaders who say one thing and act very differently; we do not easily tolerate the teacher who wears the mask of an instructor all day, putting it off only when leaving the classroom; we are skeptical of marriages that are always "peachy-keen," hiding the tensions underneath.

This is truly an enormous change when we consider that many people, and a number of cultures, live entirely in terms of "keeping face" — presenting a correct but false facade to the world, no matter how much innter turmoil is being concealed. Instead we are choosing to move — and it is a slow and lifetime task — toward being more aware of, and more openly expressive of, any persistent inner reaction, whether the world regards it as positive or negative constructive or destructive. We believe that even destructive impulses if expressed when they first occur, rather than being compressed by repression, will be healthy in the long run.

A second direction I perceive is toward a greater trust in one's own self. In a sense this is implied in what I have said.

The emerging modern individual places his confidence not in society's norms, nor religion's rules, nor parent's dictates, but in his own changing experience as it occurs within himself. He is, in a very deep sense, his own highest authority. He chooses his own way.

This does not mean that he is sure he will make no mistakes. Quite the contrary. But as he finds that the consequences of his choices are not rewarding, he has within his own experience the data to reorder his direction. He can modify his errors more easily because he is not acting in terms of some supposedly infallible external guide, but in terms of his own inner reactions which he knows to be fallible and only approximate in their accuracy. So it is not so devastating to admit, "This choice was mistaken. I see now, with such openness as I have been able to achieve, that another course is preferable."

Thus the guide of conduct is the ever changing flow of inner experience. The person gradually develops an increasing trust in his own capacity for making choices. He is less and less guided by "You ought to —" and "You should —" as these exhortations flood in from the external world. He takes them into account as data conveying society's wishes, but he is not

Danbury students finding ways to beat handicaps

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The youngster positioned her wheelchair behind the foul line, adjusted the bowling ball ramp to her liking and, with the aid of her physical education teacher, she rolled the shiny black ball towards the pins.

Nicky Lebron cheered as her ball hit the Garey Center Bowl pins and Miss Pat Reedy, her teacher, smiled.

The rest of her classmates, all orthopedically handicapped students from Danbury School in Claremont, joined in the cheering, and each student took her turn behind the foul line for a chance at scoring a strike.

Bowling is one of the most popular activities enjoyed by the older children at Danbury School. With the aid of a bowling ramp donated to the school by Miss Reedy, Danbury School physical education instructor, everyone can play regardless of physical disability. Bowling alley manager Lee Fenton sets aside a pair of lanes every Tuesday afternoon. The girls bowl one week, the boys the next.

Miss Reedy designed the ramp and had it custom-made so that it can be aimed at the pins by a student either standing or sitting. The ramp enables the child without sufficient arm and hand strength to enjoy the sport and challenge of the game along with those who bowl in the conventional manner.

After each bowling session, the students enjoy refreshments in the coffee shop. Different ones attend each session, so that everyone has an opportunity to participate.

The Danbury physical education program was initiated during the fall of 1972 by Principal Leonard Gaylord, and is continuing to enjoy success under new Principal Guy Warfel.

The program has been received enthusiastically by every age group, ranging from 3 to 15, at Danbury. Each child participates daily.

The program includes motor skills for the younger children, rhythms and dance, table games, self-testing activities to develop hand-eye coordination, and outdoor sports such as football, kick ball, and softball.

The wheelchair-bound child participates in everything. He bats in softball and he either designates a base runner or the instructor or teacher assistant pushes him around the bases.

Archery also is offered on a carefully controlled basis and ranks with bowling in popularity.

Younger children also enjoy the swimming program inaugurated last year. A number of parents assist in the pool at the Crippled Children's Society, on Indian Hill Boulevard.

The entire program is designed and presented to promote development of an adequate self-concept within each child. "It is important that the student come to realize what he can do," commented Miss Reedy, whose aim is to provide opportunities for leadership experiences and development of a sense of personal responsibility.

Miss Reedy sees that a happy, relaxed atmosphere pervades each class session, and, as a result of many imaginative and creative approaches to learning movement skills, the children are growing toward a more full enjoyment of a life which casts no shadow because of mental or physical disability.

DRAWING A BEAD

Nanette Ellis aims the bowling ramp at the head pin while Lee Fenton, manager of the Garey Center Bowl, Pomona, lends a hand. The ramp was donated to the class by Miss Pat Reedy, physical education instructor. Fenton provides two free lanes each Tuesday afternoon for the youngsters.

Neighborhood cleaned up before investigators come

The area in which I live is zoned by the City of Pomona as suitable for professional and administrative use. However, the people at one home seem to be trying to destroy any suitability it might have for such use or even to live in.

They park as many as eight cars and trucks overnight on the front and side lawns. There is an old rickety bus parked in front of the house in which someone lives or at least sleeps, practically on the sidewalk.

A couple of vicious dogs terrorize the neighborhood. No one dared to walk past the house. The backyard is full of chickens, roosters, dogs and rabbits. It is charmingly rural but hardly sanitary and certainly not conducive to sleep.

I tried to talk to city officials about this. There are laws but apparently they are advisory only and no one has to obey them if he doesn't wish.

After a particularly annoying session of dogs and running of motors, my wife called police. They promised to send a man out to investigate. Apparently he is still investigating. — P.H., Pomona.

Informed of your complaints by Action Line, Jerrold R. Gonce, city administrator, turned them over to the city's community development office. Members of that office made an on-the-spot investigation of your charges.

They reported there were only three automobiles and a converted bus on the property at the time of the investigation. The bus was converted into a motor home and was properly licensed for such use. It was parked on the back driveway, not in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Investigators found only two dogs, both friendly, and the backyard contained no animals whatsoever. The property next door, however, did have four chickens in a small pen.

As for your comment about laws being only advisory, Gonce states there are rigid restrictions relative to the keeping of animals or fowl in residential property areas and these ordinances are fully enforced when violations are brought to the city government's attention.

You say that things are better than they were when you wrote to us. You report that:

1. The old bus that used to be parked in front has been moved around to the back.
2. The roosters and the rabbits have been taken away.
3. No longer are two or three cars parked on the front lawn at one time.
4. The place has been generally cleaned up. Trash has been taken off the front porch, the railings have been fixed and lawns have been watered.

Perhaps word of your intense unhappiness about the situation got around before the investigators did.

My 89-year-old retired high school teacher of French lives in Switzerland.

Through the years we have sent her books to read in English which she finds hard to get in Europe. She has been very appreciative but recently she asked us to send a special book which was her childhood favorite and which she would like to re-read. It is "Aunt Diana" by Cary.

We have looked high and low for this book. We thought you or some of your readers may know where we can get a copy which we would like to send to her for her 90th birthday in January. Please help us make an old lady very happy. — H. C., Claremont.

"Aunt Diana" isn't one of our acquaintances. We would like to meet her since she has been pleasantly remembered by your former teacher all these years.

Pomona Library reports the book is no longer in print.

Pomona to act on F.D. aid request

POMONA — The City Council Monday night will consider approval of an application for a $125,000 federal grant-in-aid to help pay for the construction of a fire station-training facility in west Pomona.

Total cost of the development, called a "Comprehensive Public Services Center," is estimated at $553,600.

The grant application would be to the Economic Development Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Nearly seven acres of land with an appraised value of $81,000 at Pacific State Hospital are being transferred by the state to the city for the project.

The council previously earmarked $258,000 in general revenue sharing funds for the development, which will include a drill tower, training center and a fire station—the city's seventh.

The fire station would service industrial, commercial and residential areas in west Pomona plus the hospital and the Cal Poly campus.

Regional training site

"It is anticipated that the training facility will be a region-wide training academy facility for improving and training existing and future personnel of the fire profession," Asst. City Administrator Joseph F. Korpsak said in a letter to the council.

The site is south of Temple Avenue west of San Jose Creek.

The council also will review an application in final form for a one-year nutritional program for certain persons 60 and over, and for the opening in city hall of an office of senior citizen affairs.

Under the proposal, nutritious lunch meals would be served at six locations five days a week during the period Feb. 1, 1974, to Jan. 31, 1975.

Among other matters scheduled for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Recommendation from the community development department that the city seek certification as a home management counseling agency for buyers of houses sold under the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's bulk sales program.

—Talk by Upland Councilman Harold A. Bailin on further construction of the Foothill Freeway.

—Hearing on the vacation of an alley east of Oak Avenue between First and Second streets and of Oak, between First and Second. Public Works Director Ronald Kranzer has recommended a continuation to Jan. 7. Protests to both moves have been received from residents.

—Hearing on Planning Commission recommendation for zone change, from commercial to manufacturing at 1605 E. Mission Blvd.

—Recommendation by the Planning Commission for approval of a tentative tract map for a condominium development south of The Barrister restaurant between Park Avenue and Parcels Street with one of the conditions being the acquisition of three additional lots.

—Recommendation by the Planning Commission for denial of a request for the determination that mini-warehouse developments be allowed in the I-P (industrial park) Zoning Districts.

—Hearing on requests by residents for additional access to the Kellogg Park tract. Kranzer has recommended a continuation to Dec. 10.

—Resolution authorizing an agreement with Cal Poly for a street maintenance training program for students.

—Recommendation of Redevelopment Agency Executive Director Fred Sharp for approval of a settlement on the acquisition of the Chung King Restaurant property.

Oil shortage intensifies trend

President Nixon is caught in an economic box. He had been slowing the economy in an attempt to curb inflation, reasoning that if we had less to spend it would cut demand enough to force prices down.

Whether or not that approach would have worked we may never know. For the energy crunch has destroyed his program. That crunch, sparked by the oil shortage, will amplify the slowdown in the economy well past the President's limits — perhaps to a very serious point.

Even without the Arab petroleum cutbacks, the impending sluggishness of the economy in 1974 threatened considerably greater unemployment and increasing hardships even for those men and women with steady employment.

Only large amounts of overtime have enabled many factory workers to get by despite inflation.

Now the hefty price rises of the first 10 months of this year, combined with the expected decline in overtime as the economy slows, ensure that labor, which had been surprisingly moderate in its wage demands in recent periods, will push heavily for major increases in the 1974 negotiations.

An upsurge in labor costs, combined with continued increases in the price of most imported goods, will ensure that the demand-pull inflation (when demand far exceeds supply) so greatly feared by Mr. Nixon will, as fate would have it merely be replaced by cost-push inflation, which results when the costs of production increase sharply.

Historically, cost-push inflation has been even more difficult to handle than demand-pull. So we may be jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

The oil shortage will, of course, intensify this trend. For higher energy costs, by their very nature, spread through an economy like wildfire, from goods to services and back again — bringing a greater pressure for added wage boosts. There is nothing that energy does not affect, directly or indirectly.

Obviously too, as prices increase and wages fail to keep pace, even though increasing, the average household will have less to spend.

The stock markets have already felt the pressure. It is already clear that the outlook is not good for the automobile industry, for the makers of appliances, the operators of motel, chains, highway restaurant operators, those who manufacture a variety of luxury goods and a host of others.

The greatest problem however is what all this foretells for the years beyond 1973. There is a certain momentum to an economy, despite its ups and downs. And an economy which loses this momentum, as when it slides into a recession as distinct from a limited slowdown, often takes considerable time to recover.

Hopefully, therefore, there will be a quick ending to the Mideast crisis, with an increase in oil shipments, enabling this country to get by temporarily. But what must be emphasized is that word temporarily. Without a long-term solution somewhat independent of the Mideast, this country will continue on the razor's edge. And a new crisis could come at any time.

What's in a gender?

There's a diabolical plot afoot to expunge the word "men," both in its singular and plural forms, from the language.

The U.S. Census Bureau has gone a step further by eliminating reference to gender altogether in its recently announced revision of 52 of the 441 job titles in its Occupational Classification System. Some of the changes:

Clergymen to clergy; salesmen to sales workers; foremen to blue-collar supervisors; craftsmen and kindred workers to craft and kindred workers; boatmen and canalmen to boat operators; furnacemen to furnace tenders; railroad switchmen to railroad switch operators; chambermaids to lodging quarters cleaners; airline stewardesses to flight attendants; busboys to waiters' assistants; firemen to fire-fighters; policemen to police; fishermen to fishers.

Whether or not many women will now rush out to become furnace tenders or canal boat operators remains to be seen, but that last classification suggests that there may be limits to how far the Great Gender Shift can go.

"And He saith unto them, follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."

Somehow, "fishers of people" doesn't sound the same.

Men's lib

Women's Lib has libbed some men, too, it seems.

Whatever one may think of Person Gloria Steinem, or Betty Fredan, the Lib movement has opened up new opportunities for women in employment areas previously difficult for them to enter.

A survey taken at the University of California, San Francisco, indicates that there also is a large influx of males into what previously was considered women's work. They are becoming nurses, dental hygienists, dieticians, physical therapists, social workers, secretaries, even receptionists. Not, of course, a totally new development, but new in wider acceptance.

Feisal has U.S. over oil barrel

WASHINGTON — Saudi Arabia's austere King Feisal controls the oil valves which will determine how much Americans will shiver this winter. Only Saudi Arabia has the means to break the Arab oil embargo and ease the critical shortage facing the United States.

A prolonged boycott, according to Treasury experts, would cause severe economic dislocations. One Treasury study worns that a "major economic depression" would result if the supply disruption continues into the late 1970s.

Yet secret studies by the National Security Council show there's no practical way to start the oil flowing again if Feisal doesn't want to open the valves.

It will do little good to cut off food shipments to the Saudis. Feisal can afford to pay out of the kingdom's overflowing treasury whatever price it takes to purchase from other countries all the food his people need.

Can't freeze assets

The suggestion that Saudi Arabian assets in the West be frozen also won't likely work. The king shrewdly is providing oil to the countries where most of the oil billions are stashed.

As a last resort, of course, the National Security Council has considered military force. But the secret studies show that a military operation to take over the Saudi oil fields would be highly vulnerable to sabotage and interdiction. In any case, intelligence reports warn emphatically that the Saudis would sabotage their own wells before permitting them to be captured.

This leaves negotiation as the preferred, if not the only, way to fill America's ebbing oil tanks. Yet Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in his secret talks with Feisal, failed to budge the shrewd old monarch.

Sources close to the negotiaions say Kissinger is more skillful at world politics power plays than he is at economics. Only as an afterthought did he invite an oil expert the last minute to participate in the National Security Council discussion on the Saudi predicament.

Didn't heed advice

Kissinger also ignored advice that he talk to the oil minister who, it was suggested, would have been more inclined to help work out an accommodation. Instead, Kissinger with his sense of power dealt directly with the king who was polite but implacable.

Kissinger urged the king to resume oil shipments to the United States. A continuing embargo, Kissinger argued, would only provide ammunition for the anti-Arab forces and generate anti-Arab sentiment in the United States. This would make it difficult for him to follow the even-handed policy he desired in the Middle East, he said.

The soft-spoken Kissinger handled the discussion with his customary brilliance and Feisal listened carefully to every word. Although he speaks English, he insists on Arabic for official occasions and, therefore, dealt with Kissinger through an interpreter. The secret session was formal and stuffy.

The king declared solemnly that he was willing not only to resume shipments but to increase them until the United States has all the oil it needs. But he cannot relax the oil squeeze, he said, until Israel begins to evacuate Arab territory taken in 1967.

Personal insult

He reminded Kissinger of past, repeated warnings that unswerving U. S. support for Israel would bring oil sanctions. The king said he had been reluctant to take this action. It was clear from his remarks, however, that he felt personally insulted by Washington's failure to heed his warnings.

The irony is that Feisal, according to all accounts, has a soft spot for the United States. Many key Saudi officials were educated in the United States. Indeed, there's a good-natured rivalry between Saudis who attended colleges in northern and southern California. One of the king's own sons attended President Nixon's alma mater in Whittier, Calif.

Feisal is also fiercely anti-Communist: He is more eager than Nixon and Kissinger to keep Soviet influence out of the Middle East. But above all else, Feisal is a devout Moslem. He abstains from liquor, shuns leisure pleasures and prays five times a day. He is deeply serious about his traditional role as protector of the Moslem world's three holy cities — Mecca, Medina and Jerusalem. The old king wants Jerusolem returned to Moslem custody. Before he dies, he wants to pray in the great mosque in Jerusalem.

But he is motivated, according to intelligence analyses, by more than religious devotion. He wants to halt the radical trend in the Arab world and to bring Arab affairs under the control of moderates. For this purpose, he has established a firm alliance with Egypt's President Sadat, who has turned from Russia to Saudi Arabia for financial support.

Exalted status

But Faisal cannot exercise a modifying influence on Arab affairs unless he leads the crusade to recover the lost Arab lands. His use of the oil valves as a political weapon has made him the hero of the Arab world. It's not a status he wishes to give up.

The old king is determined, therefore, to tighten the oil vise until Israel is forced to retreat back to its 1967 borders. He believes that Israel cannot continue to resist world pressure. He is completely willing to accept Israel as a sovereign state provided a political settlement can be reached.

If the Israelis won't accept this settlement, he is ready to bankroll another Arab war against Israel. From Washington, he wants a guarantee that the United States won't again arm Israel.

The more the National Security Council studies the alternatives, the more difficult it becomes to turn down Feisal's deal. The Agriculture Department is conducting a comprehensive study of food exports to Arab nations. Last year, the United States supplied about 15 per cent of Saudi Arabia's imported grain, a figure that is expected to exceed 20 per cent this year. But the Saudis are already sounding out other suppliers, in case the United States should retaliate against the oil embargo by cutting off grain shipments.

Logistical nightmare

Secret studies indicate that the United States could probably seal off supplies from entering Saudi Arabia by military force. But a military operation across more than 8,000 miles of ocean would be a logistical nightmare.

To take over the oil fields, the classified studies show, would be possible but impractical. The danger of sabotage and interdiction would be too great. Oil wells, pipelines and tankers, it is noted, are extremely vulnerable to attack.

It looks as if the United States, therefore, will have to rely upon Kissinger's diplomctic skills.

Gossip for today

Regardless of how important the gals make female equality and women's liberation sound, there's just no getting around the fact that it is contrary to what we are told in the Scriptures. — It's true! It is all spelled out just as plain as day in Genesis 3-16 where the Lord God said unto the woman: "Thy desire shall be thy husband and he shall rule over thee."

But men, let's be generous rulers. While we are on the subject of what Genesis actually has to say about women and their rights, let's correct a popular misconception regarding the part the female sex played in bringing about man's downfall. The truth of the matter is, Eve never did talk Adam into eating a forbidden apple. What she actually handed him was the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

And it was because of that suddenly acquired knowledge that the apple got into the act. Although Genesis doesn't mention it, a legendary rumor still exists that, since he now knew how to dabble in sin, Adam made himself some applejack to drown his sorrow. It gave him such new-found courage that he started yelling at Eve and as a result men have been yelling at women ever since. — Which is the big reason why women are so insistent about liberation. But as anyone can plainly see, they brought their troubles on themselves.

World of animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We plan to give our daughter a horse for Christmas and, of course, the equipment that goes with it so she can take proper care of it. As she's quite a busy girl with school activities, she won't have too much time to spend with it and I'm concerned it wouldn't get fed regularly. I know they have such things as automatic feeders now for tropical fish and even for dogs. I'm thinking an automatic feeder would be extremely handy for her horse. Are they available? —T.D.

Dear T.D.: Yes, automatic feeders are available for horses. They range from clock mechanisms to those triggered by photoelectric cells which will automatically feed either at sunup or sundown or both. (The latter type sells for around $250.)

One shouldn't consider any animal as a gift, be it hamster or horse, if the recipient is unlikely to have the time (and-or interest) to take proper care of it. A barn full of tack and electronic equipment for that horse can't take the place of personal daily attention and it shouldn't be expected to. A living creature can be the greatest of all gifts IF it fits.

The animal dropped into an environment where its physical and psychological needs are not met becomes a living liability if indeed it lives

DEAR DR. MILLER: How often do those itchy, smelly, musk glands under the tail of a dog need to be cleaned? —D.S.

Dear D.S.: The secreting cells which lie on the inside of these anal glands (they are actually small sacs which open at the anus) are considerably more active in some dogs than in others. Many will drain to the outside periodically and never need attention of any kind. Others may fill, causing pressure and irritation which is a common cause of the scooting process whereby the animal actually does scoot along on his rear end in an attempt to relieve the itching. In fact, this is a more common cause for this behavior than is worms. When necessary, these glands should be expressed (cleaned out) by the doctor or someone else qualified for the relatively simple project.

America and the future

ruled by them.

What I am saying helps to account for another direction which is evident. The good life is no longer defined for us by institutions. There is in fact a growing distrust of institutions — of government, law officials, the church, our schools and college, and even the institution of marriage. The individual is more and more standing up to enormous institutional pressures, saying, in effect, "I trust myself and my experiencing of the total situation of the moment — my inner reactions and my experience of these outside forces — more that I turst the institutional conclusions."

I need not add that this has enormous implications — personal, cultural and philosophical.

A final direction I would stress in this emerging person is a thrust toward community. In the midst of a culture becoming more dehumanized, more alienated, this person is not content to be a stranger. He is following his own deep drive — a tendency I believe inherent in the human species — toward community. He wants to be known, accepted, close. So we see a burgeoning development of communes, of encounter groups, of "underground churches" — all of them attempts to come into close, sharing, interpersonal relationships, where one is not anonymous but unique and specific, yet related. These movements seem to help define one of the most profound aspects of the good life — to be fully known, and to be accepted for the process that one is.

It is doubtless evident that this new definition of the good life is built upon a basic trust in the constructive potential of the human orgonism. It is only on that basis that it makes sense to think of the good life as a process of becoming; as a movement toward greater openness to what is, within and without; as a greater trust in one's own self, one's own experiencing, even when that puts the individual at odds with our institutions; and as a thrust toward deeper communication and intimacy with one's fellows. Yet it is that definition which is emerging more and more frequently.

Next: Dr. Kenneth Boulding, professor of economics, University of Colorado.

Boy bitten by king cobra

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A 15-year-old Philadelphia boy, who purchased a deadly Asian king cobra without his parent's knowledge, was in critical condition from a snake bite today at Albert Einstein Medical Center Northern Division.

Police said Carmen Hicks was bitten on the left thumb Thursday afternoon while he was milking the snake which he received mail order about two weeks ago.

They said Hicks' friend, Arnold Stocker, 16, a snake handler for about six years, was teaching Hicks how to handle poisonous snakes and it was he who kept the snake so Hicks' parents would not find out about it.

The youth was bitten when his hand slipped from the rubber cup while milking the snake in his home, police said. For almost four hours, police and other officials searched for the anti-venin serum for the youth. It was administered by 8 p.m.

Authorities said the youth previously had had non-poisonous snakes and lizards in his home, but his parents made him get rid of the snakes. The parents were not at home at the time of the incident.

Plan to rebuild rail lines wins House OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has voted to create a federal corporation to do what bankrupt Eastern railroads were unable to do as private companies —abandon unprofitable lines and rebuild the remaining ones into a strong rail system.

The $1.4 billion measure, passed 306 to 82, contemplates formulation within 20 months of a plan for a new rail system stretching from New England to the Mississippi River, to be composed of the most-used lines of the seven bankrupt railroads.

Thousands of miles of rail line, perhaps 5,000 to 10,000 of the approximately 30,000 miles affected, likely would be abandoned unless local communities decide to keep it running with federal matching funds.

The administration was defeated in its efforts to change key sections of the bill, including amendments to place limits on the labor protection section. Workers laid off by the new system would be paid a full salary until they were offered a new railroad job in their craft, or until they retired at 65.

The new nonprofit corporation, to be called the Federal Nation Railroad Association (FNRA), would have authority to issue stock to purchase the lines it needs, and would have $1 billion in federal loan guarantees to refurbish the system, but a maximum of $200 million of those loans could be used to pay cash for some rail assets if necessary.

FNRA would create a Northeast Railroad Corp. to actually operate the system.

Of the remaining $421.5 million in the bill, $250 million would go for labor protection payments, $85 million in interim payments to keep the bankrupt lines running temporarily, $36.5 million for administrative and planning expenses, and $50 million for federal matching plan that would allow a state or community to keep an abandoned line running with the federal government paying 70 per cent of the loses.

Wallace task force is still intact

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace believes today that he is more popular than he has ever been in his political career.

And because he believes his support will continue to grow, aides say, Wallace has held intact his 1972 campaign staff "just in case" he wants to run for president in 1976.

"At this point," National Campaign Director Charles Snider said, "We are getting more mail than in the heat of the (1972) campaign."

The letters pour in at the rate of 2,000 a day, many from the Northeast and Midwest where Wallace has never enjoyed strong support. The letters contain $2, $5 and occasionally as much as $25, sent in by people who say they wish they could send more.

Many of the letters wish Wallace a speedy recovery from the wounds he suffered May 15, 1972, in an assassination attempt in Maryland. They remind him "Franklin Roosevelt ran for President in a wheelchair."

Watergate letters

But now most of the letters are about Watergate. A minister in California wrote asking Wallace to run for president again and "save us from the disgrace of Watergate."

Watergate, Wallace aides say, has legitimatized Wallace as a national political leader among the traditionally conservative middle American constituency the governor has always tried to claim as his own.

Those people who once considered Wallace too radical or remembered his defiant stand against integration of the University of Alabama in 1963, one Wallace insider said, now think of the governor as a reasonable and honest man when they look at the scandals going on in Washington.

"These people feel the governor is the only person in either political party who can speak for them," Snider said.

A secretary in Illinois wrote Wallace, "I voted for Nixon as the lesser of two evils and now I'm sorry. I've never supported you in the past but now I believe you are the only one who can bring law and order back to the White House."

Uncommitted for '76

Wallace has not committed himself for a presidential bid in 1976, but Snider said the governor now calls the national campaign headquarters an average of four times a day.

Press Secretary Billy Joe Camp said despite the governor's slow, often painful recovery from bullet wounds that have left his legs paralyzed, Wallace has maintained the heaviest speaking schedule of his career over the last two years. Increasingly, the topics of his speeches have been about foreign policy and maintaining a strong military posture for the nation.

"Obviously, we want to keep going," Snider said, "so that should the governor decide to run we won't be behind."

Another spinoff of Watergate that Wallace aides feel will work in the governor's favor will be the reluctance of presidential candidates to ask for or accept large contributions.

"There won't be any more large contributions for anyone," Snider said. "Even though it might be legal and above board, the contributor and the candidate just get into too much."

When the General Accounting Office got through with the Wallace accounting of the 1972 campaign they found only one serious error; a $100 contribution from a corporation, the Midcontinent Truck Stop, Inc., in Arkansas.

"That's where we're ahead," Snider said. "We've always gotten our funds from small contributors. People who know about these things say we have been extremely successful with our mail campaigns, but we've never done it on a large scale.

"If the governor does run again and we try it on a large scale there is no doubt we can finance a successful Wallace campaign."

Each day a battery of secretaries sifts through letters, sorting out checks and money. The envelopes, along with the amount of the contribution, are sent to a computer service.

The service fills out financial statements required by the government while the names and addresses of contributors are added to a master mailing list.

"The system is capable of handling millions of contributors," Snider said.

New leader puts Arizona U. on move

By ARTHUR J. LINGLE

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — University of Arizona president John P. Schaefer has set himself the goal of making the UA one of the six top state universities in the nation by 1980.

"It is not only attainable, but we are well on our way," he said in an interview.

Schaefer, at 39, is one of the new breed of younger university presidents. Unlike his predecessor, Richard A. Harvill, he is constantly visible in both the academic and public communities.

"A public university depends on the confidence of the people," he said. "My primary function is to get out and spread the word that their investment is paying off."

A self-proclaimed authoritarian, Schaefer has moved to tighten tenure policies, an action which caused considerable controversy among faculty. However, Schaefer defended the move saying it was needed to get and keep the best teachers.

From all appearances it is working. Some 200 new faculty members have joined the faculty, including the university's first Nobel Peace Prize winner, Yale physicist Dr. Willis E. Lamb.

Athletics, for years mostly a losing proposition at this 27,500-student desert university, have also felt the Schaefer touch. It began in 1972 with the hiring of Michigan associate athletic director Dave Strack to head the UA's athletic program. Strack then added Michigan assistant coaches Fred Snowden as head basketball coach and Jim Young as head football mentor. Both new coaches have shown winning ways and their success has renewed community interest in the university and also spurred alumni giving.

"What I want is an overall balance between academics and athletics. We are committed to excellence," Schaefer said.

A graduate of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Schaefer earned a doctorate of philosophy degree in chemistry from the University of Illinois. He left the University of California at Berkeley in 1960 moving to Arizona where he became successively head of the chemistry department, dean of the Liberal Arts College and then the University's 17th president in 1971.

Schaefer is a seven-day-a-week, 12-hour day president. His days are spent in faculty and student meetings, budgetary work, legislative lobbying and social gatherings.

His relatively young age has caused some embarassing and often humorous moments. He recalled that at his first alumni meeting he was introduced as the president. A lady, who graduated in 1933, commented on what a clean cut student body president of the university has this year.

"She was horribly mortified," Schaefer said, "to find out that I was actually the university president."

During a trip to Africa this year Schaefer added a beard. "I was walking across campus recently when a student looked at me—and the beard—and said: 'It's guys like you who give beards a bad name.'"

The New York native takes it all in stride saying he believes he will be judged on his performance, not on age or appearance.

USC will return to Rose Bowl, 23-13

Bruins commit six turnovers in loss to Trojans

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Guess who is returning to the Rose Bowl?

Most of the football experts didn't expect USC to be back in Pasadena on Jan. 1. While UCLA chewed up Pacific-8 Conference competition, USC was struggling against the same teams.

But it was UCLA who made the mistakes Saturday afternoon as USC took a 23-13 victory before 88,037 Coliseum customers and a nation-wide ABC audience to win the Pac-8 crown.

So coach John McKay's Trojans will face the winner of today's Big Ten Rose Bowl vote in Pasadena. Most people figure Michigan will get the nod after the Wolverines played top-ranked Ohio State to a 10-10 tie earlier Saturday. It will be the Trojans' sixth trip to Pasadena in eight years.

USC, a team plagued by mistakes all season, jelled Saturday in finally living up to its potential. The Trojans never turned over the football and cut their season-long rash of illegal formations to one.

Meanwhile, the Trojans played an emotional game on defense in holding UCLA, the nation's top running team, to 249 yards on the ground, a far cry from the Bruins' average of 415.4 per game.

More important, USC's hard-hitting defense helped cause six turnovers for the Bruins with two key plays late in the fourth quarter protecting the victory.

The second half was all field goals as the Trojans were able to keep the explosive Bruins away from the end zone.

After Efren Herrera's 27-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter cut the Trojan margin to 20-13, Bruin fans had great hopes. UCLA needed only a tie to earn the Rose Bowl berth.

It appeared that the momentum had changed after USC was forced to punt after three downs. A late call on a clipping penalty nullified John Sciarra's fine punt return but Sciarra was able to get the Bruins moving after taking over on their own 12.

UCLA drove to their 48 when Sciarra elected to pass on a second down play. USC freshman tackle Gary Jeter hit Sciarra as he was ready to throw to cause a fumble as defensive end Dale Mitchell recovered for Troy.

The Trojans couldn't generate any offense but Dave Boulware's punted out-of-bounds on the UCLA 10 to pin the Bruins deep in their territory with only 2:13 on the clock.

Cn the second down play, Sciarra was pressured by Mitchell and his pass was intercepted by Ted Roberson on the 20 to nail the coffin for UCLA's Rose Bowl hopes.

USC didn't worry about gaining any yardage. The big thing was using up the clock to set-up Chris Limahelu's 28-yard field goal which put the Trojans a safe 10 points ahead.

USC took the lead in the first quarter and never lost it as UCLA was forced to play catch-up.

The Trojans drove 68 yards on 15 plays on their first offensive series with Anthony Davis scoring from the four.

UCLA cut the margin to 7-3 when Herrera booted a 42-yard field goal late in the quarter but USC marched down the field again on an 80-yard drive on 12 plays with quarterback Pat Haden passing to his Bishop Amat buddy, John McKay, for 16 yards in the end zone for a 14-3 lead.

Bruin coach Pepper Rodgers decided to insert Sciarra for starting quarterback Mark Harmon and the Bruins immediately responded.

Thanks to a 39-yard run by Kermit Johnson, the Bruins showed their explosive nature in going 84 yards on nine plays with Johnson scoring from the third to cut the difference to 14-10.

It was then Davis' turn. The Trojan star brought the crowd to its feet by running 48 yards to put USC into UCLA territory again.

The Trojans settled for a 35-yard field goal by Limahelu to take a 17-10 lead at halftime.

Rams battle New Orleans again today

Channel 2, 11 a.m.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — When the Los Angeles Rams face the New Orleans Saints today, it will be a season return match, and according to past performances the Rams shouldn't have a chance of winning.

That the 8-2 Rams are leading the NFL Western Division has nothing to do with it. The Saints, with a season record of 4-6, are 4-1 in New Orleans and have three consecutive home wins.

Precedent is also against Los Angeles. The Rams won over the Saints 29-7 only two weeks back in Los Angeles, but the Rams have lost in New Orleans on the final scrimmage play of the game for the past two years.

Tom Myers was the only player to miss Friday's 90-minute workout for the optimistic Saints, watching from the sidelines with a sprained knee. Coach John North said if Myers could not start today, Jerry Moore would replace him as free safety.

Sitting it out will be quarterback Bob Davis; linebackers Willie Hall and Ray Hester; cornerback Nate Ramsey; offensive guard Paul Fersen and tight end Andy Dorris.

We can beat anybody if we put our minds to it," said North. Hell, we've proved that already, haven't we? We beat the Redskins and the Buffalo Bills.

We can beat the Rams if we do the things we did against those teams.

The Rams are a great team, they're strong at every position," the New Orleans coach admitted. To beat them, or any team in this league, you can't make mistakes, and you can't let down. You've got to be at your best."

We can't afford to make any mistakes and not take advantage of any they might give us. They are an excellently coached team and it will take our top effort to beat them," he concluded.

Lakers just do beat Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Gail Goodrich grabbed his own blocked shot and hit a jumper with 14 seconds left to help the Los Angeles Lakers down the Portland Trail Blazers 113-108 Saturday night in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers led 109-108 when Goodrich hit from outside with Geoff Petrie and Bernie Fryer guarding him.

Los Angeles held a 12-point lead at the start of the fourth quarter. But the Blazers, behind Sidney Wicks and Rick Robertston, charged back to tie the score at 105-105 with 1:47 remaining.

Portland, however, was never able to take the lead.

Happy Hairston ended the scoring by sinking two free throws with five seconds to go.

Goodrich hit 17 points in the third quarter as Los Angeles pulled away from a 54-54 halftime deadlock. He led all scorers with 33 points.

Wolverines Bowl-bound?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Ties usually don't settle anything, but both coaches felt the 10-10 deadlock Michigan and Ohio State played to Saturday decided which of them goes to the Rose Bowl.

"We had to win this one to go and we didn't," a surprisingly affable Woody Hayes, coach of Ohio State, said.

"If they vote to send Michigan, Michigan deserves to go," Coach Bo Schembechler of the Wolverines said. "Why? if you have to ask that question, you didn't see the game."

Michigan entered the game with a 10-0 record and a No. 4 ranking while Ohio State will not be ranked No. 1 next week with its 9-0-1 record.

The Big Ten athletic directors are being polled by telephone and the announcement of their vote will be made in Chicago at 1 p.m. (CST) Sunday.

If they deadlock, 5-5, that means Ohio State, since it went last, will be eliminated and Michigan will be declared the Rose Bowl representative.

Should Michigan go, it likely will have to play without its regular quarterback, junior Dennis Franklin, who scored the game-tying touchdown on a daring ten-yard dash on the fourth down in the fourth quarter but was hurt later in the game. He suffered what is believed to be a broken right collar bone which will require surgery.

"Oh no, for God's sakes no," Hayes said when he learned of the injury. "I thought he just had a shoulder separation. That's a shame, what a dirty shame. He won't be able to play in the Rose Bowl."

Two last-minute field goal attempts of 58 and 44 yards by Michigan's Mike Lantry had the distance but were wide to the left and then the right and so the national collegiate record crowd of 105,223 and the national television audience will not know until the Big Ten announces which of the two teams will go to the Rose Bowl at 11 a.m. PST today, when the vote is announced in Chicago.

Michigan, which entered the game a three-point underdog and finished with a 10-0-1 record, flubbed an excellent opportunity to win when Ohio State coach Woody Hayes inserted senior quarterback Greg Hare in place of soph Cornelius Greene to throw the first Buckeye pass of the game late in the fourth quarter only to see it intercepted.

Safety Tom Drake stepped in front of halfback Brian Baschnagel on the 42 of Ohio State and took it to the 33 with 52 seconds left in the game.

Senior quarterback Larry Cipa, who entered the game when junior Dennis Franklin suffered a shoulder injury on the previous drive, ran one play and threw an incomplete pass to stop the clock—but Lantry, who had only missed three of 10 field goals all year, was wide to the right and Hare got a chance to throw three more incomplete passes before the clock ran out.

Franklin had engineered the Wolverines from their own 11 to the Ohio State 49 with less than six minutes to play before his shoulder was hurt when he was hit after completing a pass to fullback Ed Shuttlesworth. Cipa gained eight more yards before Lantry missed his 58-yard field goal try.

Ohio State was held without a first down in the first quarter but sensational sophomore Archie Griffin set up a 31-yard field goal by Blair Conway with a 38-yard run on the first play of the third quarter as the Buckeyes took a 3-0 lead.

Griffin, who gained 163 yards to enhance his Heisman Trophy chances, also set up a five-yard TD run by freshman Pete Johnson with just 53 seconds left in the first half when he carried five times for 41 yards in a 55-yard drive. Johnson carried three Wolverines with him into the end zone to give the Buckeyes a 10-0 haltime advantage.

Franklin kept handing the ball off over center to Shuttlesworth at the start of the second half and that, with some key passes on second game interspersed, set up a 30-yard field goal by Lantry and the junior's own game-tying TD.

The Buckeyes, 9-0-1, and apparently deprived of their first national title since 1968, had stopped Franklin on the option play and Michigan abandoned it until Franklin faked to Shuttlesworth up the middle and swept right end untouched for the game-tying TD.

Coach Bo Schembechler went for the tying points by kick and disdained the try for two since the game still had nine minutes to play, his defense was working and his offense moving the ball.

Trojans played best, Bruins didn't

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The irresistable force (UCLA) turned out to be resistable after all while the immovable object remained largely immovable.

As a result, USC is Rose Bowl-bound while UCLA is armchair-bound. The two head coaches summed it up very aptly following USC's 23-13 win over UCLA Saturday afternoon in the packed Los Angeles Coliseum.

"The key to the game was everybody saying the other team was better," said Troy's John McKay in answer to a writer's question. "This was our best game and it was not their best game because of the fumbles (four, all recorvered by the Trojans)."

When questioned about what he thought was the reason for the Bruin turnovers (six including two pass interceptions), McKay paused then replied, "I've been eaten out all year for our turnovers, so I'd have to say just mistakes."

While a smiling McKay was surrounded by writers in the USC dressing room, a disappointed Pepper Rodgers slumped in a chair in the silent UCLA quarters.

It was so quiet you could have heard a football drop.

"All I can say is you've got to give the credit to McKay," Rodgers said quietly. "They just line up and tackle the guy with the ball."

Rodgers had prefaced his remarks by saying, "I won't make a statement, but I will answer questions. I don't feel worth a damn."

"We didn't play very well defensively especially in the first half," he continued. "The six turnovers were the big difference in the ball game. SC has a fine defense, but we couldn't move against Podunk with the interceptions and fumbles we had today."

UCLA players in the dressing room requested that there be no interviews, but a few writers managed to talk to some before the request was made known.

Sophomore quarterback John Sciarra, who moved the Bruins more impressively than senior Mark Harmon, paid tribute to the Trojans. Commenting on the fumles, one each by Sciarra, Kermit Johnson, James McAlister, and Russell Charles, Sciarra said, "probably anybody in the same situation would have fumbled because SC was really hitting."

The turnovers kept breaking the Bruins momentum in the second half. "We played better defense in the second half," agreed Rodgers. "It looked like we definitely got stronger and the game momentum could well have turned except for our turnovers."

USC quarterback Pat Haden was one of several Trojans who visited the UCLA dressing room to talk with the Bruins. Haden praised his line and the execution by the Trojans.

"The line was unbelievable," he enthused as writers crowded around him. "They were blowing their men out all over the field. We had practiced well all week. The difference (between Saturday's game and previous games) today was 100 percent concentration."

Haden admitted the Trojans took full advantage of their 17-10 halftime lead.

"After the half, we felt using up a lot of time was an important factor," he said. "We wanted to make some first downs and maintain good field position."

And a final round from the coaches:

Rodgers—"No, our fumbles didn't appear forced and we haven't fumbled that way all year. Considering our six errors, I thought it was a pretty close football game."

McKay—"We haven't been the only team in the country making mistakes. We just publicize it more. I believe the wishbone is a good formation, but no matter what anybody says, we stopped Oklahoma and have stopped the wishbone. Our offensive line was great. Haden was super, our receivers caught the ball when it was thrown to them, and, again, my coaching was outstanding."

Rangers rally to tie Kings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jean Ratelle scored his sixth career hat trick, notching the final two goals within a 2:37 span late in the final period, to rally the New York Rangers to a 5-5 tie with the Los Angeles Kings Saturday.

The Kings, riding a five-game losing streak, appeared ready to break a five-year winless drought in Madison Square Garden when they fought back from a 3-1 deficit with four consecutive goals to take a 5-3 lead late in the game.

Vic Venasky scored two goals and assisted on another for Los Angeles while Bruce MacGregor had a pair of goals for the Rangers.

Curtain raises on Supernationals—act two

ONTARIO — The curtain goes up on act two, the finale, of the National Hot Rod Association's $177,000 Supernationals of drag racing today at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Heavy rains, which hit Southern California this past weekend, washed out last Sunday's finals, but not before the fastest fuel dragster field in history was established with two record-shattering qualifying sessions that set the stage for what promises to be one of the most exciting days in the sport's history.

The 64-car field, including the 16 lowest elapsed time qualifiers in four separate categories, is headed by veteran Don Garlits of Seffner, Fla., who vitually set the OMS quarter-mile ablaze Friday with a record 5.803 second performance that erased Don Moody's 1972 track mark of 5.91. Garlits also turned in the fastest speed ever recorded by a fuel dragster, at 247.25 mph.

Three other drivers also qualified in the magic five-second bracket, bringing to eight the number of men officially credited with covering the quarter-mile in less than six seconds.

Heading the latter list is 17-year old John Stewart of Sacramento, a high school student who surprised everyone Friday with his 5.923 clocking that gave him second place in the qualifying order behind the 42-year old Garlits. Stewart, who received his competition license only last January, defeated the popular Florida driver in his very first race.

Joining Stewart and Garlits in the five-second qualifying order were Dan Richins of Salt Lake City with a 5.932 clocking and veteran Larry Dixon of North Hollywood who was timed in 5.944 seconds. Their closest pursuer in the lineup is 20-year old Randy Allison of Vista, Calif., who holds the number five spot with a 6.045 effort at 226.70 mph.

Other record-setting performances were turned in by Funny Car veteran Don Prudhomme and motorcycle expert T. C. Christensen of Kenosha, Wis. Prudhomme, in a plastic-bodied Barracuda, tripped the timers in 6.169 seconds to become the first Funny Car driver to record a run in the teens. The time will count as a new National record if the Granada Hills driver is successful in backing it up with a second run Sunday, within one percent of the 6.13.

Christensen, who led the field of eight fuel-burning bikes, did back up his 8.451 clocking Friday and now is the official record holder for his class.

The two remaining categories of pro stock and pro comp are led by Wayne Gapp and Ken Veney. Gapp, of Birmingham, Mich., drove a Pinto to an 8.905 clocking to lead his Pro Stock competitors while Veney, of Torrance, recorded a 7.049 with his injected Funny Car.

Today's finals are scheduled to get underway at noon with the first round of eliminations. OMS gates will open at 9 a.m. with warm-up time trials set for 10 a.m. NHRA officals have announced that all spectators holding tickets from last Sunday will be admitted this week upon presentation of their ticket stubs at the gates.

The Panthers, now 1-1 on the young season, saw their lead disappear with 1:16 left in the game on John Gonce's bucket. The Moorpark guard then watched his backcourt mate, Jim McGlamary, score a two-pointer to up the lead to 79-76.

Chaffey's Bob Kovach, who led all scorers with 29 points and 11 rebounds, pulled the Panthers to within one with a basket. Moorpark then ate up the remaining eight seconds on the clock and settle for the one point win.

SLO rips 49ers, denied playoffs

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Chris Smeland returned a Long Beach State punt 82 yards for a touchdown in the first period Saturday to spark 10th-ranked small college Cal Poly San Luis Obispo to a 31-7 victory in the season finale for both teams.

The win gave Cal Poly a 9-1 record, but the Mustangs were denied a chance at NCAA post-season play by Boise State's 32-31 victory over UC Davis earlier Saturday. Boise State will advance to the NCAA college division II playoffs.

Owls top MSAC, 83-74

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT —Veteran guard Roy Hickman led Citrus College in a second half comeback that clipped Mt. San Antonio College, 88-74, Saturday night at MSAC.

Hickman canned 35 points—17 in the second half—as the Owls overcame a 46-39 halftime deficit.

The Mounties had led by as much as 12 points in the first 20 minutes, as center Gary Nash and guard Steve Arthur poured in 24 points between them.

But 58 per cent shooting in the first half cooled off to only 35 in the second, and the Owls took advantage of that and numerous turnovers to overtake coach Gene Victor's team.

It was the second loss in a row for the Mounties, who opened basketball season 1973-74 with a victory over the alumni Wednesday. The win evened the Owls' record at 1-1. They dropped a 94-62 decision to East L. A. Friday night.

MSAC returns to action Tuesday by hosting L. A. Southwest. Citrus won't play again until it hosts the opening round of the Don Edwards Memorial Tournament next Thursday.

Both teams appeared to have the potential Saturday to produce a better than average season.

Besides Hickman, the Owls got double figure performances from forward Roland Allbright (13 points) and center Tim Conklin (12 points). Allbright pulled down nine rebounds, while Hickman and forward Ordale Newkirk each had seven.

For the Mounties, Nash led with 19 points and Arthur added 18. Nash has scored 73 points in three games. The 6-foot-10 center led the rebounders with 12 Saturday. He pulled down 14 in a 75-53 loss to Glendale Friday night.

Mountie forwards Steve Funk and Dan Carroll had 10 and 11 points, respectively, Carroll grabbed 11 rebounds and Funk had eight.

Sagehens tumble, 4-3

ST. LOUIS, MO. — Goshen College of Indiana edged Pomona-Pitzer 4-3 in the rain and mud Saturday in the consolation championship of the 15th Annual NAIA National Soccer Championships.

The Sagehens at one time held a 3-1 lead, but Goshen tied the score at 3-3 and regulation play ended with the score knotted.

Instead of the usual five-minute overtime, the officials, apparently feeling the downpour and rain-soaked field were too bad for further play, decided to have a goal-kicking competition and Goshen was the first to kick a goal.

Pomona-Pitzer thus winds up the season with a 16-3 mark overall and a sixth place finish in the national tournament.

College football roundup

Stanford rally beats Cal

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Ron Inge and Scott Laidlaw scored touchdowns five minutes apart late in the game Saturday to give Stanford a 26-17 victory over California as the Cardinals capitalized on four mistakes for all but six of their points.

Stanford, finishing the season with a 5-2 record in the Pacific-8 Conference and 7-4 overall, scored a touchdown and two field goals on California turnovers. The Cards added what proved to be the winning score following a 20-yard punt by Steve Bartkowski of Cal.

The Golden Bears, 13-point underdogs, took a 17-13 lead in the second minute of the fourth quarter when quarterback Vince Ferragamo went a yard after Bartkowski set things up with a 56-yard pass to Wesley Walker.

On the following kickoff, Stanford failed to move the ball but buried California deep in its own end after a long punt by Dave Ottmar. On fourth down, Bartkowski, punting from his own end zone, got the ball out only as far as the 29 and four plays later Inge skirted left end for a 20-17 lead for the Cards.

Five minutes later, Laidlaw swept right end from 10 yards out for Stanford's final points.

Cougars romp

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State fullback Andrew Jones ran for three touchdowns and quarterback Chuck Peck passed for two Saturday as the Cougars clobbered Washington 52-26 and left the Huskies without a Pacific-8 Conference victory for the first time in history.

The WSU defense held Washington to a minus 11 yards on the ground and the pass defense relaxed only briefly in the third period.

Vols survive

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Fullback Bill Rudder exploded for a 60-yard touchdown run in the third quarter and the Tennessee defense weathered a Kentucky rally to beat the Wildcats for the ninth straight year, 16-14, Saturday.

With quarterback Mike Fanuzzi scrambling, the Wildcats drove 74 yards only to have Ron Steele miss a 35-yard field goal with 19 seconds to play in Kentucky's late bid to end the Tennessee jinx. The Wildcat junior quarterback outgained Tennessee's Condredge Holoway 160 yards rushing to 20.

Penn St. rallies

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Tailback John Cappelletti's five-yard touchdown run triggered a 24-point Penn State rally in the fourth period Saturday that gave the Orange Bowl-bound Nittany Lions a 35-13 victory over cross-state rival Pittsburgh and an unbeaten regular season.

Linebacker Tom Hull ran 27 yards with an intercepted pass for another of Penn State's fourth-period touchdowns; flanker Chuck Herd caught a 32-yard pass from Tom Shuman for another score and Chris Bahr kicked a 45-yard field goal —his second of the game—to turn an otherwise tight game into a rout.

Kansas comes back

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — David Jaynes twice fired 14-yard touchdown passes in the fourth quarter, the first to Bruce Adams and the second to Emmett Edwards with 1:37 to play Saturday, and freshman Mike Love kicked the winning extra points, lifting Liberty Bowl-bound Kansas to a comeback 14-13 victory over Sun Bowl-bound Missouri.

The final touchdown came on a fourth-down play, capping a 42-yard drive that began with 4:17 left. Jaynes dropped straight back and pegged a perfect strike to Edwards, the Big Eight's leading pass receiver who made a diving catch with Missouri's John Mosley hanging all over him at the goal line.

Tulsa falls

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Wichita State used Fred Speck's running and a strong second half defense to give Tulsa its first Missouri Valley Conference loss of the season, 28-19, Saturday.

It left the Hurricanes tied with North Texas State for the conference crown at 5-1 and finished 7-4 overall. Wichita State finished with two league victories in six tries and a 4-7 season record.

Tulane tripped

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Tailback Louis Carter passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more to power Peach Bowl-bound Maryland to a 42-9 victory over 16th-ranked Tulane Saturday.

Carter scored on one and four yard runs and threw touchdown passes of 32 and 44 yards on option plays. Starting quarterback Ben Kinard threw a 57yard touchdown pass and substitute Al Neville threw a 57-yard touchdown the Maryland scoring.

Purdue wins

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Bo Bobrowski ran for two touchdowns and freshman tailback Scott Dierking scored the clincher Saturday as Purdue beat Indiana, 28-23, to retain the "Old Oaken Bucket," emblematic of their state football rivalry.

The Boilermakers closed the season with a 4-4 Big Ten record and 5-6 overall. Indiana finished winless in eight conference games and 2-9 overall. Junior fullback Dennis Cremeens scored all three touchdowns for Indiana.

Yale rolls

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Yale's reserve quarterback Kevin Rogan, starting his first varsity game, dashed Harvard's Ivy League title hopes Saturday by directing the spirited Elis to a 35-0 romp over Harvard.

Harvard's defeat in this 90th resumption of "The Game" combined with Dartmouth's triumph over Princeton, left the defending champion Big Green atop the Ivy League with a 6-1 mark and dropped Harvard into a second place tie with Yale and Penn at 5-2.

It was Yale's most decisive victory over Harvard since a 54-0 win in 1957.

Ole Miss triumphs

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Tailback Larry Kramer drove for three touchdowns Saturday to boost the Ole Miss Rebels to a 38-10 triumph over fumble-plagued Mississippi State in the season's finale for both teams.

The hard-running Kramer, a 190-pound junior, scored twice in the first half on runs of one and eight yards and smashed over from the two in the fourth quarter as the favored Rebels posted their sixth victory against five defeats.

USC downs UCLA for Bowl berth

USC made it 20-10 with 2:34 left in the third quarter on Limahelu's 32-yard three-pointer. The score came after Trojan tackle Art Riley recovered James McAlister's fumble on the UCLA 47.

Another fumble seconds later wiped up great field position for the Bruins. After Johnson returned the kickoff 51 yards, Russell Charles lost the ball on the Trojan 33 to keep the Bruins frustrated.

UCLA ended up with 331 net yards to out gain the Trojans' 316. Sciarra and Harmon combined to completed five of 10 passes for 82 yards while USC quarterback Haden hit on eight—all in the first half—of 15 for 94 yards.

Johnson completed his brilliant UCLA career by rushing for 107 yards on 17 carries, an average of 6.3 per play, while McAlister added 100 on 23 plays.

Davis, voted the game's top offensive player, enjoyed his second 1,000-yard season as he ran for 145 on 27 carries in his best performance of the season.

Neither USC's Allen Carter or UCLA's Charlie Schuhmann, the former Bonita High teammates, carried the ball Saturday.

USC nose guard Monte Doris earned defensive game honors as he led the tough Trojan defense with 11 tackles and seven assists.

It's not much consolation for UCLA but the Bruins did break the Pac-8 season total offense record by finishing 1973 with 5,177 total yards to surpass USC's record set in 1970.

UCLA, which had won nine straight by huge margins after the opening loss to Nebraska, will now think about 1974 while the Trojans smell Roses.

But UCLA fans can start cheering their tremendous basketball champions next week.

Zorn leads Broncos to win over USIU in season finale

SAN DIEGO — Quarterback Jim Zorn threw for a pair of touchdowns, to Ron Tatum, and ran 40 yards for another score Saturday afternoon to lead Cal Poly to a 35-29 win over United States International University (USIU) in the season finale for both teams at Balboa Stadium.

Zorn, the nation's total offense leader, amassed 405 yards running and passing. The southpaw completed 17 of 28 passes for 332 yards and rushed for 73 yards on 15 carries.

The Westerners rallied from a 28-7 halftime deficit to draw to within a touchdown, 28-21, midway through the fourth quarter.

The Broncs put the game on ice as Zorn scampered 40-yards to give Poly a 14 point cushion.

USIU's Collie Cann scored on a four yard run in the waning minutes of the game to pull the Westerners to their final 35-29 deficit. Cann finished the day with 93 yards on 12 rushes and scored twice.

Poly scored a pair of touchdowns in the first period on Zorn's 23-yard TD pass to Tatum and fullback Greg Cruz' 28-yard run. Cann's three yard run in the second period cut the deficit to 14-7.

The Broncs bounced back with another pair of scores on a 71-yard scoring strike from Zorn to Tatum and Cruz' one yard TD blast. Tatum had his finest performance of the season with 161 yards on six catches.

Flanker Joe Fabian didn't account for any scoring but hauled down four passes for 91 yards to run his season's output to 1,042 yards on 54 catches and five TD's. Cruz closed out his Cal Poly career with 75 yards on 16 rushes.

Cruz' output runs his season's stats to 722 yards and his three-year totals to 1,667 yards, a new career rushing mark. The old mark was held by Tim Hackworth who netted 1,646 yards from 1965-67.

Zorn's 405 yards total offense give him a new California Collegiate Athletic Association record, 3,000 yards. The old mark was 2,700 set in 1968 by John Erdhaus of Cal State Los Angeles.

U.S. duo still ahead

MARBELLA, Spain (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus called his performance "lousy" and Johnny Miller said his was "atrocious," but the two combined for a 145 Saturday to enable the United States to maintain a three-stroke lead over a resurgent South African team after the third round of the World Cup golf competition.

In addition, both Nicklaus and Miller moved into a tie with Lu Lian-Huan of Taiwan for individual honors with totals of 210.

Hugh Baiocchi scored a three-under-par 69 and Gary Player had a 70 to enable South Africa to move up from fourth place into second at 423 with only one round to play on Sunday.

Both Nicklaus and Miller failed to break par for the tricky, 6,905-yard Nueva Andalucia course, shooting a 73 and a 72 respectively to bring their 54-hole total to a 12-under-par 420.

Miller's 72 came just one day after he set a record of 65 for the par-72 course, and neither he nor Nicklaus could give an explanation for their scores.

The South Africans were seven under par and only one stroke behind the United States after nine holes Saturday. But then came what Player called the "drama at the 11th hole," where Baiocchi took a penalty drop for a double bogey and Player, upset after an argument with course officials, bogied the hole.

Player's three-round total was 211 and Baiocchi's 212.

Taiwan's defending champions, Hsieh Min-Nan and Lu, scored a 68 and a 74 respectively to retain third place with a total of 425.

Argentine veterans Roberto de Vicenzo, 50, and Fidel de Luca, 51, who had led the field of 49 teams after the first round, dropped from second to fourth place when de Vicenzo shot a 75 and de Luca a 77 for a total of 432.

The Japanese, Spanish, Thailand and Puerto Rican teams, which had held fifth through eighth places after two rounds, failed to produce scores even approaching par and all dropped far behind the leading teams.

Most of the third-round golfing was as dull as the weather, with Hsieh's 68, Baiocchi's 69 and another 69 by Randall Vines of Australia the only outstanding results. Both Baiocchi and Vines eagled the 505-yard, par-five third hole, each hitting to within 25 feet of the pin with a three-iron and then holing the putt.

Miller said he thought the many bad results were caused by the tricky greens.

"You never get a flat putt here, you never get an easy putt," he said. "The course is okay, it's just the greens."

Nicklaus said, "I played lousy. Neither Johnny nor I played as good as we can. But I played worse."

The 11th hole, which cost South Africa three strokes, is a difficult 210-yard par three, with water enclosing the left of the green.

Baiocchi drove into the water, and taking a penalty drop twice dropped the ball, which rolled back into the water each time. After two drops like this, a player must place his ball on the spot where the second drop landed before it rolled into the water.

There was some discussion about this, since Player thought it could be placed within two club-lengths of the drop spot. Finally, Baiocchi chipped out and took two putts for a double-bogey five. Player, visibly upset, three-putted for a bogey four.

Dolphins post win in Empire Bowl

ARCATA — The Pomona Dolphins defeated the Hoopa Braves, 12-0, Saturday afternoon in the 4th Annual Redwood Empire Bowl at Humboldt State College.

The Dolphins went through the Mt. Baldy regular season unbeaten in nine outings only to lose to the Fontana Bucks in the Championship Bowl, 12-6 last week.

The Braves are from the Hoopa Indian Reservation, approximately 50 miles east of Eureka.

The two midget league teams (ages 11 to 13) played to a scoreless standstill through the first half in light rain and on an extremely sloppy field.

The Dolphins broke into the scoring column early in the third quarter.

Pat Munford returned a kickoff 60 yards to the Brave four yard line. Two plays later, Benny Gooden scored from the one foot line. The run for the two point conversion failed.

In the fourth period, Pomona's Craig Parm recovered a Brave fumble inside the Hoopa two yard line. Gooden carried the ball over the goal line on the next play to extend Pomona's lead to 12-0. The extra point kick was blocked.

In a game played Friday, the Fontana Bucks and the McKinleyville Wildcats battled to a 14-14 tie.

Both Pomona and Fontana will arrive at Ontario International Airport today at 1:45 p.m.

APCs Swift finishes first

BLOOMFIELD, Colo. — Azusa Pacific College All-American walker Carl Wfit finished first for the United States in the 20-kilometer walk in a race against Canada Saturday.

Swift, a junior and the first Cougar athlete to be selected to represent the United States in international competition, finished the walk with a time of 1:42:23.3. Jim Bean of Oregon College was second in 1:44:26.7, while Canadian Roman Olszewski was third in 1:48:15.4.

Pack and 49ers on local TV

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Monday night's San Francisco 49er-Green Bay Packers football game was sold out Friday and will be shown locally on television.

A 49er spokesman said restaurant owner Joe Betz purchased the final 94 tickets just before the deadline to assure the sellout. Betz, who paid $799 for the tickets, said he would distribute them to youths under 18.

Tee to cup

Winners of Gene Littler's Golf Inns of America tournament series will compete in an 18-hole championship playoff on next Sunday for the Carbonite Cup and a purse $2,500

Carbonite Corporation, an El Cajon firm that produces carbon graphite golf shafts, is sponsoring the playoff that will determine the top players of the fall secondary tour.

Winner of the Carbonite Cup will receive $1,500.

Robert Basso, president of Carbonite, said that eight players will participate in the medal play competition, which will be held at the Whispering Palms Country Club in Rancho Santa Fe.

Winners of the eight Golf Inns of America tournaments automatically qualify for the Carbonite Cup. Should there be fewer than eight winners available, the field will be completed by selection of the leading money winners in the Golf Inns events.

The tournament series began Oct. 17 and the eighth and final event will conclude Dec. 1. Each 54-hole tournament has a minimum purse of $30,000.

"I am grateful that Carbonite's participation has made it possible to conclude the series in this way," Ted Vallas, president of Golf Inns of America said. "There should be an overall winner, a champion of the fall tour. And now we're going to have one."

Winners of the first four Golf Inns events and who qualify for the Carbonite Cup playoff are Bill Brask, San Diego; Jeff Van Wagenen, Phoenix; Terry Florence, Charlotte, N. C.; and Steve Bogan, Yorba Linda, California.

THE DIAMOND BAR WOMEN'S Golf Club concluded this year's annual Presidents Cup Tournament recently.

Ella Wiley won the Presidents Cup and the Medallion Award. Second place was won by Sally Millar. Peg McAllister won the Vice-presidents Cup with Lois East coming in second.

Shelby Myers finished first in the A flight of the Low Net tournament. Mary Ellen Finnigan was second. Vicky Tauscher and Carol Steck finished one-two in B flight competition, while Anna Dietrich and Rita Le Roy finished one-two in C flight.

GUS GRETERMAN defeated Bob Smirl in a playoff to win the 1973 Via Verde Country Club President's Cup tournament.

Greterman had won the first flight with a 208, earning the right to meet Smirl, the second flight winner at 214, in the finale. Greterman took a four-stroke victory over Smirl in the playoff.

Second in the first flight was Bob Sennett at 217, while Harry Brown and Ed Berryman tied for the runnerup spot in the second flight with 223s.

Eloise Cutler won the Via Verde Ladies President's Cup, edging Gladys Fischer.

Barbara Brode captured the Vice President's Cup, and Irene Hall was second in that flight.

RESULTS OF RECENT Palm Lakes Women's Club Tournament saw Joan Eggington (25; and Della McCuiston (28½) placing one-two in the ONES event. Marie Muchmore and Lillian Keniston tied at 49 for first place in the choice score tourney, while Vern Perrin, Mrs. Eggington and Pat Jones tied at 52 for second place. Mrs. Eggington won the match par event with a 59. Bea Jones and Mrs. Muchmore were second, tied at 64.

Schedules vital for playoff berths

By United Press International

It's getting down to that point in the pro football season when it's not how you play but who play that counts.

As the teams battle for the final six playoff spots — Minnesota and Miami have already clinched—the teams with the softer schedule have a definite advantage.

That's why the Cleveland Browns face such a critical test today when they host the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Browns, who got the wild card spot in the AFC, would like to do the same thing this season if they can't beat out the Steelers for the AFC Central crown.

After the Pittsburgh game, the Browns close the season against Kansas City, Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

If the Browns don't beat the Steelers, their chances of eating out the Steelers for first place will be almost nil. That means they'll have to beat out Cincinnati or the second place team in the AFC West for the wild card berth.

And Cincinnati would probably have a definite edge in the struggle if Cleveland loses to Pittsburgh. The Bengals meet St. Louis this Sunday and close out their season against Houston. Cincinnati is figured to win those two.

Besides the game with Cleveland, the Bengals also play a Minnesota team that may or may not be interested in the game—since the Vikings have already clinched but lost their perfect record.

Cleveland is 6-3-1 while Cincinnati is 6-4. Pittsburgh leads the division at 8-2.

The Pittsburgh game is such a critical one for the the Browns that the 80,000 seat Cleveland stadium has been sold out and it will be televised locally in Cleveland.

Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll took his Steelers for secret practice this week so the team could prepare for a game on a grass field.

"It's easier for the players to concentrate when there are no crowds around," he said.

The Steelers won eight of their first nine games before they were upset by Denver last Sunday. "Denver made things happen and we didn't. They blocked very well and their ball carriers did a great job of breaking tackles,"

Pittsburgh won the first game this year 33-6 between these two teams but Cleveland has improved and upset Oakland 7-3 last week.

And Cleveland coach Nick Skorich is certain this meeting with the Steelers will be much closer. "Considering past games between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, you could probably toss out the record book. Don't depend on the odds," he said.

The oddsmakers figure Cleveland is a three-point choice.

In the other games, Atlanta is at the New York Jets, Buffalo is at Baltimore, Chicago is at Minnesota, Kansas City is at Denver, Los Angeles is at New Orleans, New England is at Houston, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia, Oakland is at San Diego and St. Louis is at Cincinnati.

Denver gets a chance to show it is for real when it faces Kansas City in an AFC West showdown. The Browns are in second place with a 5-3-2 mark while Kansas City is first at 6-3-1. Oakland, which is third at 5-4-1, has a good opportunity to gain ground on the KC-Denver loser when it meets San Diego. Oakland has lost two straight games at home to Pittsburgh and Cleveland but the Raiders should bounce back on the road.

Los Angeles, which has an 8-2 record, is expected to stay on top of the NFC West with its second victory over New Orleans in three weeks. The Saints have lost two straight.

But Atlanta, which is 7-3, is expected to keep its wild card hopes bright with a triumph over the New York Jets.

However, with Joe Namath back in the lineup, the Jets could have a shot at pulling off an upset. The Jets are fourpoint underdogs.

Namath came off the bench in the last five minutes against Cincinnati last week and came within six inches of pulling off a triumph. In fact, the Jets think Namath got them into the end zone—but the officials disagreed.

Atlanta is expected to have a letdown, too, after its emotional victory Monday night over the Minnesota Vikings.

N.C. State challenges UCLA

NEW YORK (UPI) — It will probably be another year before the college basketball season takes on a different light, but there's a chance, albeit a slim one, that this season might provide something different.

For the last seven years UCLA, which opens defense of its NCAA title Friday night against Arkansas, has dominated the college basketball scene like it has never been dominated before, and with Coach John Wooden and the Walton Gang returning for another year it appears likely that the Bruins' reign of terror will continue.

However, this year the Bruins might find a possible challenger to their throne in the presence of North Carolina State, which went undefeated last year but was on probation and did not get a chance to meet the Bruins in a showdown.

This year the Wolfpack won't have to wait until the NCAA tournament to get a crack at the Bruins. The two teams have scheduled a game for Dec. 15 at a neutral court—the St. Louis Arena—and so the season will be only two weeks old before we know if this season is going to be any different than the last seven.

UCLA, which has won 75 games in a row including seven straight NCAA tournaments, has made an effort to beef up its schedule this year. Besides North Carolina State, the Bruins will take on other national powers such as Maryland, San Francisco and Notre Dame twice.

The Bruins lost a couple of starters from last year's squad, but they probably have enough overall talent returning to make a good showing in the NBA. Back from last year are 6-11 Bill Walton, college basketball's player of the year the past two seasons, and veterans Keith Wilkes, Tommy Curtis, Greg Lee and Dave Meyers.

Also joining the Bruins this year are hotshot guard Andre McCarter, a redshirt last season, and freshman Richard Washington, one of the most sought after high school players in the nation.

North Carolina State, which is probably the only team that can even test the Bruins, is also loaded. The Wolfpack returns All-America David Thompson, 7-4 center Tom Burleson and guard Monte Towe from last year's squad and Coach Norman Sloan feels this season's club will be as strong as last year's.

East—Providence and Syracuse figure to be the best teams. Providence, which made it to the final four in the NCAA tournament a year ago, returns Marvin Barnes and Kevin Stacom from that club while Syracuse has three starters returning from last year's NCAA tourney team, including guard Dennis Duval.

South—Exciting races are predicted for both the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Southeastern Conference. North Carolina State will battle it out with Maryland and North Carolina for the ACC title while Tennessee, Alabama, Vanderbilt and Kentucky are the SEC contenders. Jacksonville and South Carolina loom as the best among the independents.

Midwest—The State of Indiana will provide the strongest teams. Indiana University, a semifinalist in last year's NCAA tournament, is the favorite to win the Big Ten Conference with Purdue expected to provide the strongest challenge. Notre Dame, however, should be the strongest team overall in the area. The Irish return all five starters from last year's NIT Runnerup Club.

Midlands — Oklahoma and Kansas State should fight it out for the Big Eight title while Tulsa, with Willie Biles back for another year, is the favorite in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Southwest—Houston lost three starters from last year 23-4 team, but the Cougars have enough height and talent to have another 20-victory season. Texas Tech and Southern Methodist loom as co-favorites for the Southwest Conference crown.

Rockies—Arizona State and Arizona are the best of the Western Athletic Conference clubs, with Denver isted as the best of the area's independents. Denver returns three starters from last year's 17-9 squad.

Far West—Stanford and Oregon will probably fight it out for the No. 2 spot in the Pacific Eight behind UCLA. San Francisco is the favorite to take the West Coast Athletic Conference, with Nevada-Las Vegas providing some surprising competition, and Long Beach State figures to repeat as Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ.

Garcia builds unbeaten string

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Renato Garcia, 156½, of Santiago, Chile, ran his unbeaten string to 20 Friday night, taking a 10-round split decision over David Love, 156¾, of San Diego.

Love set the pace with a jolting left jab in the first six rounds, trying to move away from Garcia's powerful punches.

Garcia almost scored a knockout in the seventh round when he put Love down twice with right hand shots to the head. Love managed to escape the round, and Garcia won the final rounds.

Referee Fred Hayes and Judge George Latka both had it 6-5 for Garcia, while judge Frank Rustich had it even at 55.

Love is now 20-5.

Erma Bombeck

As soon as my children were born they started a genetic scoreboard.

From their father they figured they inherited wisdom, high I.Q., patience, understanding, tolerance and integrity.

Under mother, the boys listed, "Short, stubby legs" and my daughter has "Long torso and gangly arms."

"Look, kids," I explained, "just think. If I had had a real sense of humor, one of you could have been King Kong."

"That's not funny!" they said, and stalked out of the room on their short, stubby legs, flinging their long gangly arms behind them.

It makes me wonder if any child is happy with his height. When they are toddlers and banging their heads under coffee tables, they can't wait to grow. Then there's the day in about the sixth grade when your daughter comes to you and says, "I want to quit growing."

"Whatya mean you want to quit growing?"

"I mean I'm too tall now. Do you know what it's like to have to always stand in the back row when class pictures are being taken? To never have a winter coat that covers your wrist bone? To have a boy ask you to get his hat down from the top of the locker? What boy is going to look at a girl who can stuff a basketball?"

"What do you want me to do about it?"

"It's all your fault," she says, and stomps out of the room.

Right on her heels come your sons who grumble, "When am I going to start growing? You promised me that I'd start in the eighth grade and here I am the 26th shortest in the class."

"That's not so bad."

"The first 25 are girls."

"It's just something in the genes," I said.

"Then they shouldn't let short people with genes get married."

By the time your daughter is a senior and the boys have surpassed her in height, she approaches you and charges, "When am I going to start growing again? They don't make neat clothes for short girls. Everything you put on makes you look dumpy. All the neat models are tall, but not me, I got stuck with 'your' short, stubby legs."

And the boys complain, "When am I going to stop growing? I bought a new pair of pants last week with my own money and already they look like flood pants (over the ankle). And if I get sleeves to fit me I have to pay extra. You and your long, gangly arms."

"You'll have to keep doing it until you get it right," smiled my husband.

Under his genetic scoreboard, I chalked in, "Dominant Smart-Mouth Gene."

Students building 50 m.p.g. 'dream car'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — An automobile that gets 50 miles to the gallon at 50 miles an hour in these days of fuel shortages not only would be classed as a "dream car" but also as a "dreamer's car."

Well, put down the pipe. Watch General Motors. "Bug" builders of Germany beware.

Students at Western Washington State College are mighty close to getting such a show on the road.

The young men and women in the school's technology department are putting together a vehicle named Viking II that may turn out to be a working model of the urban car of the near future.

The kids and their profs are not new to this business. They've already turned out Viking I which won several national design awards last year and accounted for a handful of patents pending in Washington, D.C.

Michael Seal, an associate professor of technology, is in charge of coordinating the construction of Viking II. He says the prospects for success are very good.

"It's out of the planning stage and into the building stage, although we are making some changes as we go along," he said. "The frame now looks like a birdcage. Shortly, we will be testing it out in the University of Washington wind tunnel to measure it's drag."

Seal, who used to build race cars in his hometown of Vancouver, B.C., said the Viking II will weigh about 800 pounds, 150 pounds less than its predecessor. A Volkswagen "bug" weighs about 2,200 pounds.

"We expect to get better than 50 miles to the gallon," he said, explaining that the Viking II will be fueled by propane gas.

"With modification the engine should be capable of 100 miles an hour with good mileage. But it won't be as good as 50 miles to the gallon available at slower speeds, say 50 miles an hour.

"With the price of fuel what it is today, any vehicle that can get that kind of mileage with gasoline would be economical. With propane it should be much more economical."

He said Viking II will have a low exhaust emission and good performance using a fourcylinder stock 80-horsepower, 1,300 cubic centimeter Subaru Japanese engine, which, incidentally, was donated to the project.

The vehicle's sleek construction and light weight will cut down wind resistence, thus attributing to fuel economy.

The students building the car will get classroom credit for their work, including credits for directed research in such studies as power mechanics, plastics, woodworking, metalurgy, graphics and electronics.

Western Washington has challenged other schools, including UCLA, where another experimental car currently is under construction, to a border-to-border road race

Laguna fire won't repeat, say rangers

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Three years later there is confidence that never again will the Cleveland National Forest feel the fury brought by the infamous Laguna fire of September, 1970.

The blaze —the largest brush fire ever in california—burned for eight days, charring 200,000 acres of forest and brushland. Three persons died.

"I'll never forget the day I flew over the burning area in a helicopter," Descanso district forest ranger Tom Grigery recalled. "It sort of tears you up. After two hours, I told the pilot to turn around. I'd had enough.

"It kind of takes a part of your life away," Grigery remembered as he stood on a charred and barren hillside where trees had once thrived. "You know you can't redo and replant what was there in the time you have on this earth."

In an effort to recreate the forest destroyed by the fire, 37,000 seedlings were planted by the forest service and volunteers. Half died within a year and had to be replaced.

"The first year there wasn't enough moisture, and then the Santa Ana dry winter winds came. We don't have a maintenance program once the seedlings are in the ground. To water 50,000 pines isn't easy."

Practically speaking, though, the forest service doesn't expect or want all the seedlings to survive.

"If every tree we planted survived, you wouldn't be able to walk through them," said the ranger.

Grigery said his men consider their gardening successful if 90 per cent of the seedlings live. Even at that, it will be at least 10 years before any of the new trees reach a height of even 15 feet.

"When you get down to it," Grigery said, "the fire was easy compared to all the work that followed it."

Most of the work consisted of planting seedlings and creating fire breaks by clearing away brush.

Grigery said the breaks are planted in light grass which is suitable for wildlife and blends in with the hillsides.

He said fire on the breaks was easy to control, and the breaks additionally provided swift access to denser fire areas for firemen.

There could be another fire, but not like Laguna.

"Maybe a 10,000 to 30,000 acre fire, but nothing as large as Laguna," says Grigery.

In addition to site work there has been a doubling of staff, meaning more manpower can get to fires faster than in the past.

Grigery said he is pleased with progress since the fire, but he adds that more money and more time are needed to make the forest safe.

And even Grigery is first to admit that even with unlimited resources, the danger of fire in Southern California's national forests will always be there.

English burglar real gentleman

CHELTENHAM, England (UPI) — The burglar behaved like a perfect gentleman when Mrs. Jean Skidmore found him robbing her house."

"Where do you suggest I wait. Madam?" he asked as she telephoned the police, a court heard in recent testimony.

Then he waited for the police to arrive and showed them where he had hidden $225 worth of Mrs. Skidmore's property, according to testimony.

Bacchanalia slated Saturday

Webster's Dictionary describes a Bacchanalia as "A Roman festival celebrated with dancing, singing and revelry" but the Women's Auxiliary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, District 14, labels its third annual Bacchanalia as "a major fund-raising effort to provide scholarships for youths seeking careers in medical and paramedical fields."

However, the Saturday event will live up to its title, with gourmet food, dancing, games and entertainment from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. in McConnell Center, Pitzer College, Claremont.

Following an Oriental rather than Roman theme, the motif this year is "The Golden Dragon." Jack Mayo's band will provide music for dancing and the Gourmet Caterers from Pasadena will serve the 8 p.m. dinner.

Through the efforts of the annual fete, scholarships will be available to young people from the Greater Pomona Valley. The medical association auxiliary hopes that these youngsters, once educated, will return to the area to help alleviate the critical need for professionals in the various health fields.

Last year's Bacchanalia provided scholarship for eight students.

Mrs. Robert W. Dukes is auxiliary president and Mrs. Calvin Chamberlain is president-elect. Program cochairmen are Mrs. Burton Sandberg and Mrs. Jay Palmer. Mrs. Marc Leventhal, as auxiliary ways and means chairman, is in charge of the gala party.

Serving on the Bacchanalia committee are Mrs. Sandberg, and Mrs. Donald Cox, costumes; Mrs. Maxwell Fonda and Mrs. James Beasom, cashiers; Mrs. Robert Allen, bar girls; Mrs. Walter McCleery and Mrs. Donald Moehring, decorations; Mrs. Roger Ellison and Mrs. Richard Davis, dealers; Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Leventhal, reservations; and Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Moser, script.

SCHOLAR GREETED

Miss Rosemary Rangel, 20, who attends Mt. San Antonio College on a prenursing scholarship from District 14, Woman's Auxiliary, LACMA, meets with Mrs. Jay Palmer, left, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dukes. Mrs. Dukes is president of group hosting gala party Saturday to raise scholarship funds.

Americans must restitch their personal lives to save energy

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now is the time to "restitch our personal lives."

To save energy. To stretch gasoline. To make sure we don't have to bring back the candle and the horse. To make sure we stop living high off the hog as the biggest consumers of energy in the world.

The advice to trim your power demands—and how to do it—comes from Dr. John H. Gibbons. He is director of the Department of the Interior's new Office of Energy Conservation.

His job is to plan and direct programs to coordinate energy conservation efforts and provide the consumer with vital information on how to save energy.

During the 30's, says he, Americans trimmed a lot—due to the depression. Lights were turned off to keep the electric bill down.

If you couldn't pay the bill, the electricity was shut off.

During the 40's, Americans stretched gasoline, quieted their sweet tooth through sugar rationing and otherwise exhibited the ability to restitch their lives for a national purpose, Dr. Gibbons said.

The energy crisis or emergency is going to be around a long time, says he. That's why he calls for volunteerism in the effort to make us less gluttonous consumers of electricity and other energy sources.

I asked Dr. Gibbons what every household could do right now to stretch available supplies. He answered:

—Turn the thermostat down to 68 right now, keep it there in the daytime. Turn it lower at night.

—Plan your trips to the store more carefully. You can cut the number of trips in half. (Dr. Gibbons thinks it's silly to power up a 3,000 pound car to go a block or two for a loaf of bread or a can of cat food.)

—"Knock off" half the lights in the house. If you have two lamps in the living room, only light one at a time. The same for every room in the house. Don't have lights on in a room that is unused. (Dr. Gibbons said the federal government has unscrewed one million light bulbs in its complex stretching from Washington, D.C., to neighboring Virginia.)

If all of this seems difficult, well—consider the alternative: blackouts. It could happen, energy authorities like Dr. Gibbons caution.

Dr. Gibbons was interviewed while in New York to brief the National Association of Science Writers (NASW) on the energy problems Americans face this year and next—and for quite some time.

He said we just can't go on being the wasteful consumers of energy that we have been in the past. Instead of slowing down our consumption while the danger signs were being hoisted, we speeded up. To Dr. Gibbons it makes no sense for 6 per cent of the world's population—which we are—to consume 33 per cent of the world's energy, which we have been doing.

When we should have been slowing down in the decade 1960 to 1970, we increased our consumption of energy 46 per cent per capita. "This was a direct result of affluence," Dr. Gibbons said.

"We treated energy as cheap and plentiful, borrowing on the future. Half of the growth was due to new appliances. All these things were parts of the gathering storm."

Some other practical tips from Dr. Gibbons:

—We need to slow down our country (turnpike) driving to 50 miles per hour and speed up driving in cities. The stop and go, traffic crawling done by the city cars is a big waste of gas.

—Radial tires on a car stretch the fuel five per cent.

—We can start thinking of the lifetime of equipment that we buy. Cars, for example, should last longer. Appliances, too. Other hard goods, the same. This is because energy is required to produce replacements, including the basic materials used in making such products. Adding life to these things adds up to an energy saving in production.

—Building codes are almost non-existent in many places. If upgraded buildings by requiring sufficient insulation there would be a 40 per cent saving in energy for heating and cooling.

Long term, according to Dr. Gibbons, we've got to develop lifestyles less dependent on the automobile—for work, play and living.

"Someday we will look back on the year 1973 and see it as the year that gave us a few years lead time on our energy problems," Dr. Gibbons said.

"We can be careful stewards of energy.

Alpha Gams schedule Punch Brunch benefit

Christmas bells will ring out holiday fashion news for fashion belles at Alpha Gamma Delta's annual Punch Brunch benefit, Fashion Belles, to be held Saturday at 11 a.m.

Alumnae chapters and clubs throughout Los Angeles County will present the luncheon and fashion show for their members and guests at the Assistance League of Southern California, Hollywood.

The event will benefit Camp Paivika, a camp for handicapped children operated by The Crippled Children's Society and located in the San Bernardino mountains. Alpha Gamma Delta's two-year goal has been to equip the camp's infirmary, "The Pill Box." The project will be completed with proceeds from this year's benefit.

Alpha Gamma Delta, one of the first international women's fraternities to adopt an altruistic project, has been concerned with the welfare of children for many years. In 1919, camps were established at Syracuse University's Speech and Hearing Center in New York state.

Among local Alpha Gams who plan to attend the brunch are Mmes. J. J. Alakszay, Richard Drake, Robert W. Dukes, George Eubank, Richard Girvin, Dain Glad, Patrick F. Grabowski, Larry Hickey, M. E. Long, Philip Lowney, Ray Mather, Terry N. Norman, Eugene Overholt, Roy B. Simpson, D. E. Zell, Zilliam Zinsley and the Misses Marsha Christiansen, Elaine Kuhn and Eleanor Oleson.

Juniors to sponsor public Health Fair

The Diamond Bar Junior Woman's Club will participate in a Health Fair on Saturday at Wickes Furniture in West Covina from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The San Gabriel Valley District of the California Federation of Woman's Clubs, Junior Membership, is sponsoring the Health Fair free to all area residents in conjunction with the furniture store.

Residents may be tested in the various booths sponsored by each of the 15 Juniors clubs in the district. Among the available tests are kidney testing, a Red Cross demonstration, diabetes counseling, hearing tests, blood pressure tests, March of Dimes, American Cancer Society information, dental hygiene, sickle cell disease tests, vision screening, veneral disease, sudden death syndrome and the Epilepsy Foundation.

There will also be game and refreshment booths. Proceeds will go to the various foundations represented at the Health Fair.

The Diamond Bar Juniors will present a Red Cross information and demonstration booth. Appointments for any of the tests are not necessary.

Miss Joan Elizabeth McClure and Steven W. Enoch of La Verne exchanged wedding vows in a Saturday morning ceremony at Trinity United Methodist Church in Huntington, Ind.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. McClure of Huntington was given in marriage by her father. The bride designed her own gown of ivory peau de soie with re-embroidered lace, adorned with pearls and glass-beaded clusters. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a V-neckline, sheer sata peau sleeves and pointed cuffs.

MRS. STEVEN W. ENOCH

Lace bordered the hemline of the floor-length, A-line skirt and the cathedral-length train.

A re-embroidered lace tiara held the bride's elbow-length veil of silk illusion. She carried an Edwardian cascade arrangement of Fuji mums, gilded stephanotis with dried German status and English ivy.

Mrs. Stephen J. La Barbera was matron of honor for her sister. Another sister, Mrs. James C. Harwood, Miss Jan Leatherman and Mrs. Stanley Ellis served as bridesmaids.

Christopher Enoch was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Sink of La Verne, James C. Harwood and Ray Ade Jr.

A reception at the Elks Club in Huntington, Ind., followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch will make their home in La Verne.

MARY ESCOBAR

Miss Escobar graduated from Presentation High School in San Jose; attended De Anza College at Cupertino and graduated with honors from Bryant and Stratton College of Business.

Egg packer given fine, probation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A San Joaquin County egg packer has been fined and placed on probation for selling "underweight" eggs, the state Department of Food and Agriculture has reported.

The packer, Ralph Burson, operator of Burson Egg Farms in Acampo, pleaded guilty to one of three counts of violating state egg regulations in Municipal Court in Roseville. Burson was cited at the Roseville Auction Yard July 21 by a state egg and poultry quality control officer.

He was fined $150, but $75 was suspended during a probation of indeterminate length, the department said.

Burson admitted removing a red "hold" tag placed by the state agent on 2,730 dozen eggs to be sold by him at the auction yard, the department said.

The eggs were labeled Extra Large Grade AA, the department added, but the shipment contained "underweight eggs in excess of state tolerances."

Santa back as popular card figure

NEW YORK (UPI) — In recent years, Christmas card publishers have found there's a steadily increasing demand for Christmas cards with Santa Claus designs for grown-ups to send.

People are nostalgic for the dimly remembered but happy days of their own childhood when Santa's long-awaited visit was the glorious climax to the Christmas celebration. People have recognized that Santa, possibly better than any other symbol, epitomizes the warm-hearted spirt of Christmas.

Papier mache exhibit on

UPLAND — An exhibition of papier mache works, including Christmas decorations and tree ornaments, by Marie Petroff and Harriet White is now on display at the Upland Public Library.

Papier mache ("chewed paper" in French) was the first recycling of waste paper, and examples have been found in China dating back to 206 A.D. The old paper is chopped up, shredded or molded — sometimes boiled, and, with paste, lamination or cloth, formed into sturdy shapes and art objects. The resulting form can be sanded, varnished or painted.

The Upland library exhibit will continue through December.

Huge shale oil pool lies untapped in the Rockies

Business World

By JOHN J. SANKO

DENVER (UPI) — The United States, a nation thirsty for oil, has not yet gone to the well to draw upon the more than 600 billion barrels of oil locked in the Green River shale formation of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

Despite growing demands for oil and increasing problems in getting it, it will be years before shale oil makes an impact on the market. Hollis M. Dole thinks the lack of a marketable product borders on the criminal.

Dole is general manager of the Colony Development Operation, a consortium of four oil firms which has been at work since 1965 studying the problem of removing oil from shale.

"Here we have a resource—certainly one of the great energy resources of the world— and right now we aren't doing anything about it," Dole said. "I think it borders on being a crime that it hasn't been developed before now.

"If for no other reason, the United States should be developing an oil shale industry because we have such a large amount of it," Dole said. "We ought to know what we can do with it. We ought to know how we can handle it, what the costs are and what the technological problems are."

Colony wants to be in the forefront of the commercial development of shale. It has operated a so-called semi-works plant in the Parachute Creek area of northwest Colorado, near the small community of Grand Valley. Now it wants to move on to something bigger.

Real thing

"We know on a laboratory scale and on a pilot plant scale how to get shale oil," Dole said. "But going from the pilot plant scale to a commercial size plant will involve a lot of technical problems we will only know how to handle when one is built. And that is what borders on being a crime—we have not built a plant before now."

Colony would like to begin construction of a plant in the next year or two, but Dole admits there are many obstacles, among them getting federal, state and local approval to go ahead.

Dole said he knows of at least 38 permits which will be needed, includng road and river crossings, air and water discharges and pipeline construction.

Environmental problems admittedly are a headache, but Dole thinks the choice may be between some environmental degradation or alternatives that a mobile nation—which depends upon oil to run its factories and its transportation—would find unacceptable.

"We have to take a lot better care of our earth than we have in the past, no question about it," Dole said. "We must be committed to a quality environment. But we think there is a happy trade off, that there should be, there has to be, a trade off between what is best for the country, what is best for the people, and how much degradation can be suffered.

Among the environmental problems is the mining of the shale, much of it located on federal lands. Although shale is found on every continent and in at least 30 states of the United States, the world's largest reserves are found in the relatively virgin 17,000-square-mile Green River formation of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

"We think it can be done and still end up with a quality environment," he said.

Then there are air pollution problems. To get the oil from the shale rock, it must be from a vapor state into a liquid state. The end product is heated, then brought back a material quite similar but not exactly like conventional crude oil.

One of the most difficult problems is what to do with the spent shale—that which is left after the oil has been removed. Processed shale expands to 10 to 15 per cent greater volume than the original product.

"So on a volume basis, although you might remove a cubic yard, you would end up with more than a cubic yard," Dole said.

Possible solutions include some underground disposal in sections opened by mining, but that would require a lead time of about five years to develop room to move the material in for disposal. Since there is a greater volume, some surface disposal also would be necessary.

Colony claims to have had success in surface disposal of the processed shale. After dumping the processed shale in a valley, it can be revegetated or covered with natural soil or crushed rock.

"We have performed over 30 studies over a period of four years and have determined that we can successfully reseed and revegetate spent oil shale," Dole said.

On the plus side of the environmental question, shale oil is one of the cleaner fuels available.

"By using this material for generation of electricity in metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles, Chicago or New York," Dole said, "you could continue your industrial development without any degradation to the atmosphere."

No question

Dole said there really is no question that the nation will turn to oil shale as an answer for some of its energy demands —the only question is when.

Even with immediate development, Dole said, it is unlikely that shale oil could make any sizable contribution to the country's energy requirements before 1985.

The National Petroleum Council has predicted a shale oil industry could be pumping out about 750,000 barrels of oil a day by 1985.

"But I don't think the size of the shale oil industry is really the point behind all this," Dole said. "Certainly it's going to contribute a lot of needed material and high quality material to our energy supply, but I think the importance is that the United States will have at hand an industry capable of expanding if need be.

"If the Arab oil is used as a political and economic club against the United States, we have an option," he said. "Shale oil is an option—and it's a very good option because it's a domestic source."

Dole said the federal government could help encourage shale development via a number of routes, including nonrecourse loans, changes in the depletion allowance tax, an increase in the investment tax credit from 7 to 12 per cent, rapid amortization of the first shale plants and leasing of federal shale lands.

"It depends upon the policy of the government as to how rapidly shale oil will be developed," he said. "And certainly, in the position in which we find ourselves at the present time as far as energy goes, it would seem to be in the best interests of the country."

Dole said shale oil could provide about four per cent of the nation's energy needs by 1985, coal liquefaction another two or three per cent, and geothermal energy another four to five per cent. The United States is now producing about 10 million barrels a day of conventional oil.

"All this does not add up to total dependency on domestic sources," he said, "but I don't think we will ever reach total dependency on domestic sources again. It does put us in a position where we have more than one option—the dependency on overseas sources of supplies. I think we are recognizing more and more the implications of that."

Stocks slump again - fourth straight week

NEW YORK (UPI) — The energy crisis and the recession that could result pummelled stocks on the New York Exchange for the fourth consecutive week in active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average plunged 37.33 to 854.00 in a four-session week where swings of ten and twenty points in an hour were commonplace.

The average of 30 blue chips has dropped 133.06 points in the last four weeks, reflecting the energy crisis, confusion over the Nixon administration's energy policies, the Arab oil embargo, growing talk of a recession, Watergate, and Wall Street's disappointment over the Federal Reserve's tight money policies.

Declines Occurring

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 4.46 to 99.42. The NYSE index sagged 2.39 to 53.09.

Twice this week the number of declines occurring in a single session set Exchange records. On Monday, 1,404 issues were thrown for losses, but that record lasted only a day as 1,454 issues fell on Tuesday. On both days, the list was battered by uncertainty over the energy crisis, the possibility of a recession, and steps the Nixon administration might take in response.

For the week, losers topped gainers, 1,592 to 221, among the 1,966 issues traded. There were 3 new highs, 586 new lows.

Sales in the holiday-shortened week totaled 76,390,151 shares, compared with 109,326,110 a week earlier, and with 79,069,190 the year before.

Three Days of Action

Most of the week's action came during the first three days. On Monday, a toughening anti-U.S. stance by the Arab oil sheikhs and talk of a nationwide ban on Sunday driving resulted in the fifth worst decline in the history of the Dow industrial average —28.67 points.

As talk of an imminent recession filled the air, the Dow sank another 17.76 points the following session.

OFFICIAL CALIFORNIA MEDALLION
PROCLAIM LIBERTY THROUGHOUT ALL THE LAND
AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL

HISTORIC EVENTS
CALIFORNIA

Historical Pictures Service, Chicago

Actual size:

The California Bicentennial Commission announces a unique and enduring gift: The Official 1973 California American Revolution Bicentennial Medallion.*

Now you can give a gift no one's ever given before: California—and the part our state has played in America's proud history.

As part of America's bicentennial celebration, the California Bicentennial Commission has created a series of remarkably beautiful medallions you can give, or keep, with pride.

Struck in either Solid Sterling Silver or Antiqued Bronze, this Official 1973 Medallion was designed by Preston Condict of Paso Robles Senior High in a state wide scholarship competition. It is the first of four medallions to be issued annually through 1976.

The Sterling Silver medallions are individually numbered like fine etchings or lithographs.

When you give the Official 1973 California Bicentennial Medallion, you give more than a beautiful, inspiring tribute to America. You also help us. As a public service, proceeds from the medallion's sale will go directly to the California Bicentennial Commission to support our planned celebration of America's 200th birthday.

Give the Official 1973 California Bicentennial Medallion in either Solid Sterling Silver ($12.50) or Antiqued Bronze ($3.50). To your friends. To your children. To yourself.

*Each purchase entitles you to membership in the American Bicentennial Society at no extra cost.

ART IN HOSPITAL — "Cypress at Monterey," an oil painting by Muriel Woodruff of Pomona, is one of the works she has on display in the dining room of the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Woodruff, who has worked at the hospital for 23 years, will retire next Saturday but will leave many of her art works to adorn the walls of the hospital. She plans to continue her art career.

PVCH artist will leave work behind

POMONA — More than memories of her help to hundreds of patients will remain at Pomona Valley Community Hospital when Muriel Woodruff retires Saturday.

Although Mrs. Woodruff will leave her position in the surgery department after 23 years of service, she will continue to display her landscape paintings on the walls of the hospital dining room.

"It came on me all of a sudden," she says of her start in oils four years ago. She did her first work, an ocean scene, while vacationing at Idyllwild.

Mrs. Woodruff never took lessons, but she comes from an artistic family which has included artists, architects and decorators. She started carving figurines out of apples, and became known for her apple-headed dolls, the fruit preserved by shellac, an old southern country practice.

When she switched to oil painting she concentrated on landscapes, yet most of her painting is done in her studio in her apartment on Chester Street.

Color is her strongpoint and she has caught the eye of residents here with her exhibit at the hospital.

"It opened up a whole new field for me just when I began to think ahead to retirement," she said.

Mrs. Woodruff will not have to worry about what to do with her time when she leaves PVCH. She already has orders for pictures which will keep her busy through the middle of next year.

Ceramic sale slated at MSAC art gallery

WALNUT — The Christmas student ceramic sale will be held in the art gallery of Mt. San Antonio College Dec. 5-7.

Ceramics of every size, style and shape in natural glazes are produced each fall in preparation for this sale. Huge planters and earthenware casseroles are on display next to tiny porcelain weed pots and vases.

Community residents and all college staff and students are invited to the gallery for this once-a-semester sale. Parking is available off Grand Avenue in Lot "B".

ADRIAN ENRIQUEZ JR.

Claremonter will show his pottery

CLAREMONT — An exhibition of pottery by Claremont artist Adrian Enriquez Jr. is being held this month and next at Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards.

For Enriquez, a graduate of Claremont High School, it is the third year he has shown his work at the bank.

While still in high school, he won first place in the San Gabriel Valley Art Festival. After graduation he went to Hawaii where he taught pottery and had several one-man shows. He has also exhibited at art festivals in Santa Ana, Newport Beach, San Clemente, San Diego, Scottsdale, Ariz., and Honolulu, Hawaii.

Enriquez will also have a pottery show and sale at his studio at 3410 Padua Ave. Dec. 8, 9, 15, 16, and 21-24.

California residents eye political reform

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — In a twist of roles encouraged by Watergate, California voters find themselves with an opportunity to enact sweeping laws regulating state politicians and government officials.

At campaign tables sprinkled in shopping centers and parking lots, petition circulators are asking: "Do you want to reform politics?"

The two-month-old initiative drive is aimed at clamping the tightest restrictions yet on reporting campaign money, plus imposing for the first time limits on how much state politicians may spend. It also is designed to bar any flow of money from lobbyists to politicians and to take away some of the advantages that incumbents naturally have in seeking reelection.

The effort, which spurred legislators this past session to pass hurriedly their own versions of some of the restrictions, was born from the coalition of "Citizen Lobbyists" and an ambitious young politician.

Bringing together ideas earlier this year on "new rules" for politics were People's Lobby, a state group noted for previous environmental initiatives; Common Cause, a national lobbying group with an emerging California chapter; and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown, Jr., 35, a Democrat with gubernatorial hopes who has a reputation as an aggressive chief elections officer.

Political reform initiative

Their union produced what is known as the Political Reform Initiative Of 1974.

"To my way of thinking, this is the greatest bill that I've ever seen," said Joyce Koupal, cofounder of People's Lobby. "If politicians still want to cheat, then they are going to be caught and punished under this law."

Brown, who is relying heavily on the initiative in his early campaigning for governor, calls it the "culmination of my four years as secretary of state."

As of the first of this month, roughly two thirds of the needed 325,000 signatures had been gathered to qualify the measure for a spot on the June 1974 primary ballot.

"Watergate helped us," said Ms. Koupal, who is personally gathering signatures in Southern California. "People are very angry and very frustrated (and) they are tickled to death about us."

Areas covered

Basically, the highly detailed, 112-page initiative, covers these areas:

Political spending—limits the amount candidates for statewide office may spend during primaries and general elections. The limits are based on a certain amount for every resident of voting age—7 cents in the primary for governor, 9 cents in the general election for governor, and 3 cents in primaries and 3 cents in general elections for other statewide officers. Other provisions limit spending for initiatives to 25 cents per signature needed to qualify for a ballot spot; both sides would be allowed 8 cents per voter-age resident in the election, but neither side could outspend the other by more than $500,000, and incumbents would be cut back an additional 10 per cent.

Campaign reporting — requires all state and local candidates to file campaign reports, detailing contributions and expenditures. Names, addresses and occupations of all contributors who give more than $50 must be included. Expenditures of more than $50 must be itemized.

Lobbyists

Lobbyists —bans lobbyists from giving money to state officials and limits gifts or entertaining by lobbyists to $10 a month for each official. Requires lobbyists to register with the secretary of state.

Conflict of interest—requires all policy-making public officials, state and local, to file conflict of interest reports, detailing if and where assets of more than $1,000 are invested within their areas of control.

Fair Political Practices Commission—establishes a five-member appointed commission to administer the act and appropriates $1 million each year for its expenses.

Other provisions of the initiative provide for a more attractive, more "readable" and more expensive ballot pamphlet—something the legislature already voted to do. It also requires that incumbents not automtically be given the top spot on the ballot.

Early bowl game

The first postseason bowl football game was played Jan. 11 1902, when Michigan defeated Stanford, 49-0, in the Tournament of Roses.

Clerk's reply nets sympathy from gunman

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — A man wearing a Halloween mask and carrying a revolver walked into Victoria Liquors recently, obviously intending to hold up the place, clerk Thomas Dougherty reported.

"How's business?" the robber asked.

As a matter of fact, Dougherty said, it had been a rotten day. The customers stayed home this holiday.

$1,000 reward offered for $20 hijack bill

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A $1,000 reward has been offered for just one of the $20 bills hijacker "D. B. Cooper" disappeared with on Thanksgiving eve 1971.

The offer was made by The Oregon Journal, which listed the serial numbers of some of the bills in the $200,000 package "Cooper" extorted from Northwest Airlines. The package contained 10,000 $20 bills.

"Cooper" boarded the Northwest Boeing 727 jetliner in Portland, received the ransom in Seattle, Wash., then ordered the plane flown to Reno, Nev. When the aircraft landed in Nevada, "Cooper" had disappeared.

It was believed the hijacker parachuted out of the craft over southwestern Washington. But there has never been a trace of him.

All that is known of the man is that he signed on the plane as "D. B. Cooper." He was believed to have had a disguise.

The Journal said in its Thursday editions that, if authorities had just one of the $20 bills, they would have a significant clue.

Other serial numbers will be published later.

The doctor comments

Potassium important in body's chemistry

DEAR DR. LAMB — I should like to know what is the purpose of the need for magnesium and potassium in foods?

Also, it is my understanding that watermelon contains a great deal of potassium, is that true?

DEAR READER — There has been lots of excitement about magnesium, more excitement than facts. It is a light weight metal, and it is essential to the body. Most of it is stored in the bones. It is important in the actions of the vital enzymes that we use in processing our food to energy.

Magnesium, and other minerals, with potassium, sodium, and calcium all are important in the delicate balance of chemicals within our muscle and nerve cells. When the balance gets out of kilter, nerve and muscle function go awry. The heart muscle may not contract properly, nerves may become easily excited resulting in twitches or worse, and muscles may cramp. It's the balance of all of these and other minerals that keeps things functioning right.

Despite exaggerated claims by some nonmedical enthusiasts, the evidence that there are any real problems about magnesium deficiencies in the population at large is very meager or nonexistent. Much misinformation is given to the public on these matters in so-called health magazines. The truth is that magnesium is widespread in our food. It is hard to eat without getting enough of it.

The two main groups of people who often do have magnesium deficiencies are the alcoholics and those people taking water pills or medicines to flush out water through the kidneys. Such medicines are used in heart failure, high blood pressure, and by some women to relieve the problems of premenstrual tension with wather retention. If none of these apply to you, the chances are that you are getting enough magnesium.

Potassium is one of the main chemicals in our cells. We have mostly sodium chloride salt in the water outside our cells and inside we have mostly potassium phosphate. The phosphate is particularly important in the cell functions needed to generate energy. Did you know your cells use those phosphates to make high energy compounds to run the whole energy system of the body? It's our stored energy source.

Potassium is in a lot of foods, but fruits, melons and berries are the best sources of it. Watermelon has a lot of potassium, specifically 100 milligrams in three-and-half ounces (100 grams). That is about half as much as a similar weight of orange juice.

If you drink orange juice regularly you will be getting enough potassium, unless you have a medical problem. Even then three glasses of orange juice a day will provide as much potassium as most doctors like to prescribe in medicines.

Patients taking digitalis-type medicines for heart trouble need to be particularly careful to keep their chemicals in balance. Inadequate amounts of body potassium can affect how the heart responds to the medicine.

Michigan city fights auto with minibus

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — While many cities are groping for answers to their public transportation problems, this community of 100,000 has found one solution—a door-to-door transit system called "Dial-A-Ride."

With Dial - A - Ride, inaugurated as a pilot project in 1971, all a user has to do is phone in a request for service. Within minutes—usually less than 10— a bright purple minibus can be at his door to take him exactly where he wants to go in the city. The price: 25 cents.

Dial-A-Ride is actually the first step in a more comprehensive project called Teltron which is expected to completely overhaul the city's conventional bus system by 1975. The pilot project operated with three minibuses only in the southwest corner of the city, but it proved so successful that voters last April approved a proposal that nearly quadrupled the city's transportation budget to an estimated $1.5 million annually for the new system.

Although Ann Arbor was the first major U.S. city to approve financing for such a mass transit package, the Dial-A-Ride concept has been used on either an experimental or small scale in other U.S. and Canadian cities since the late 1960s, according to Karl Gunther, director of the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority.

"It's now a proven concept and very accepted," said Gunther, who previously worked on several pioneer DialA-Ride projects in Ohio and Canada as a member of a Ford Motor Co., transportation research team. Similar systems are also being organized in communities in New York, California, Maryland and New Jersey.

Service diversity

Unlike conventional bus systems, Ann Arbor's Teltran will offer a diversity of services, of which Dial-A-Ride is a part, Gunther said.

"We figure a transportation system is a bundle of services, not a single service," he said. "It means different things to different people on different days of the week."

Already operational is a subscription program which transports more than 400 school children to and from their classes each day. That concept eventually will be expanded to provide similar regular daily service for working people.

A special bus to transport wheelchair passengers was started this month with more to come, and the Dial-A-Ride system is expected to be expanded city-wide on evenings and weekends by December.

For the heavy weekday traffic, however, Dial-A-Ride minibuses ultimately will serve as "feeders" to an express bus system that will become the backbone of Teltron.

Express rendezvous

Under the plan, a person wanting to go crosstown would be picked up by a minibus that would rendezvous with a fullsize express bus. A second minibus on the other side of town would then meet the express bus to take the passenger to his location—all without the passengers' having to stand and wait outside.

Dial-A-Ride service already has replaced one of the city's six conventional routes, but further expansion awaits approval of a $1.7 million federal grant to buy 35 to 40 additional buses. Each eventually will have a system through which its driver will receive printouts of pickup and dropoff locations from a computer, eliminating the degree of error inherent in the verbal two-way radio system now used between the driver and the central dispatcher.

Other future plans include the installation of 50 special telephones in locations throughout the city along the express routes.

The system is not without a few bugs.

For example, a dispatcher may be annoyingly off in his estimate to a caller on the time he will be picked up. On the other hand, the caller has

Teens learn about 'Price of Death'

FRESNO (UPI) — Teenaged traffic offenders here are undergoing a unique program called "The Price of Death" which local officials say is apparently producing better young drivers.

The program, initiated six months ago, is the brainchild of Phillip Jenkins, hearing officer of the Juvenile Traffic Court.

It requires young speeders, "red runners" and teenagers guilty of other moving violations to personally visit local ambulance services, funeral homes, hospitals and cemeteries and write at least a 1,000-word report estimating the financial costs of one traffic death.

So faar, more than 500 teenagers have gone through the "Price of Death" program and only five per cent have ended up back in traffic court on new moving violations—a record Jenkins says is better than all his other traffic safety programs.

"It is too early to make any prediction and say 'well, this is a real excellent tool' but it would indicate so far that we're getting young people to think about what some of their acts might cause," Jenkins said.

When given the assignment, the teenager must set up appointments with the ambulance services, hospitals, mortuaries and cemeteries and then pay a personal visit accompanied by at least one parent.

Jenkins said the parents often learn as much as the teenagers and not one has turned down his request that the teenager be accompanied.

The program is free and the agencies involved all donate their time and have set up tours and talks for the teens.

Most harrowing of the experience for many of the teenagers is a visit to the Belmont Memorial Park where Mrs. Mollie Lawlor points out the graves of teenagers who didn't slow down or who weren't paying attention.

What is the price of a traffic death? The teenagers found ambulance services charge a base price of $35 with extra charges for using the siren, night calls, passengers, oxygen and a flat fee of $1.50 per mile which can run the bill well over $100.

Hospital bills even for victims who are DOA (dead on arrival) can reach several hundred dollars including costs for shock revival treatments, reviving drugs used, x-rays and autopsy costs.

And a traffic victim who arrives in critical condition or a coma can run up a huge bill if he lives long enough.

One teenager was shown a bill for $32,000 for a man who had been intensive care for six months.

Funeral costs are well known and can range from a few hundred dollars to thousands while interment and headstone costs can also reach into the hundreds or thousands.

Jenkins said a rough average shows the financial cost of a traffic death ranges between $3,000 and $12,000 although one youthful traffic offender came up with a minimum price of $1,586 while another figuring the worst, came up with a total of $47,325.50.

In addition to figuring the costs, the teenagers are asked to recommend ways of reducing traffic deaths and their ideas and suggestions are forwarded to a citizens' Price of Death committee which refers the better ideas to local agencies for possible action.

Jenkins said he has received numerous letters from thankful parents who were unable to convince their offspring of the importance of safe driving while one trip to an emergency room or a mortuary produced noticeable improvement in the youngsters' driving habits.

"For the young person that is delightfully intrigued with driving and not paying much attention sometimes to what they're doing, this is a sobering experience," says Jenkins, who hopes that other communities consider a similar program.

While the teenager becomes aware of the financial cost of a traffic death he also becomes aware of other, more important costs.

As one youth wrote in his report: "If the cost of dying were only $1.00 it would still be too great a price to pay. One cannot put a price on the love and companionship lost to a family when a life is ended in tragedy."

Brooke: still feels President should resign

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, the first Republican senator to call for the President's resignation, says "nothing has happened" to change his mind.

"It has been my hope that the President would make full disclosure and would be able to turn things around," Brooke told newsmen following a meeting at the State House with Gov. Francis W. Sargent recently. "I think this would take something of a miracle."

Jewish leader asks Nobel winner to renounce prize

VIENNA (UPI) — Simon Wiesenthal, head of the Jewish Documentation Center, has urged Konrad Lorenz to renounce his Nobel prize because of his support of Nazi ideas during World War II.

Lorenz, an Austrian professor lecturing on the behavior of animals, was awarded the 1973 Nobel prize for medicine for hus scientific research on geese.

Wiesenthal said Lorenz, in an article published in 1940, supported the idea of "extermintion of ethnic inferior people."

Wiesenthal said there was only one step from the "extermination of ethnic inferior life" to the murder of millions of innocent victims in the Nazi concentration camps and gas chambers.

"In the name of Jewish victims of the Nazi regime, I appeal to you to renounce the Nobel prize to show that you no longer support these ideas," Wiesenthal said in a letter to Lorenz.

A copy of his letter was sent to the Nobel prize committee in Stockholm, Wiesenthal said.

1929 bill finally paid

BEAVERTON, Ore. (UPI) — Loton Cromwell of Amboy, Wash., has taken care of something that "bothered me a lot of years."

This week he paid $45 to Dr. C.E. Mason, 93, of Beaverton for performing a tonsilectomy on his son in 1929. Cromwell said he recently found the unpaid bill in the attic.

Cromwell said at the time of his sons tonsilectomy he had lost his job, home and car in the Depression. Following the Depression, he worked at various jobs and sent money to creditors.

"They're all paid now," said Cromwell. "I'm a lot more at peace with the world."

Minibus battles cars

to be ready and waiting for the bus when it does arrive, since it immediately must move on to its next passenger.

Giving it a chance

But residents of this university town know what reliance on the automobile has done to other cities, and they're giving the system a chance.

"I always leave the car sitting in the driveway now," said a businessman in his 30s on one of the minibus rides to the downtown area. "I haven't started it in over a week."

"Where else can you get a bargain like this?" asked an elderly lady. "This is terrific. It costs me $2 to take a cab downtown."

Gunther said he has been "sort of overwhelmed" by the public support the new system has been given.

"This community has a strong dedication to public transportation," Gunther said. "People have been able to look ahead and recognize some of the problems before they get out of hand, such as air pollution, traffic jams and acres of downtown parking lots, all of which Ann Arbor does not now have.

"This is a town where public transportation is going to make a difference ten years from now."

Drop in home loan interest rates is seen

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Interest rates on home loans would drop to about eight per cent by the middle of next year, the head of the Federal National Mortgage Association has predicted.

Oakley Hunter said rates probably would not drop below eight per cent.

Interest rates already are moving down because of a decline in housing starts the past two months, he said.

The FNMA is a public corporation with federal backing which purchases mortgages to stabilize the mortgage market.

Contradictory spectacle

Congressional fight again looms over defense funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Mideast War seems to have set the stage in Congress for another liberal-conservative battle over defense spending and foreign policy.

If Congress behaves according to form, the country may be treated to the spectacle of watching lawmakers who just voted to restrain presidential war powers make conflict more likely by cooling detente with the Russians and upping the arms budget.

The irony is compounded by the fact that many of those who would restrict military spending will be compelled for political reasons to vote against detente —thereby making higher defense appropriations more probable.

The issues are an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to the foreign trade bill, and a Pentagon request for $3 billion to 4 billion in extra arms.

Jackson's amendment would bar the United States from giving trade advantages to Russia until it permits free emigration. It is directed at forcing Moscow to let Soviet Jews flee to Israel.

Moscow is reluctant to do so because it might exacerbate Russian problems with other national minorities like the Ukranians or Lithuanians, academic experts say.

Jackson says his amendment is no more than a modest effort to urge "the Soviet authorities to meet a minimum standard of human decency."

Opponents, like Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., charge that his real motive is to renew the Cold War. They suspect Jackson's hard line position aims at gaining Jewish support in his run for the 1976 Democratic nomination.

While many liberals want detente continued and broadened, the pro-Israel vote is so strong they must back Jackson, like it or not.

Even the administration recognized this when, at the height of the crisis with detente apparently collapsing before the Soviets' rush to help the Arabs, it asked a delay on the trade bill to avoid making the amendment law.

The Pentagon demand for more arms also sprang from the crisis. To Fulbright and other liberals it is inseparably linked with military opposition to detente.

"They use any excuse, any emotion to get more money," Fulbright said in an interview a few days ago. "This is part and parcel of the effort to kill detente."

The Pantagon wants the extra money because, it says, the war showed gaps in U.S. preparedness. Most of the funds would go to increasing airlift capacity by buying giant, longrange transports.

Some would be spent on building up arms stocks on U.S. soil to hedge against the future refusal of an ally to cooperate in a crisis —like the German ban on shipping U.S. weapons in that country to Israel.

Both liberals and conservatives shot holes in the Pentagon's trial balloon when it was floated late last week, because it would "bust" the President's budget.

But 1975 Pentagon money requests are due on the Hill in three months, and even if there is no hurry-up appropriation now, a big slice of what the military wants is sure to be included then.

Presuming that the liberals will have helped Jackson paint the detente policy into a corner by that time, it will certainly make sense for them to vote extra money for weapons. They might well be needed.

Health unit gives view of 'outside'

STANFORD (UPI) —There's a new kind of halfway house on the Stanford University campus —this one for hospital patients.

Physically handicapped patients soon to be discharged from Stanford University Hospital use the house to bridge the gap between fulltime care and the time at home when the patient is on his own.

During the two-day to five-day period at the home, the patient and his family are trained to perform nursing and physical therapy, tasks —all in a home-like atmosphere.

This halfway house is part of a program called "Family Focus," established two years ago by the Division of Phisical Therapy at Stanford Medical School and the only one of its kind in the country.

Program Coordinator Kay Shepard says that although data is still being collected on the effectiveness of "Family Focus," results so far seem to be very positive.

"In some instances, physicians referred cases here to demonstrate to family members that they could not handle the patient and shouldn't take him home," she said. "But in each instance, the families proved much more capable than expected."

Two days at the Family Focus house with her disabled husband gave Margret McKenzie the confidence to act as nurse at their Redwood City home.

While Ross McKenzie learned to walk again following total hip replacement, therapists at Family Focus showed Mrs. McKenzie how to turn her husband over —something he is now unable to do himself.

"In the hospital, the nurses showed me how, but I was petrified," she said. "They just don't have enough time to spend with you."

The staff at Family Focus, she said, could give her all the time she needed to do the delicate task.

"They showed me how, then told me what I did wrong, then stayed with me until I did it," she said.

Mrs. McKenzie said physical therapists and one intern occupied a room in the Family Focus house for eight hours a day. When the staff wasn't teaching McKenzie exercises or taking him for walks or showing Mrs. McKenzie how to aid her husband, staff members were still in the same house and available if any problems came up.

The McKenzies, both retired, were encouraged to follow as normal a routine as possible so any problems that might be encountered at home could be solved at the "halfway house." Mrs. McKenzie did the cooking, they invited guests over, watched TV —just like at home.

They had no problems, but Mrs. McKenzie says that without Family Focus, that vital ingredient, confidence, would be lacking in her handling of her husband.

"If I hadn't gone, I'd probably have eventually caught on, but I would have been very much worried about what to do," she said. "And my husband would have been unhappy, too."

Bush doesn't put stock in Gallup sizeup

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Republican National Chairman George Bush took exception recently to pollster George Gallup's prediction that Watergate is going to hurt the GOP in the 1974 elections.

Bush, addressing the Republican Governors Association, said public opinion polls in 1965, after the crushing defeat of Sen. Barry Goldwater, also showed very poor prospects for GOP candidates in the years ahead.

But Bush said Republicans did well in 1966 and two years later captured the White House. He said Democrats who tried to blame uninvolved GOP candidates for Watergate were going to see a "backlash."

He said that happened to Lt. Gov. Henry Howell, a Democrat turned independent, who Bush said raised the issue in the Virginia gubernatorial race against Republican Mills Godwin and "clutched defeat from the jaws of victory."

Bush said the Howell-Godwin race was proof voters would not blame all Republicans for Watergate and added: "The Republican party is clean and is going to stay clean."

Record harvest sends wine prices down

PARIS (UPI) — Despite inflation, the price of wine is dropping thanks to a record harvest, perhaps the best in a century, the newspaper France-Soir said.

This year, grape pickers brought in 2.08 billion gallons, outdoing the 1962 harvest of 1.92 billion gallons and comparable only to the legendary 1875 output, the newspaper said.

The record production, according to France-Soir, explains the price drops of from 2 to 18 cents per bottle in wineshops.

Part of the drop is due to the 60 to 300 per cent price increases registered beginning in 1972, France-Soir said. These increasees were the result of growing foreign demand and a relatively poor harvest. In 1972, only 1.4 billion gallons were brought in.

The newspaper said that wine harvests around Europe were also up. In Italy, the harvest totalled 1.82 billion gallons and in West Germany 286 million gallons, both increases.

The global European figure was 4.21 billion gallons, or about 910 million gallons above the yearly average, France-Soir said.

Keep your posies fresh as daisies

NEW YORK (UPI) — To keep holiday flowers looking top-top, follow these tips.

Place stems in deep warm water. Pour warm water into the container in which they will be kept. Cut stem ends diagonally with a sharp knife. Remove all foliage below water level. Add a commercial flower preservative to the water.

Poinsettas have a milky substance or juice which should be sealed into the stem by quickly dipping stem ends one or two inches into boiling water.

When stem ends get soft, recut to remove the bad portion.

DO WANT ADS WORK?

DO MICE LIKE CHEESE?

The answer to both questions is a roaring "yes".

Why mice prefer cheese over all other types of food is something we two-legged creatures will never understand.

Why Want Ads work, at a lower cost and greater effectiveness than any other form of advertising, is easy to understand. It is because Want Ads provide people-to-people communication, bringing buyer and seller together.

If you've never used a Want Ad, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

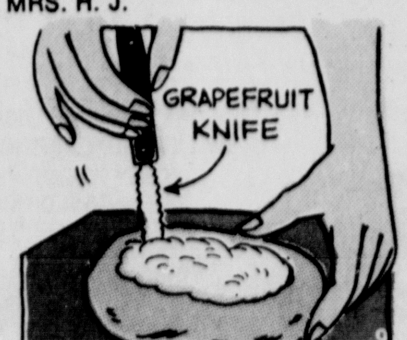
Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When removing the center from a baked potato that is to be mashed, seasoned and then put back in the shell, I discovered that a grapefruit knife works beautifully. It fits around the curve of the potato just as it does around a grapefruit. — MRS. H. J.



GRAPEFRUIT KNIFE

© 1973 by NEA, Inc.,

DEAR POLLY — My quick and easy way to wash greasy or oily hands is to wet them with water and then rub with a tablespoon of granulated sugar. Rinse thoroughly, then finish the job with ordinary hand soap. — TERRY

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — To clean venetian blinds, spread them on the lawn. Spray with the garden hose with a pressure-controlled nozzle and a rather heavy spray. Next, spray with a liquid cleaner and then rinse with the hose. Leave to dry quickly in the sun. I hang them while they're still a little damp as the tapes tend to shrink a bit. This is much easier than the old bathtub routine. — CONNIE

(POLLY'S NOTE — Be careful not to leave them in a wet spot for drying. Better still, wipe off excess water to prevent rusting of metal blinds and warping of wooden ones.)

DEAR POLLY — Cultured marble bathroom sink tops do not take well to cleaning with a regular powdered sink cleanser. I keep a plastic scrub sponge and a small bottle of liquid detergent in each bathroom for this little job. One or two drops of detergent and a brisk scrub do the trick, with no scratching. — K. M. S.

LIQUID DETERGENT

DEAR POLLY — I keep my sewing machine up all the time. I have five children, so it's most convenient to be able to stitch something immediately rather than use a safety pin until next using the machine. — BETTY C.

(POLLY'S NOTE: if there seems no place to keep your machine up all the time, perhaps you have a closet large enough so it can be used there. A friend of mine made a great sewing "room" in a corner of her basement.)

DEAR POLLY — To keep a doubled thread from twisting and tangling so badly, make a neat knot at the end of each thread instead of just one for the two threads — ALENE

DEAR POLLY — Cute little wastepaper baskets can be made of those colored egg cartons. Cut the lids off, but leave the little side flaps. Lace cartons together with ribbon run through holes you punch in the flaps. Then, cut a piece of cardboard that will fit tightly in the bottom. Eight such cartons make a nice basket about 12 inches high. — PEARL.

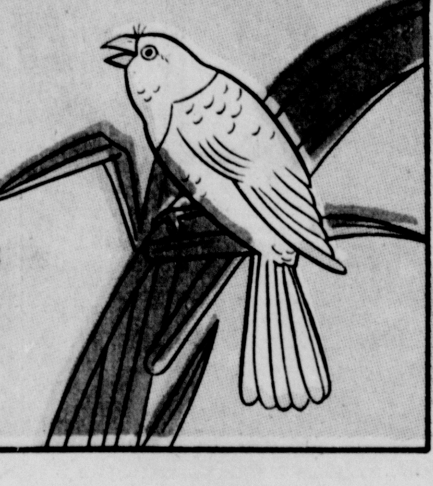
COWBIRDS

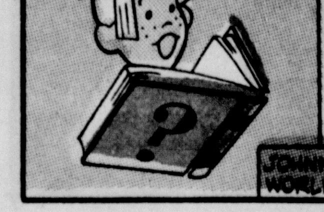
THE COWBIRD HAS AN UNUSUAL HABIT OF NOT RAISING ITS OWN YOUNG. IT LAYS ITS EGGS IN THE NESTS OF OTHER BIRDS. THE FOSTER-PARENT BIRDS EGG-SIT AND RAISE THE YOUNG COWBIRDS AS THEIR OWN.



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

PAM HINCHEE OF ABERDEEN, WA, ASKS:

"WHY ARE THE KEYS ON A TYPEWRITER ALL MIXED UP?"



EARLY-DAY TYPEWRITERS WERE SLOW AND CLUMBSY TO USE. THE LONG TYPE BARS FELL BACK SLOWLY AFTER BEING STRUCK. AT FIRST, THE LETTERS WERE ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY. IF TWO LETTERS WERE TYPED QUICKLY, THE LONG TYPE BARS WOULD OFTEN BECOME JAMMED TOGETHER BEFORE THEY COULD FALL BACK. TO REDUCE COLLISIONS, THE LETTERS WERE REARRANGED SO THAT THE LETTERS MOST FREQUENTLY TYPED WOULD BE ARRANGED AS FAR APART AS POSSIBLE. THIS ARRANGEMENT IS STILL USED ON THE STANDARD TYPEWRITER.

BERLE'S 60TH ANNIVERSARY'

Milton Berle's 60th anniversary in show business will be observed on an ABC Special, Tuesday at 9PM, and will feature many of the greatest names in the entertainment world. The testimonial tribute to Berle was a black-tie affair given by the Friars Club at the Beverly Hilton Hotel on Oct. 13. Berle is currently president of the Friars Club. During his 60 years as a performer, Berle has conquered every entertainment medium—stage, screen, nightclubs, radio and television, as well as writing, directing and producing.

In 1931, Berle headlined at the Palace, and soon after starred in Earl Carroll's "International Vanities" on Broadway. Berle was the only star to be billed above the title in the famous "Ziegfeld Follies." He starred on radio during its early days, and as a member of ASCAP wrote such songs as "Sam, You Made the Pants Too Long," "Lucky, Lucky Me," "A Million Tomorrows,' and "I." Berle's "Texaco Star Theatre" with an eight-year run on NBC firmly established him as "Mr. Television," and helped transform the leisure time habits of the American public.

THREE FOR DRAMA

Kay Lenz, John Forsythe and Anne Baxter star in "Lisa, Bright and Dark," a Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation on NBC, Wednesday at 8:30PM. The drama deals with a teenager's descent into mental illness, a problem which the parents do not wish to acknowledge. The drama is based on the novel of the same name by John Neufeld, and was filmed on location in the San Francisco area.

"Catholics," a TV adaptation of Brian Moore's short novel of the same title is presented as the season's first CBS Playhouse 90 Special, Thursday at 9PM. Trevor Howard (pictured), Martin Sheen and Cyril Cusack star in this drama focusing on the conflict between the aging, conservative abbot and a young, progressive priest over the abbot's observance of the mass. Within this framework—a dispute over the celebration of the mass in Latin instead of English—the drama touches upon the personal conflict of faith between the aging, doubt-plagued abbot and the young social-activist priest from Rome.

Cliff Robertson is host-narrator of "The World Turned Upside Down," an American Heritage Special on ABC, Tuesday at 8PM. The story centers on the American Revolutionary War, and re-creates the clash between Gen. George Washington and his hero-adversary, Gen. Cornwallis at the battle of Yorktown. Pictured here is Jan Leighton who portrays George Washington in the Special.

ACTRESS HAS EMPATHY FOR ROLE

Andrea Marcovicci

Andrea Marcovicci has resisted the lure of Hollywood film makers for several years, largely because her home is in the East and she had been able to make a very attractive living as an actress there without the need for the film capital. Then, she was offered a part she couldn't turn down.

"It is important," she says of the role which brought her to Hollywood for the first time. Miss Marcovicci plays one of the victims in Leonard Freeman's dramatic production of "Cry Rape!" airing on The New CBS Tuesday Night Movie at 9:30PM.

As the title implies, "Cry Rape!" concerns victims of one of urban society's least understood, and fastest growing crimes. Miss Marcovicci voices concern about the rising incidence of rape cases in our cities, not because she has ever been a victim, she points out, but because she takes an active interest in community affairs and is a very feminine feminist.

"I know of no other crime in which the victim is more subject to suspicion," she notes. "A raped woman has to prove herself to be innocent before the legal process can function to apprehend the criminal. "I can understand the reasons for this —too often a spurned girl will try to take revenge on a lover by claiming he took advantage of her, or she may have a grudge against her boss—but it makes the trauma of a real-raped victim doubly strong. "And it is a trauma. The script of 'Cry Rape!' brings this out. I play a victim who has the courage to see the investigation through in order to bring the culprit to justice. Many victims don't. " 'Cry Rape!' isn't just another voice in the wilderness. It is a compelling television drama, which tells it the way it is."

THE PEOPLE OF 'PEOPLE'S CHINA'

"The People of 'People's China'," an hour-long television special report on the myths and realities of contemporary life in the People's Republic of China, will be telecast Saturday (Dec. 1) at 9PM on ABC. The special program was filmed in China by ABC News Hong Kong Producer David Jayne, Chief Hong Kong Correspondent Steve Bell and Diplomatic Correspondent Ted Koppel, all of whom have spent a six-week long assignment traveling in and reporting from the People's Republic. Executive producer is Ernest Leiser and producers in New York are Arthur Holch and Joan Richman.

The program, according to Mr. Leiser, "will attempt to tell the human stories of China, to see it through the eyes of and with the focus on specific individuals. "We have set out for the first time to look at individual Chinese in order to show the difference between the official propaganda line and the reality of their daily lives." Diplomatic Correspondent Ted Koppel, commenting on the ABC News team's experiences in the People's Republic of China, noted, "It's difficult to imagine two more contrasting societies. They have little or nothing in common on the surface, and even less in common beneath the surface.

"And, yet, the United States and the People's Republic of China find themselves sharing a certain mutuality of interest. The most difficult part of our assignment," Koppel said, "and the most necessary part, has been to show clearly the difference between the progress they want to show and the problems the Chinese people and their nation still clearly face." "The People of 'People's China'," presents profiles of representative Chinese in both major cities and in the countryside. Included among them will be a student, a farmer, a doctor, an industrial worker, an "up-and-coming" politician, and members of the People's Liberation Army.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'SUPER—BARRISTER'

Perry Mason is back—again. The hero of Erle Stanley Gardner's courtroom classics is known internationally to readers who have purchased nearly 200 million copies of his hard-backed adventures. For 14 years radio listeners followed his exploits when the late John Larkin portrayed the super-barrister on the air. There was a motion picture in which the late Warren Williams personified Mason.

Raymond Burr was the original Perry Mason on television. The old series enjoyed a nine-year run on the CBS network with a total of 271 episodes based on 70 of Gardner's books. Since it went off the network in 1966, the initial black-and-white Perry Mason series has been syndicated throughout the U.S. and in foreign countries; has reportedly grossed more than $20 million, and is broadcast in virtually every language except Russian.

And now comes the latest chapter in this remarkable saga of show business.

MONTE MARKHAM

Monte Markham, the "now" Perry Mason, was selected over 350 other actors for the role. He is youthful (37), lean and active and he moves like an athlete—the antithesis of the Erle Stanley Gardner lawyer-sleuth as created by Raymond Burr.

It has the same cast of supporting characters but the live replacements are components of the drastic "new look" of the dramatic series: Harry Guardino portrays Hamilton Burger, the Los Angeles district attorney and Mason's traditional courtroom adversary, previously played by the late William Tallman.

Canadian-born Sharon Acker inherits the role of Della Street, Mason's confidential secretary, a role originally handled by Barbara Hale. Dane Clark plays Lt. Arthur Tragg, homicide detective on the Los Angeles Police Department, enacted by the late Ray Collins in the old series.

Albert Stratton is the new Paul Drake, professional private-eye and operator of a large detective agency, formerly portrayed by the late William Hopper. And Brett Somers is Gertrude Lade, Mason's loquacious receptionist and switchboard operator.

The present series costs about five times as much to produce as the first one. It is in color. Markham's salary is considerably larger than Burr's was. The show also reflects the latest developments in courtroom procedure, including such factors as the use of closed circuit television to examine a witness thousands of miles away.

Perry Mason, himself, is more "humanized." For the first time his apartment is revealed, reflecting his way of living. Paul Drake's detective agency is shown. The new courtroom is an exact replica of the Los Angeles County Criminal Court.

FOR ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS, journalist

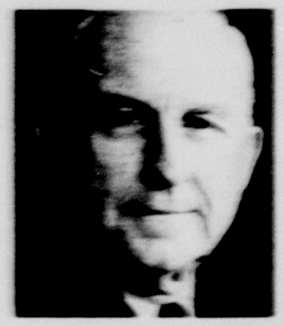
After many years of covering the Washington news scene, which Administration did you most enjoy? —C. A. Wiselz, Coulterville, Ill.

● The Roosevelt Administration. Like Willie Mays, the Roosevelts could do it all. There was FDR himself, brilliant, witty, dramatic. He was a genius with the press. He not only told us what we wanted to know, but often asked our help and advice in getting to the country with his ideas or asked us how the country was reacting. Then there was Eleanor, a source of color, courage and goodwill for the world. The Roosevelts knew that the Freedom of the Press was the first of all freedoms, without it there is none other, and they made us proud of our part in that.

FOR ADM. THOMAS H. MOORER,
chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff

The war in Vietnam is supposed to be over. Why can't we reduce our defense budget now and spend the money saved for our domestic needs?—S. K. L., Athens, Ohio

● Defense spending, as a percentage of total federal spending, is down from 42.5 percent in fiscal 1968 to 26.4 percent in fiscal 1974. It is time to put an end to the myth that cutting the defense budget is a cure-all for other domestic needs.



FOR MUHAMMAD ALI

Do you still get upset when writers and other fighters such as Floyd Patterson refer to you as Cassius Clay?—John Dawson, Bloomington, Ind.

● I never did get upset by this. The reason I said it upset me was for the sake of publicity.

FOR VALERIE HARPER
(Rhoda Morgenstern of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show")

I read somewhere that you have a daughter who is almost 20. This can't be true, can it?—F. F., Salina, Kans.

● Yes. Wendy is 19. She goes to Los Angeles City College, and hopes to become an actress someday. She is really my stepdaughter from my husband's first marriage. She's been living with us since she was 15.

FOR SUSAN SAINT JAMES of "McMillan & Wife"

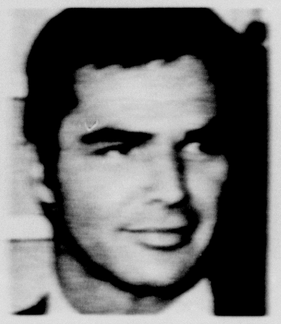
I heard you say on TV that you didn't do many films because of the "nude scenes." Why are you against them, and have you ever turned down a film because of that?—Theresa Devroy, Green Bay, Wis.

● I don't believe I ever said I wouldn't do nude scenes in films. It's just that I've never been asked!

FOR HANK AARON of the Atlanta Braves

Would you like to see the National Baseball League adopt the designated hitter rule to help you pile up the homers? —Tony Amato, St. Bonaventure, N.Y.

● Personally, I hope the designated hitter will not come to the National League for a while. There are already too many logs on the fire about breaking Ruth's record—like my batting more times than Ruth. If, after I break the record, they want to adopt it, fine.



FOR BURT REYNOLDS

How come you shaved off your beautiful mustache? Are women attracted to you more or less without it?—Carol Poillucci, Wappingers Falls, N.Y.

● I shaved it off for a "different" look in "White Lightning." Fan mail runs 50-50 for and against the mustache. My agent doesn't like it, but I do. Glad you approve, too!

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What paperbacks have you had published?—M. E. Nedella, Sturgis, S.D.

● I thought you'd never ask. My first book, "At Wit's End," is now in paperback, as it was a runaway best seller in garage sales in 1967. My latest, "I Lost Everything in the Post-Natal Depression," has just been published in hard cover, which I urge you to buy as I am the sole support of an orthodontist in Palm Beach.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER

I read that Pat Boone baptized some people in your pool while he was staying at your home. How did you feel about this?—P. G., Torrance, Calif.

● I drained the pool and refilled it. It makes me nervous to swim in holy water.

FOR MARK DONOHUE, racing driver

Do you find it difficult to stay within speed limits when driving on regular roads?—Margaret Faith, Camden, N.J.

● I sure do. I'm ashamed to say that I've been given speeding tickets, but I have. Perhaps the reason is that often speed limits are set for the average driver for average conditions on average highways. It's very hard for me to make a proper determination of what a speed limit should be. A racing driver, because he has a better understanding of what a car's total capability is, often finds himself driving above the speed limit, sometimes even being accused of reckless driving. I recognize that this is wrong. To respect other drivers on the highway, race drivers must make a valid attempt to obey the traffic laws.

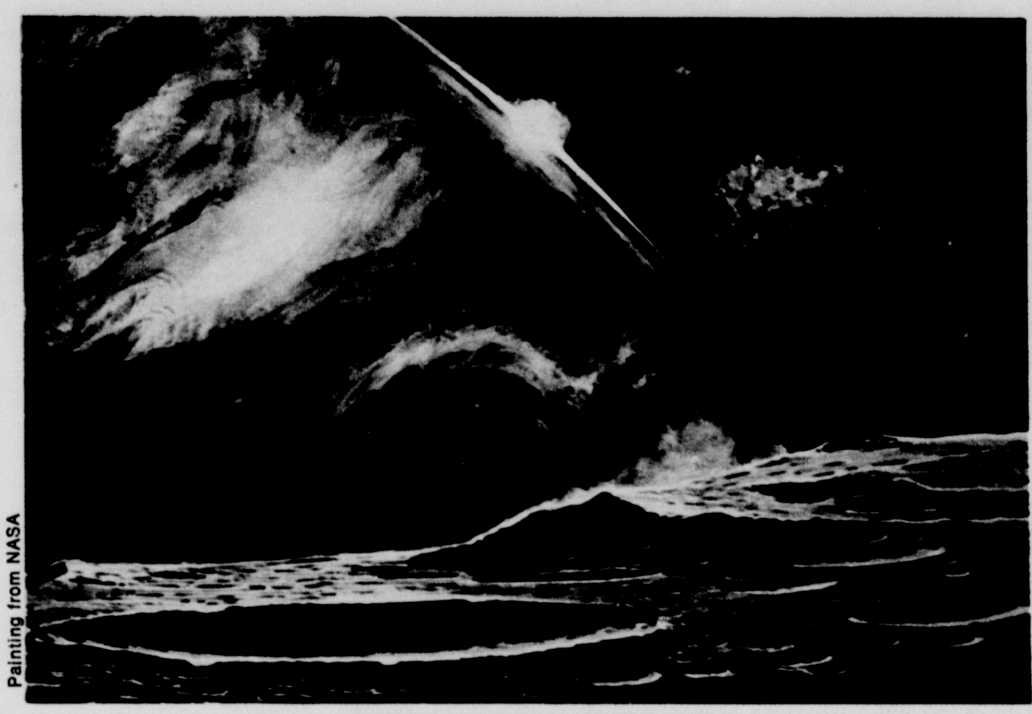
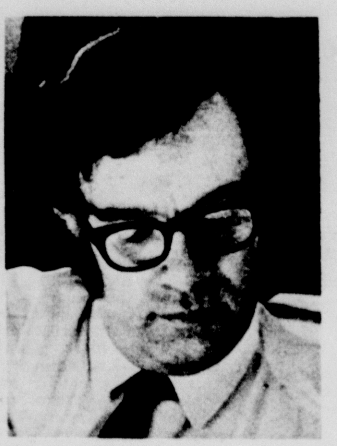
Through the Eyes of a Great Science Writer:

"It has long since passed the orbit of Mars; it has traveled safely through the asteroid belt; it is farther away now than any man-made object has ever been. In comparison to Pioneer 10's fantastic journey, all other travels of man and his artifacts to this day shrink into insignificance."



Painting from NASA

Jupiter, seen from one of its moons.



ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Isaac Asimov is one of the foremost science-fiction writers in America. A native of Russia who was educated in the U.S., he is the author of a number of textbooks and popular works on scientific subjects.

VITAL STATISTICS ABOUT "PIONEER IO"

Weight: 570 lbs.

Launch date: March 2, 1972

Date of closest proximity to Jupiter: December 3, 1973

Goals: To gather information on Jupiter and to return pictures to Earth. Also, to gain experience for future missions to outer planets, and knowledge of such hazards as the asteroid belt and Jupiter's radiation.

Space "firsts": First spacecraft to Jupiter; first spacecraft to escape solar system; first spacecraft to explore asteroid belt; fastest man-made object ever flown.

Next mission: Pioneer 11, launched April 5, 1973, to reach Jupiter in December, 1974. Identical in size to Pioneer I0. May go on to Saturn.

What If You Were Aboard Our Incredible Flight to the Planet Jupiter?

By Isaac Asimov

As these words appear, Pioneer 10, a quarter-ton space probe packed with instruments, is approaching the planet Jupiter. It left Earth on March 2, 1972, at an initial speed of nine miles per second, the fastest speed ever attained by a man-made object up to that time. It was embarking on a journey designed to bring it, after 21 months, to the environs of the largest planet in the solar system.

It has long since passed the orbit of Mars; it has traveled safely through the asteroid belt; it is farther away now than any man-made object has ever been. In comparison to Pioneer 10's fantastic journey, all other travels of man and his artifacts to this day shrink into insignificance.

It is only the cold eye of a camera that will turn on Jupiter; only the impersonal receivers at NASA's Ames Research Center near San Francisco, which conceived and operates the Pioneer mission, that will record the radio waves, and the flux of solar particles, and the sweep of cosmic rays from the stars. But what if you were on Pioneer 10? What would you see as you approached Jupiter?

To understand that we must first ask what we see now. Jupiter is a giant globe, 88,000 miles across at its equator, 11 times as broad as Earth, 125 times as large in surface area, 318 times as large in mass. It has 12 satellites, four of which are as large as or larger than our moon.

At its closest, Jupiter is 400 million miles from Earth. At that distance, its bulk is so huge that is still nearly the brightest point of light we can see in our sky. Only the sun, the moon, sometimes Venus, and on rare occasions Mars, are brighter than Jupiter.

Through the telescope, Jupiter expands into a circular body; not a perfect circle, to be sure, but an ellipse, because Jupiter bulges in the equatorial regions by reason of its rapid rotation. Jupiter's bulk turns once in ten hours as compared with the 24-hour turn of the much smaller Earth. A point on Jupiter's equator moves at 22,000 miles per hour as the planet rotates, as compared with a mere 1,000 miles per hour for points on Earth's equator.

Jupiter's rapid speed throws its equatorial substance outward through centrifugal effect. There is also an effect on the thick cloud layer that forever hides the planet's surface. The clouds, affected by Jupiter's hurrying speeds, spread out in globe-circling belts parallel to the planet's equator.

The overall color of Jupiter is yellow, but the belts can be anything from a slightly darker yellow to a deep brown. Occasionally, blue and gray tinges may appear. Now and then, spots of varying colors can be seen—cyclones or tornadoes, perhaps.

And there is at least one particularly large spot that seems permanent. This large spot can be a light tan in color or it can deepen to a pronounced red. It is called the "Great Red Spot," and is oval in shape, with its long diameter parallel to the equator. It is 30,000 miles long and 8,000 miles wide and has an area just equal to the surface of the Earth.

No one knows what produces the Great Red Spot, why is it red, why it is permanent, why it drifts east and west erratically. No one knows why Jupiter's belts are colored. No one knows exactly what Jupiter's atmosphere is like, or what lies underneath, or why and how the planet gives off radio waves, or what space is like in its vicinity. It is to help answer these and other questions that Pioneer has been sent out on its long, lonely journey.

Let's follow Pioneer on that journey. By the time it is within ten million miles of Jupiter—40 times as far away as the moon is from Earth—it would be in among the orbits of the seven outer satellites. It would be closer to Jupiter than some of these satellites, farther than others. From Pioneer, however, it is very unlikely you would see any of them with the naked eye at any time, for all of them are tiny bodies under 50 miles in diameter.

Jupiter, however, would now be as large to the naked eye as the full moon looks to us on Earth, but only one-third as bright. It reflects more of the light it receives than our rough, bare moon does, but Jupiter is five

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find . . . improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old." —Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method. . . . I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients." —Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment." —Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs." —Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!" —Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old . . . Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!" —Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

My name is Mildred Carter.
I am not a doctor,
but I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers . . . I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them. . . . For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

—CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Read It All From Cover to Cover, For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

I have proven that this method of healing works in my own experience. You owe it to yourself to try it at our risk and FEEL the results. And I invite you to do just that! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

Pioneer 10 approaches Jupiter.

times as far from the sun as the moon is, and receives only 1/25 as much light to begin with.

Jupiter's light would be a soft yellow, and the two chief belts on either side of the equator would now be clearly visible. The Great Red Spot would be visible in the southern equatorial belt, or at least would become visible as Jupiter rotated.

Jupiter's four large satellites would look like mere points of light at a distance of ten million miles—but they would be bright points. They would appear as bright stars on one side or the other of Jupiter. As you watched, they would move farther or closer; sometimes moving in front of the planet so that a shadow could be seen trailing across Jupiter's lighted surface, sometimes moving behind.

At ten million miles, Jupiter would be in front and the sun behind. Almost the entire face of Jupiter would be illuminated; it would show as a "full-Jupiter," as we see it through a telescope from Earth.

As Pioneer continues to approach Jupiter, however, aiming to one side (there is no desire to have it crash into the planet), the night side would become slowly visible. In other words, Jupiter would begin to resemble a lopsided circle, like the moon when it gets to be a day or two past the full.

Jupiter steadily increases in apparent size. By the time Pioneer is one million miles from Jupiter, the planet will look 8½ times as wide as the moon appears to us, and 13 times as bright. All its belts will be clearly visible. The Great Red Spot itself will be larger in appearance than the full moon is to us—a huge oval, with its color the more washed out, perhaps, the larger it grows.

Pioneer 10 will pass fairly close to three of the large satellites—Ganymede, Europa and Io, in that order—and each will swell up to a large globe, considerably larger than the moon appears to us. Each will probably have a rough, moon-like surface broken by Arctic-like sheets of frost.

By the time we pass the orbit of Io, the innermost of Jupiter's four large satellites, we will be within 200,000 miles of Jupiter's center, closer than our moon is to us. There will be nothing ahead now except the planet itself and one small remaining satellite, Amaltheia. There will not be much chance of seeing Amaltheia (it is a

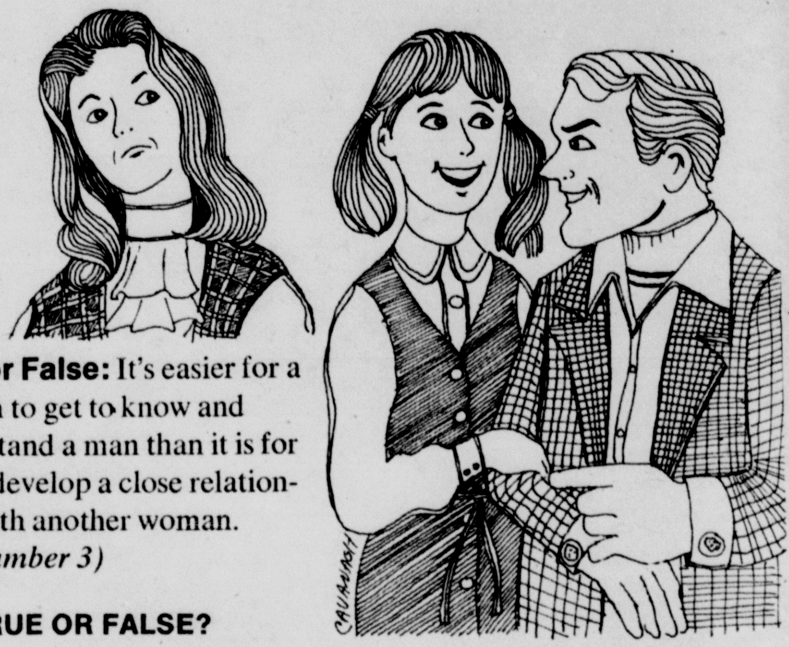
By John E. Gibson

How Good Are You at Getting To Know Other People?



True or False: It's easier for a woman to get to know and understand a man than it is for her to develop a close relationship with another woman.
(See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The best way to get to know a person better is not to talk about yourself, but to ask questions designed to draw him out.

2. People who are well-adjusted are the easiest to get to know.

3. It's easier for a woman to get to know and understand a man than it is for her to develop a close relationship with another woman.

4. One of the best ways to understand another person is to duplicate his facial expressions.

5. When you're introduced to a person you'd like to get to know better, you should bring up conversational topics that are sufficiently controversial to assure a spirited discussion. This will intrigue him and serve to further the relationship.

6. It's easier to get to know a poor man than a rich one.

ANSWERS

1. False—according to one university's studies, which showed that people generally receive as much information from other people as they reveal. Other investigations likewise show that confidence begets confidence, and that one of the best ways to get to know someone better is to take the lead—and let him get to know you.

2. True. Psychological studies at Purdue University have shown that people with well-rounded personalities, who are well-adjusted and emotionally stable, are the easiest people to get to know. On the other hand, the investigation showed that people who are difficult to know—who are disinclined to reveal themselves as they really are—tend to be more neurotic and conflict-ridden.

3. False. Studies have demonstrated that both men and women are capable of better understanding of another person's character when they are of the same sex. It was found that men understand other men's attitudes and motivations better than women do, and the fair sex has the inside track when it comes to other women.

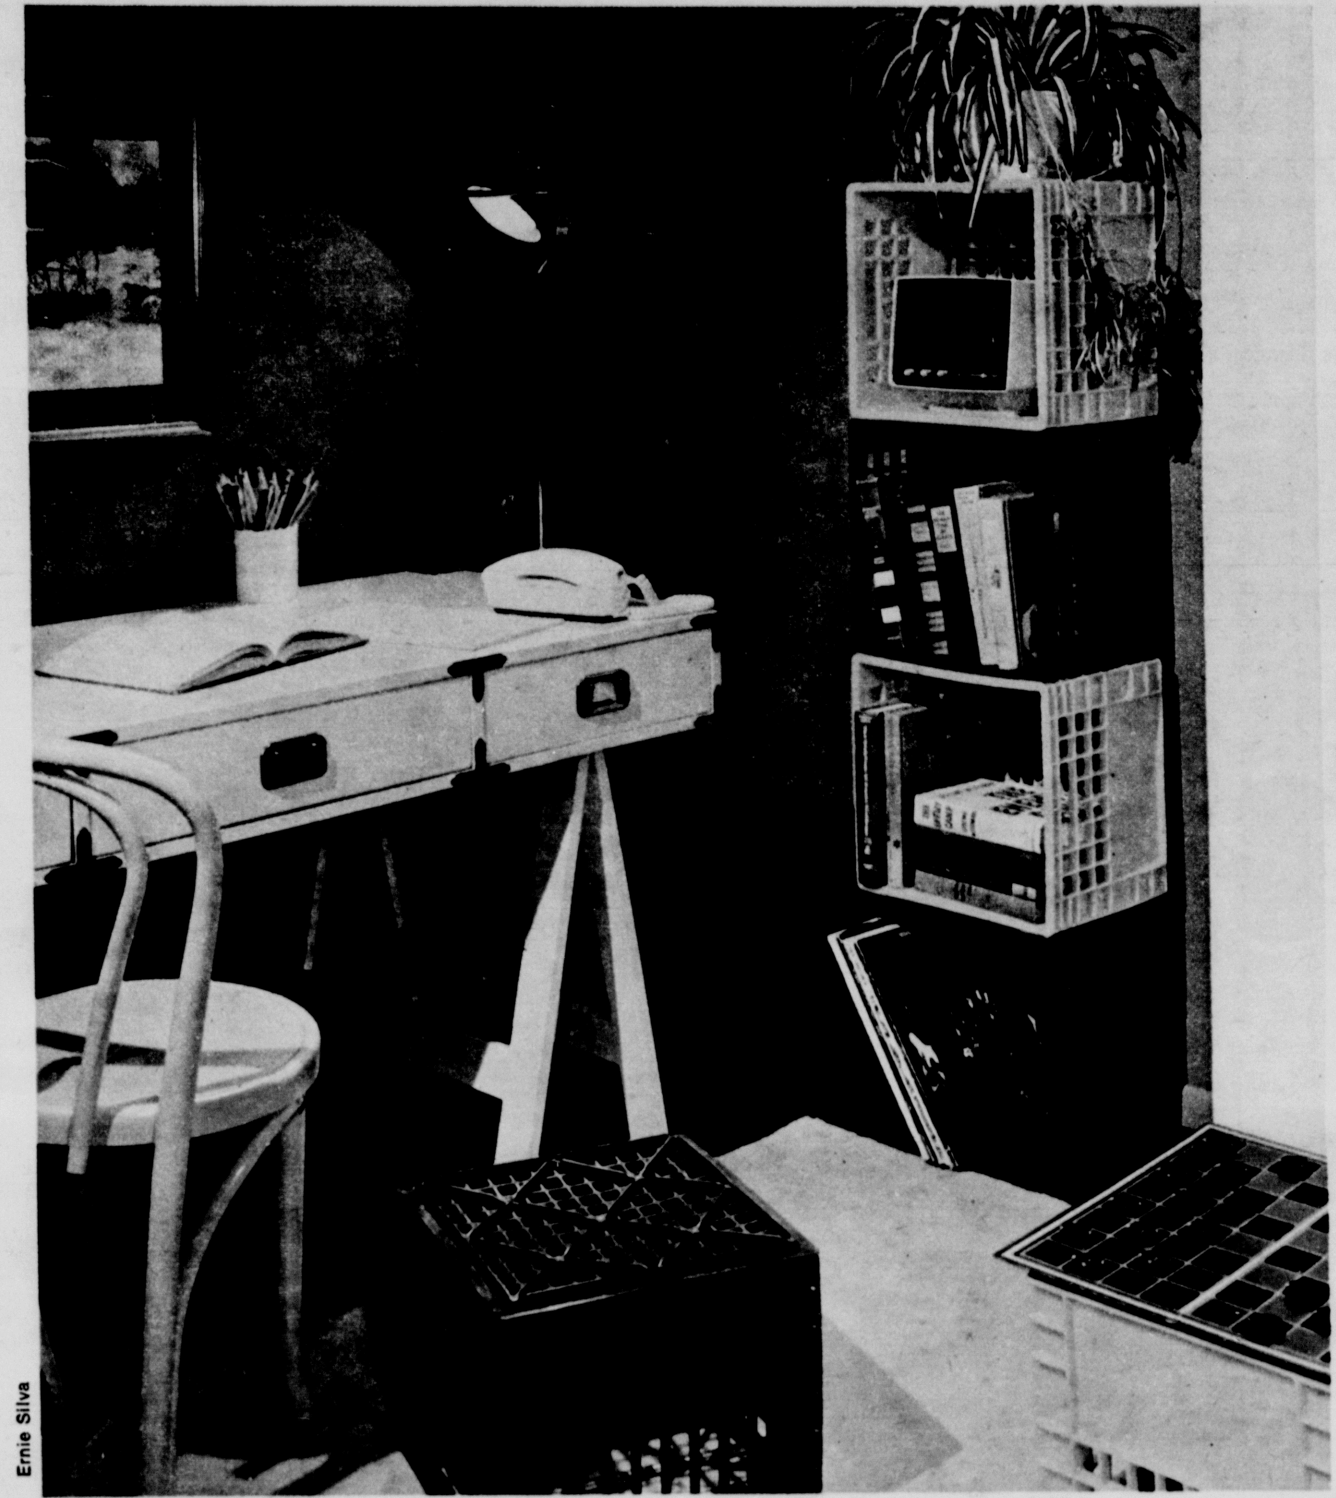
4. True. Studies at New York University have demonstrated that "people can learn to duplicate facial expressions with the aid of a mirror." And other investigations have demonstrated that just as facial expressions mirror a person's feelings and general outlook on life, it is impossible to "wear another's face," even for a few brief moments, without gaining insight into his character and disposition.

5. False—as evidenced by studies at Notre Dame, which show that when two strangers meet, conversational topics that are of a controversial nature—no matter how stimulating—tend to increase the other person's reserve. However, the investigation showed that if the conversation can be kept to topics where agreement is mutual, the other person is likely to open up and reveal far more of himself than he otherwise would.

6. False. At the University of Missouri studies were made on hundreds of men and women of various degrees of affluence, running the gamut from rich to poor. Each person was subjected to psychological interviews designed to determine how willing he was to reveal himself. Findings: There was no relationship between social or economic status and willingness to reveal oneself. ■

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya gives the latest in "affordable" home furnishings. "This Christmas," she suggests, "besides giving each other gifts, why not also invest in presents for the home?"

Gifts to Give Your Home for $100 or Under (And Mostly Under $40)



Ernie Silva

Bright-hued boxes, sturdy enough for an adult to stand on, stack the "stuff" in a family or child's room.

A Gift of Storage (under $6 each)

Ideal for storing almost anything, these colorful, stackable boxes add a bright accent to the family room or a child's room. Available in a spectrum of colors, these versatile boxes by Lustro-Ware have interlocking tops and bottoms. Made of light, durable polyethylene and measuring a roomy 13¼x13¼x11⅛ inches, they have built-in slot handles for easy carrying. See-through sides let you peer at the contents. Available at hardware, discount and department stores, they retail for $5.95 each.

Instant Playhouse (about $16) ▶

An unusual Christmas gift for a child's room, which makes it a "house within a home," is Amsco's inflatable-frame playhouse. It's a special place for playacting, just big enough for a child or two to get into and out of. Made of rugged vinyl, 3x3x4 feet, it is simple to put up and folds flat for storing. Its inflatable tube, on a vinyl frame, can be blown up easily. Its green venetian-blind flap window rolls up or down.

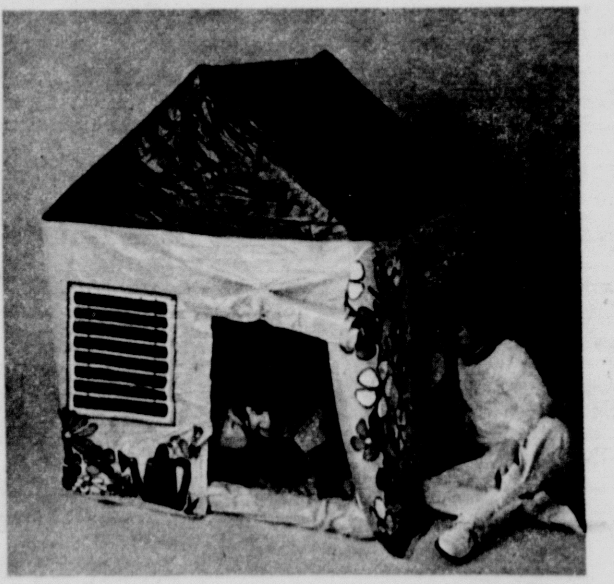
Plants thrive under a special fluorescent light.

Give Your Living Room a "Light" Touch of Nature (about $6)

Plants enhance the appeal of an interior, but often need the aid of artificial horticultural light to color and bloom. In this room, bougainvillea and impatiens are hung at the window to receive natural light. Vita-Lite—a special fluorescent lamp—provides "indoor sunshine," including ultraviolet rays that promote growth and flowering. Directional louvers hide the tubes. The fluorescent tube lamp, approximately $6, is manufactured by Duro-Lite.

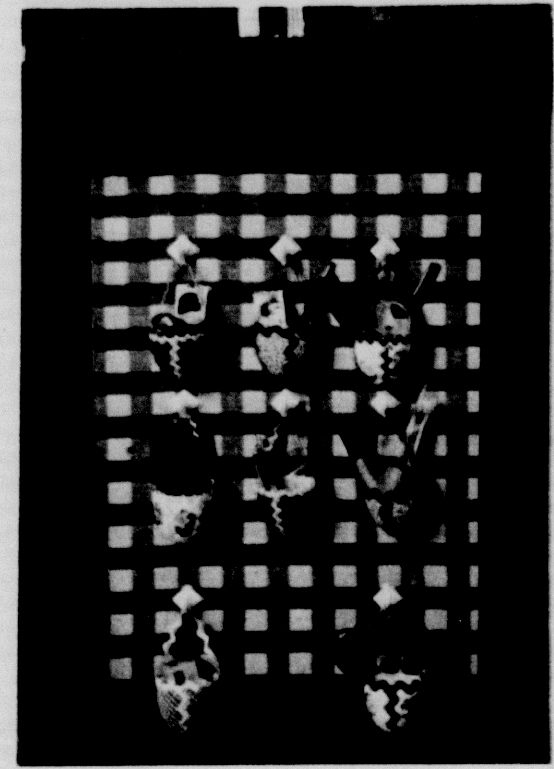


Inflatable playhouse is a "fun" house for kids.

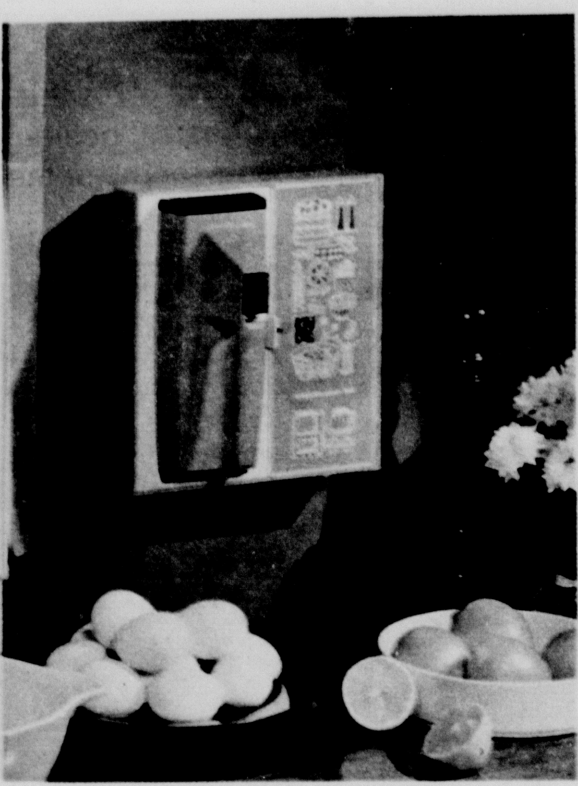
You Can Make This Wall Caddy (under $10)

Cover an 18 x 24-inch piece of corkboard or lightweight wood with gingham or other fabric. Use a staple gun or thumbtacks to secure material tightly to back of board. Next you'll need Styrofoam cups, or halves of eight plastic eggs (we used the larger halves of eggs from L'eggs pantyhose). Cover each cup or egg with material or decals. Cut material into four petal-like strips and glue onto egg. Cover seams and edges with rickrack in a coordinating color. Use rickrack to make a handle. Place self-sticking plastic hooks on board.

Normand Menard



Plastic egg halves function as caddies.



Attractive case keeps mixer handily displayed.

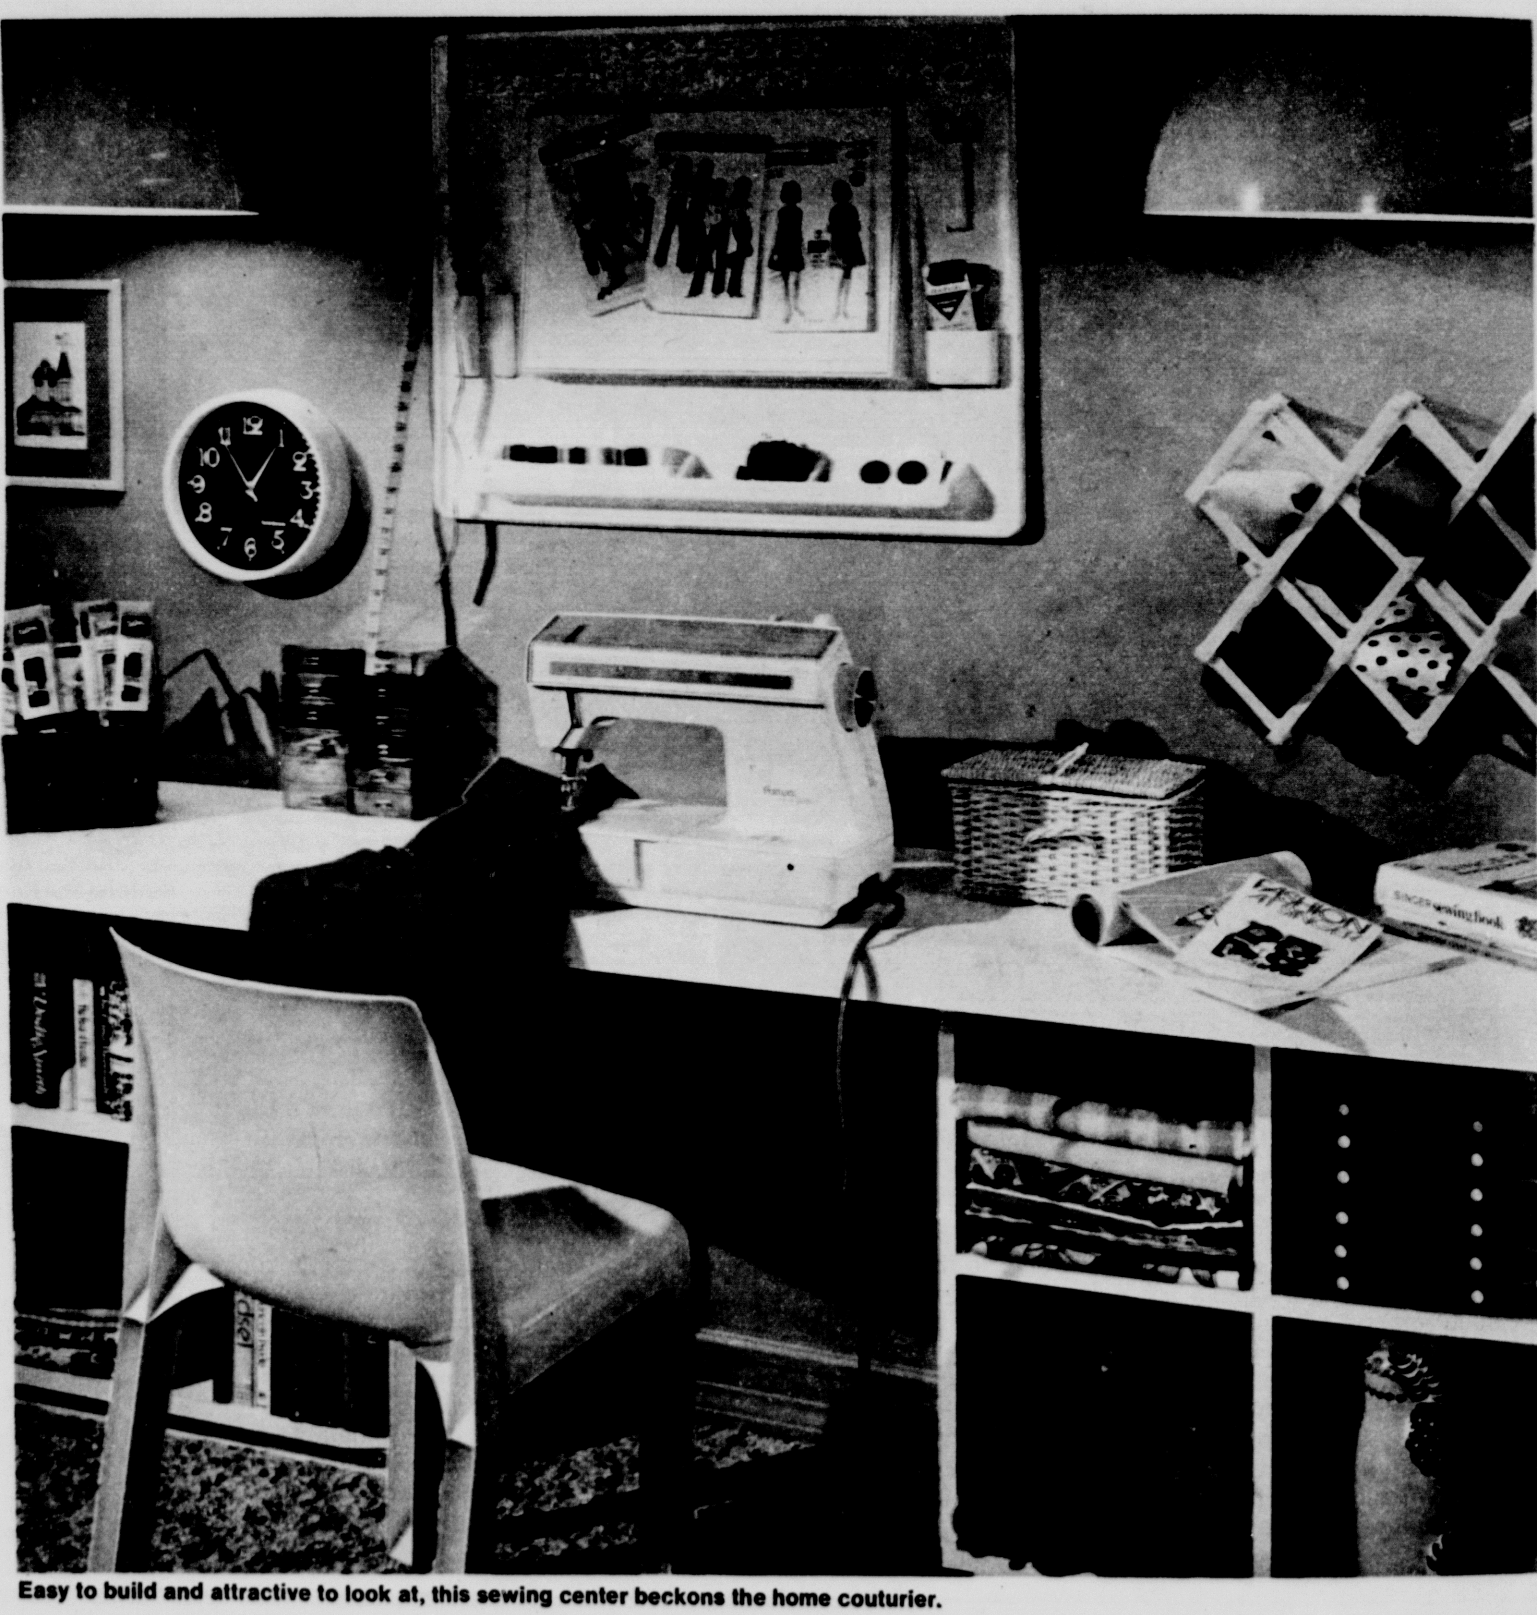
Decorator Appliance With Storage Facilities (Under $17)

Gift your kitchen with a fashionable and functional deluxe five-speed hand mixer from Hamilton Beach that covers all tasks from stirring to whipping. The mixer has an open handle design with padded feel for easy grip and a gourmet decorator case that colorfully depicts many of the appetizing foods this dependable 125-watt mixer can quickly turn into reality. The handsome case also neatly stores beaters and detachable cord when mixer is not in use. In tawny yellow or parsley green, it is a nifty gift for $16.95.

Storage at Your Fingertips

Build Your Own Sewing Center (under $75)

There's a place for everything and everything's in its place in this bright and practical sewing corner. The unit-to-build is simplicity itself—a charming, colorful addition to the bedroom or basement. Designed by Shirley Regendahl, this sewing table has deep shelves to store fabric, books, yarn, while the sewing-accessory holder on the wall keeps scissors, thread and buttons within easy reach. Singer's "Futura" sewing machine (handsome enough not to put away) is settled between two ceiling-attached fixtures that light up your work. Carpeting by Bigelow. For instructions on how to build the unit, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Singer Company, Box 6219 FW, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.



Easy to build and attractive to look at, this sewing center beckons the home couturier.

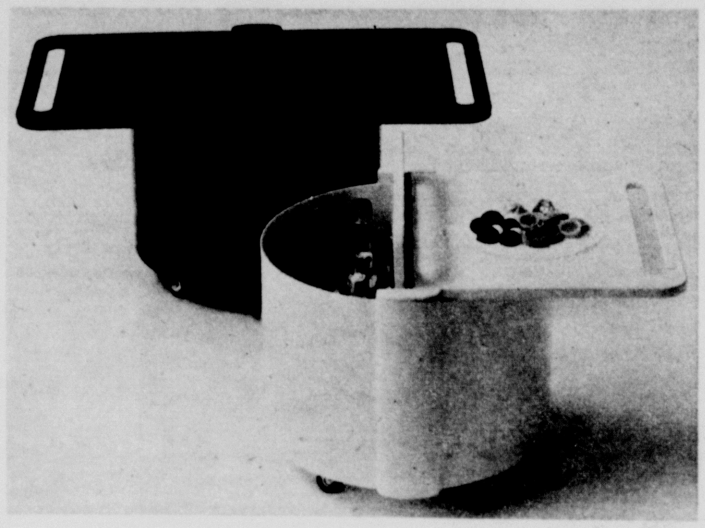
Wall-Hung Glass Shelf Fits Into Any Area

Give a Gift of Space (About $75)

Here's the kind of space that family members can use—in the form of an exquisitely designed glass shelf, hung on the wall with two chromium brackets. Mother can use this desk in the kitchen as she plans her menus, and Dad certainly will appreciate it in the bedroom or den when he has some work to complete. Since the shelf is small, it can fit into corners and nooks that are too tiny for a regular desk. Other areas for this versatile piece? Put one up in your entranceway and top it with a mirror. It will give a gracious welcome to your guests and serve as a handy place to put your mail. One or two shelves in the dining area would be useful to put cups and saucers on at mealtime. As for this Yule season, what a dandy place to write thank-you notes for the lovely things Santa will bring this year! By Selig.

In the American Tradition (under $100)

The dozen brass mini-knobs of this spice-chest design add an authentic touch of Early Americana, but the piece actually has two deep drawers that are handy for stowing away games, cards and party goodies. Peters-Revington made this multi-functional occasional end table of solid northern pine with a mellow burnished-brown finish.



The Go-and-Serve Cart (Under $50)

The mystical appeal of anything shaped in a circle, the smart contemporary look, and the practicality of this mobile storage piece assure its future popularity—and make it a great gift. The cart, which moves on casters, has two leaves. They act as a storage divider and a handle, pull up to create a small table. Made of shiny, durable ABS plastic, the piece is available in white, yellow or cocoa. An Italian design from Directional.

Even at the Zoo everybody has a gimmick . . . almost everybody. Find the one who doesn't.

1. No. He's Miles Tugo, underwear salesman pretending he's a jogger. Gimmick: Cigarettes with filters so thick every time he inhales, his ears pop. 2. Meet Livingston I. Presume, gorilla. A latent Homo Sapien, who throws tires at anybody who doesn't believe in Evolution. 3. Nope. He's Jerry Bilt, zoo painter. Holds gimmick: A long pole to paint ape's cage (says he's allergic to fur and having his leg pulled off). His Maxi-Long cigarettes easily break in half, too. 4 & 5. No and no. They're Sam and Janet Evening, movie team making a low budget jungle picture: "King Kong Gives Detroit A Hickie." 6. He's Skip Tickel. Was given this address to deliver 12 Chinese dinners. Gimmick: Smokes cigarettes with filters so hollow he talks with an echo. 7. Right. He prefers wildlife to wild gimmicks. Wants no nonsense in his cigarette, either. Camel Filters. Good taste. Honest tobacco. 8. No. It's either the symbol of a high-quality cigarette, or a high-rise sheep.

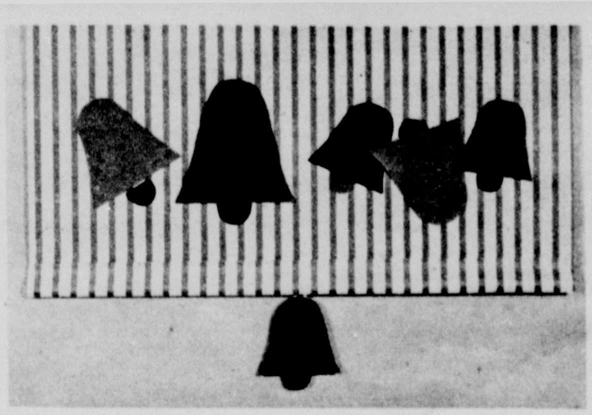
Contemporary Memorabilia Plaque Looks Time-Worn

Create a Memorabilia Plaque (about $5)

Add the mellow touch of time to announcements, invitations, a favorite poster, postcard or photograph. Choose any item as long as it is heavier than newsprint. Simulate the effects of aging by lightly burning the edges over a candle flame. Run a finger over the charred area to remove loose material. Select the base material of wood, slate, brick, stone or tile, being sure that it is at least one to two inches larger on all sides than the item after burning. Distressed and stained wood is most effective. Use the claw of a hammer to gouge the wood area that will frame the item. Stain front, back and sides of wood. Allow to dry thoroughly. Apply a white glue, such as Elmer's Glue-All or School Glue, with a damp cloth over back of memorabilia, spreading evenly. Center the item onto the base material, using a damp cloth to wipe away excess glue. Smooth surface with a dry cloth, working from center to edges to eliminate air bubbles. Allow to dry, then spray lightly with a finishing coat such as Krylon Crystal Clear Gloss or Matte protective coating. Four coats are recommended, and each should be allowed to dry thoroughly. If desired, "sign" your plaque by using a sharp instrument such as a nail or awl. Mount on easel, frame or hang by attaching appropriate picture hangers. Approximate cost to make, about $5 for a 12x12-inch size plaque. The ones shown were designed by Nancy Kaye. For additional gift ideas for your home, send 25 cents to cover postage and handling to "Christmas Creativity" booklet, Dept. FW-11, P.O. Box 266, Medina, Ohio 44256.



A Holiday Shade for Christmas (about $4)

Here's a fun do-it-yourself gift project. This handsome red-and-white "Cabana Stripe" window shade lends itself beautifully to all sorts of gala ideas. This one, by Joanna, was treated to a paste-on border of Christmas bells cut from several tones of green felt. The gay shade pull is another felt bell, backed with cardboard for sturdiness. Cut out the felt bells carefully with a sharp scissors and arrange them in a design on the shade. Then apply the glue to the reverse side of the ornament, making sure the entire surface is covered before pressing it into place. Smooth carefully. Always use an adhesive that remains flexible when dry so the shade can be rolled up when necessary. The cost is minimal; a shade 37¼ inches wide and 6 feet long costs approximately $4.

It's the best present I ever got.

At our house Christmas was roaring fires and red-faced, blue-nosed relatives who came trooping in from the cold with armloads of gifts. Aunt Nel always made us kids save the wrappings. Christmas was me racing coatless through the snow to fetch more of the firewood I'd chopped while pretending to be Abe Lincoln, Paul Bunyon ... anyone but me chopping wood all day on the day before Christmas.

I remember how Christmas was. How I'd rip, tear, yank open the biggest, most promising gift. Only to find a doll for Sue or a tablecloth. Inevitably someone got the cards confused.

But this year after 38 years of hoping and opening the biggest gift and finding it meant for somebody else—this year the biggest gift really was for me. How did they know I wanted a McCulloch chain saw?

Not just any chain saw, a McCulloch Mini Mac 1 (for only $99.95*). Because one chain saw is not just as good as another. And unless you happen to be an expert on chain saws, how do you know which is which?

You look at the manufacturer. For over a quarter of a century professional loggers have depended on McCulloch chain saws for their livelihood. Obviously, McCulloch really knows how to build fine chain saws.

Mini Mac 1 is no exception. It's the original lightweight, the power unit only weighs 6.9 pounds. It cuts fast and sure whether firewood, building projects or tree pruning. Even cuts through a 20" log. Mini Mac 1 is all the chain saw Dad needs.

Why settle for just any chain saw, when you can get a McCulloch for only $99.95.* Give Dad the quality he deserves. Give him a McCulloch this Christmas.

Mini Mac 1 only... $99.95

The "Everything" Table (Under $22)

Here's a great gift idea for families who live in limited spaces—a multipurpose table that does everything from serving holiday buffets to doubling as a sewing, game, study or work table. Cosco's foldable table is a handy 20x 48-inch rectangle that hugs the wall when it's up and tucks conveniently away when not in use. Available in simulated Spanish-oak grain or antique-gold vinyl top, on a bronze-finished frame.

SHEAFFER, WORLD-WIDE, A textron COMPANY

By Shirley Jones
as told to Peer J. Oppenheimer

"The Heart of Our Christmas Is in Our Kitchen"

Pictorial Parade

Shirley is surrounded by her "three lively boys," Ryan, Pat and Shaun.

"Our Christmas tree is always real and green. No plastic and spray paint for us! Decorating it has been Jack's job—until the last couple of years, that is. He is very meticulous and very artistic. He's overseen the decorating of the whole house."

Christmas is my very favorite time of the year. It always has been. Even when I was a little girl.

My grandmother had ten children, so even though I was an only child I grew up surrounded by family. Every year at Christmas my grandmother would gather all of us together for a holiday dinner, and we kids would entertain. We'd prepare all year for the big event. Mostly my cousins hung back, and my aunts would urge, "Recite your piece, dear!" or "Dance, Judy, dance!" But not me. I was such a ham I always had two or three songs all ready to sing. You couldn't hold me back.

I looked forward to those reunions. And I loved Christmas in Smithton, Pa., where I grew up. I miss a white Christmas desperately. So much, in fact, that last year we rented a marvelous old 17th-century farmhouse in Poundridge, N.Y., near the Connecticut border, just for the holidays. It came complete with a frozen pond on which we could ice-skate. But no snow. Not one flake last Christmas! I was so disappointed!

I've tried to bring all of the things I loved about Christmas into my children's Christmases. Fortunately, Jack [Shirley's husband of 18 years, Jack Cassidy] and I feel the same way. We don't have big family gatherings anymore. When we were first married and lived in a New York apartment, we used to collect all of the stragglers from out of town and I'd cook a big Christmas dinner for all of us. Now we live in a "Connecticut" farmhouse, Beverly Hills' style, and we've gradually discovered that three lively boys —Shaun, 16, Patrick, 11, Ryan, 7— create quite enough excitement on Christmas.

Our yellow-and-white kitchen is the heart of our home. At Christmas the boys like to decorate the cookies I bake, but we don't hang any on the tree—even if there were any left after the boys finished "tasting." We once strung popcorn, but Jack is so fastidious, it bothered him to think of having food hanging around!

I have special Christmas-colored tea towels I keep just for the holidays. And we always use the gay red-felt place mats with a spray of holly in one corner that a friend made for me. Actually I think my lovely old copper pots and pans hanging in the kitchen are decoration enough. Most of them are antiques, collected from all over. Like the kettles we found in England last March, and shipped home. I like having them out for everyone to see. I think they're pretty, and they're very handy this way.

On Christmas the boys go wild, closeted all day with the good aromas coming from the kitchen, waiting for five o'clock to roll around. It usually takes me that long to get everything ready. I cook the traditional dinner myself—from scratch. Down to the pie crusts. And I chase everyone out while I'm working.

We always have roast turkey. A big one! Jack likes to make the stuffing, using the giblets. He's an excellent cook. Then we have mashed potatoes with chopped onions, homemade gravy, tiny peas with new onions, hot biscuits—and mashed rutabaga, an addition because of Jack's German heritage. I also make coleslaw, which he likes. For dessert, hot-mincemeat or lemon-meringue pie. Jack likes the mincemeat; the lemon is my favorite. And the three boys take after me in this department.

I decorate the dining room table with a centerpiece made of an enormous white candle and white leaves. It's beautiful on the wooden table. Our floor is of dark wood also, laid in squares. The backs and seats of the wooden chairs are covered in orange velvet; the drapes are of burnt orange. I like to combine red and orange for the holiday season. It's very warm and festive.

The best part of having a stairway in a home is decorating the balustrade for various occasions, and it lends itself perfectly to garlands of holly and good-smelling evergreen tied with red-velvet bows.

For the big coffee table in the center of the living room I have a huge sleigh that I fill to the brim with gold and silver balls.

Our Christmas tree is always real and green. No plastic and spray paint for us! Decorating it has been Jack's job—until the last couple of years, that is. He is very meticulous and very artistic. He's overseen the redecorating of the whole house. Someplace in the San Fernando Valley he found the fantastic big chopping block I have in the middle of the kitchen. It's very old and marred by years and years of use. Now I use it—constantly. I can't imagine what I ever did without it! I do everything on it, even sit at it to have my morning cup of coffee and read the paper.

The last couple of years Shaun has taken over decorating our tree. Like father like son: It is still simple and elegant, with either green or red-and-white lights, the ornaments we've saved from year to year, a few carefully placed candy canes, and strands of silver tinsel and red rope wrapped around. An angel, made for us by a friend, crowns the top.

This is the first Christmas the boys have had their own rooms. Until we remodeled, Shaun, being the oldest, was the only one to have a domain, and he used his allowance to buy a little tree and decorate his room with felt and construction-paper ornaments. This year the other two have a chance to do the same.

Santa Claus still mysteriously arrives at our house during the night. Jack was brought up in the European tradition of opening presents Christmas Eve, so he and I exchange our personal gifts at that time. Then in the morning—very early, I might add—the boys are up and there are all the surprises under the tree and stuffed into the beautiful, long, knitted red stockings that another friend made for each of us, complete with our names stitched in white.

Another thing I enjoy and have turned into a tradition is the Christmas grab bag hanging in the entry. It's an old pillowcase I covered with red bows and fill with about 20 one-dollar gifts. I wrap each individually, and no matter who comes to the door during the holidays, they get to stick their hand in and pick one. I got the idea at a party years ago, and everyone seems to delight in it. I guess it appeals to the child in all of us. And what better time to indulge such whimsy than at Christmas! fw

1 pkg. active dry yeast
1¼ cups warm water
¼ cup olive or vegetable oil
½ cups (about) unsifted all-purpose flour or unsifted enriched unbleached white flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon coarse ground pepper
2 cups Pizza Tomato Sauce, recipe below
½ lb shredded mozzarella
½ lb. grated provolone
Pizza Topping Suggestions:
¼ lb. thinly sliced pepperoni
¼ lb. thinly sliced salami
½ lb. precooked ground beef
½ lb. precooked Italian sausage, sliced
1 cup onion rings
1 cup green-pepper chunks
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 can (2 ozs.) anchovies, drained

1. In large bowl sprinkle yeast over ¼ cup warm water. Stir to dissolve. Add remaining water and olive oil.

2. With large spoon, beat in 1½ cups flour until smooth; continue beating 2 minutes. Add salt, pepper and enough remaining flour to make a stiff dough.

3. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place in oiled bowl, turning to oil top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

4. Punch dough down; divide in half. Press onto a lightly oiled pizza pan or large baking sheet, making 12-inch circles with ½-inch-high borders.

5. Preheat oven to 400°F. Spread each round with 1 cup tomato sauce. Top with cheese mixture.

6. Bake 20-25 minutes, until crust is golden brown.

7. Hand guests mitt-type potholder, a trivet and a pizza cutter (or kitchen shears) and let them choose their toppings.

Makes 2 pizzas, 4 hefty servings

"Participation Pizza" recipe was suggested by FAMILY WEEKLY reader Bonnie Brooks of Salisbury, Md.

Makes about 2 cups

HUNGER WAS ALL SHE HAD EVER KNOWN

Margaret was found in a back lane of Calcutta, lying in her doorway, unconscious from hunger. Inside, her mother had just died in childbirth.

You can see from the expression on Margaret's face that she didn't understand why her mother couldn't get up, or why her father didn't come home, or why the dull throb in her stomach wouldn't go away.

What you can't see is that Margaret was dying of malnutrition. She had periods of fainting, her eyes strangely glazed. Next would come a bloated stomach, falling hair, parched skin. And finally, death from malnutrition, a killer that claims 10,000 lives every day.

Meanwhile, in America we eat 4.66 pounds of food a day per person, then throw away enough to feed a family of six in India.

If you were to suddenly join the ranks of 1½ billion people who are forever hungry, your next meal might be a bowl of rice, day after tomorrow a piece of fish the size of a silver dollar, later in the week more rice—maybe.

Hard-pressed by the natural disasters and phenomenal birth rate, the Indian government is valiantly trying to curb what Mahatma Gandhi called "The Eternal Compulsory Fast."

But Margaret's story has a happy ending, thanks to the American who sponsored her. And for only $12 a month you can also sponsor a needy child, helping provide food, clothing shelter—and love.

You will receive the child's picture, personal history, and the opportunity to exchange letters, Christmas cards—and priceless friendship.

Since 1938, American sponsors have found this to be an intimate, person-to-person way of sharing their blessings with youngsters around the world.

So won't you help? Today?

Sponsors urgently needed this month for children in: India, Brazil, Philippines, Indonesia and Guatemala. (Or let us select a child for you from our emergency list.)

Until today, opulent beauty like this was restricted to the Rajahs and Maharajas of India, or the very wealthy! The photograph above can only begin to convey the dazzling richness of the reds, the greens, the golds . . . the almost 3-dimensional depth of the design! Each has been hand-loomed and meticulously block-printed by skilled, unhurried Indian craftsmen trained for generations in the arts of looming and printing. Flight to Jupiter mere 70 miles across), but no one will be looking for it, since Jupiter, like a monster, will fill the sky.

When Pioneer reaches its minimum distance from Jupiter, it will be only 128,000 miles from its center and 81,000 miles or so above its cloud layer. Although we will only be seeing a "half-Jupiter," it will be 8,500 times as large as the half-moon we see from Earth, and over 1,200 times as bright. By now, you will see Jupiter's belts as heaving, moving objects. You will be close enough to see the vast unrest and turbulence of Jupiter's atmosphere. What from Earth appear to be trifling spots and irregularities in the belt will seem huge coilings and uncoilings of storms involving areas of atmosphere larger than all of Earth.

Look closely and quickly at these enormous writhings, for they will not be visible long. Caught in Jupiter's gravitational field, Pioneer 10, which had been losing speed since leaving Earth, will be gaining speed again. It will be very close to Jupiter for only a few hours, then will be whipped away into space. Its instruments will continue to record radio waves, cosmic rays, charged particles and so on, but what you can see with your eyes will rapidly dwindle.

The rendezvous with Jupiter is over. The planet, a bare crescent, is shrinking steadily as we move away at the rate of 11 miles per second. In the weeks and months ahead, gigantic Jupiter will become just a dim spot of light near the sun.

In 1977, Pioneer 10, long since having completed its messages to Earth, will be passing the orbit of Saturn. By 1980 it will have reached the orbit of Uranus, and by 1987 it will have passed beyond the orbit of Pluto, the most distant planet.

On and on it will travel, out into the space between the stars, never to return to the solar system. Inside Pioneer is a slab designed by astronomers Frank Donald Drake and Carl Edward Sagan, and drawn by Linda Sagan. On the slab, information concerning man and his knowledge is drawn in sophisticated fashion. Whether any intelligent beings will ever see it, we can't say. But if any do find it, it will probably be only after many millions of years. By then, for all we know, mankind may no longer exist. fw

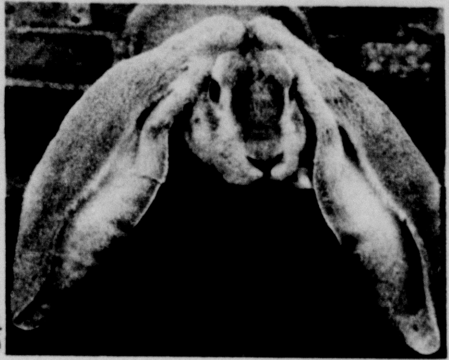
"Distinction" plus for Alexandra

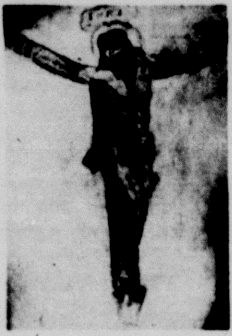
Perfect pitch is only one of the rare gifts bestowed on ten-year-old Alexandra Birch. Recently she passed a music examination with a mark five points above "distinction" level. That puts her only a step away from becoming a Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music, where a spokesman commented: "She could sit her examination for the performer's LRAM whenever she feels ready—there is no age limit." Alexandra, who lives with her musical parents in Essex, England, also plays the violin and the recorder. She practices the piano four hours a day and is already more qualified than many music teachers. Modest about her achievements, she said of her examination results: "I'm very pleased. . . . It was better than I expected."



Bips

WHAT'S UP, DOC?
Ear spread: 24 inches

Bugs Bunny? Wrong! This is a Lop—a fancy species of rabbit that was popular in England during the 19th century. Recently, however, Lops are making a comeback. Renowned for their enormous ears, the Lop rabbit has no other known use in life except to be as soft and decorative as Loppy, the rabbit shown here. Loppy's ear spread is three inches short of the record 27 inches. But Ken Edwards, Loppy's owner, is hoping Loppy will break the record when he reaches maturity.



Remember this mysterious "masterpiece," painted on a jail wall by an unknown artist? Well, the artist has been found, thanks to Action Line reporter Jim Newton of the Journal News in Hamilton, Ohio. The painting, done some 40 years ago in a St. Louis jail, is the work of one Melvin Perry, an artist, who sought refuge in the St. Louis Central District Police Station one wintery evening during the Depression. The jailer, so the story goes, found him and kicked him out before he was able to complete the almost life-sized crucifixion. Hence the figure's missing right hand. According to Newton, Perry is now a nationally recognized artist working out of Loma Linda, Calif. It's said that sketches, paintings and murals from his "lean years" can be found in unlikely bars and restaurants around the country.

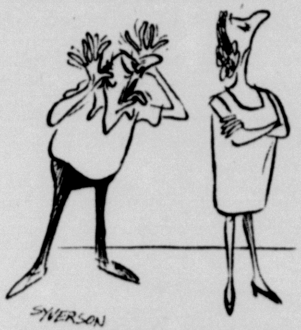
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



NO DEFENSE AGAINST IT

Most women, anyhow the bulk,
Do something that is known as sulk,
Or much the same, I have no doubt,
They turn their lips down and they
pout.
They say no word, they make no sound,
And this is part of it, I've found.
The "silent treatment" it is called
And leaves men helpless and appalled.
Men try to solace, try to flatter,
But nothing really seems to matter.
It's woman's way, it's not a crime,
And passes, happily, in time.

An alarm clock is a small mechanical device to wake up people who have no children. —Gene Yasenak

Distracted mother to youngster in high chair refusing her food: "Eat your cereal, dear, so you can grow up strong enough to make your children eat theirs." —Henry Leabo

My second cousin and his obviously pregnant wife, Mary Jane, stopped in for a visit the other day. After a pleasant afternoon, my six-year-old son Jimmy and I bade them good-bye. As Mary Jane left, Jimmy eyed her up and down and then remarked, as only a six-year-old can: "You know, Mom, Mary Jane looks different—I think her head's getting smaller." —Mrs. Bill O'Brien
St. Peter, Minn.

I won't say how I've done in the stock market but my wife says we're the only family on our street with a bread-loser. —Robert Orben

She: "You deceived me before our marriage. You said you were well off."
He: "I was. More than I realized."
—Thomas LaMance

With all the medical shows on TV, it would seem only fair for Blue Cross to pay the repair bills on my set.
—Henry Leabo

The customer returned his monthly payment card with his check. The card was not stapled, folded or creased in any way, but it did contain an error in the spelling of his name along with this terse message: "Dear Machine: You have again spelled my name incorrectly. Please correct and acknowledge. If not corrected by next month, I shall bend your card!" —Lucille J. Goodyear
